Senate Backs Eisenhower Plan To Reorganize Agriculture Dept.

Legion Raps Plan To Admit 240,000 Europe Refugees

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to admit an additional 240,000 immigrants from Europe came under heavy fire in a Senate hearing today.

The American Legion opposed it as a "'back door' attack" on the system of admitting aliens under a national quota system. Crete Anderson, Canton, O., businessman and chairman of the Legion's immigration committee, testified for the big veterans organization.

"Should our investigators be 99 per cent correct in their risky decisions and wrong in the remaining 1 per cent," he told the Senate immigration subcommittee, "it would mean an addition of 1,250 potential spies and saboteurs to our present 'powder keg' situation."

Many "Criminal" Refugees

Richard Arens, subcommittee counsel, reported that U. S. security officials in Europe had told him 40 per cent of the refugees from Eastern Europe excluding Berlin, are now considered in the "criminal or subversive" class. There was no information on the other 60 per cent or on Berlin refugees, he added.

Republican Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota attacked the bill's lack of any provision to admit Chinese refugees, especially American-trained leaders now in Hong Kong.

"In its present form," he said, "the bill will do just as much good to our enemies as if it were written in the Kremlin."

He based that view on the idea that it would bolster Communist propaganda that the U. S. is unconcerned with Asians.

Endorsements Of Plan, Too

Opposition also came from Merwin K. Hart of the National Economic Council, a private organization.

There were endorsements of the plan, too. One was from Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse, and another from a spokesman of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. Morse pointed to the serious shortage of farm workers in some U. S. areas. European immigrants, he said, would add to the labor force and "reduce the pull from the farms."

Resolution To Kill Proposal Defeated

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower's reorganization plan for the Agriculture Department won a Senate vote of confidence today. A 46-29 roll call killed a resolution of disapproval offered by Sen. Russell (D-Ga).

The 29 votes for the Russell resolution were 20 short of the number needed to reject the plan.

A Presidential reorganization plan can be blocked by either the Senate or the House, but only if at least 49 senators or 218 House members vote against it.

The House has not yet voted on the Agriculture Department plan. Unless it turns it down, the plan will go into effect on June 4.

House Resolution Pending

Pending in the House is a resolution by Rep. Fountain (D-NC) similar to that of Russell, to kill the plan. Only one Republican, Sen. Langer of North Dakota, and Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore-Ind) joined 27 Democrats in voting for Russell's resolution. Supporting the President's plan were 35 Republicans and 11 Democrats. Only 75 of the 96 Senators voted.

Russell, in fighting the reorganization plan, called for a statement of administration farm policies.

Russell attacked the plan as giving Secretary of Agriculture Benson "blank check authority," and said Benson "has no plan."

He also criticized what he said was the "wait and see attitude" of Benson on an over-all farm program, and said the secretary "should make up his mind and take the farmer into his confidence."

Russell, Aiken Disagree

Russell said the organization plan "is an open invitation for Congress to abandon its powers," and if it is approved "We may as well shut up shop as far as agricultural legislation is concerned."

But Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said the plan would give Benson "authority to see to it that all the agencies carry out the intent of Congress." He predicted it would result in economies which might reach millions of dollars.

The plan would give Benson full authority to reshuffle all but four of the score of agencies now under his general jurisdiction. Some of them have semi-independent status, but the reorganization plan would transfer all such powers to the secretary, who then could delegate them as he sees fit.

Exempted from such change are the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, the Office of Hearing Examiners, and the Farm Credit Administration.

Chrysler Grants Union Increased Pension Benefits

DETROIT, May 27 (AP)—Chrysler Corporation tonight amended its five-year contract with the CIO United Auto Workers to include all the benefits granted the union earlier this week by General Motors Corporation and the Ford Motor Company.

Tonight the union went back to General Motors, the first of the Big Three to agree to contract changes, in an effort to boost GM pensions up to the new Ford and Chrysler level.

GM agreed to all the new Ford and Chrysler changes last Friday but rejected the union's demand for a raise in its $125 a month pensions.

The benefits apply to 120,000 hourly rated and salaried Chrysler employes and 1,900 retired Chrysler workers.

Paul Reynaud's Bid Is Rejected

PARIS, May 27 (INS) — Paul Reynaud failed tonight in his bid to form a new French government when the National Assembly turned down his nomination for the premiership.

The 74-year-old independent received 276 votes in favor and 235 against. There were 89 abstentions. He needed 314 votes for appointment.

Voting took place at an all-night session of the Assembly.

Reynaud had asked the Assembly to endorse him as premier only if it intends to approve his constitutional reform program to strengthen the government and give it a better chance of survival in time of crisis.

Thousands Face Pay Cut As Index Drops

WASHINGTON, May 27 (INS) — A possible two-cents-per-hour pay cut is in store today for thousands of automobile and farm implement workers as result of a drop in the "old-style" cost-of-living index.

The pay of many employes of the Chrysler Corp. and International Harvester is still tied to the old method of computing living costs which the government plans to abandon.

A decline of three-tenths of one per cent was recorded by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the month ending April 15. This brought the old-style index down to 188.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Sailor's Body Found

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—The body of a young unidentified man in a navy enlisted man's uniform was found in a wooded section in the suburb of Essex today.

Police said his had was so badly bashed in it was not possible to determine immediately whether he was shot or clubbed.

New Job For Collins

WASHINGTON, May 27 (INS)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, retiring Army chief of staff, was named by President Eisenhower today to become U. S. representative on the Atlantic pact military committee when his term expires Aug. 15.

Congresswomen Consider Bill To Erase Handbag Tax

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—A group of congresswomen today considered a proposal to drop a tax that literally hits them right in the pocketbook—the present so-called luxury tax on ladies' handbags.

There are 12 women in this Congress and eight of them showed up at a luncheon discussion of bills introduced by two of them, Representatives St. George (R-NY) and Kelly (D-NY).

These bills call for the elimination of the 20 per cent excise tax on handbags.

"There is no question," Mrs. Kelly said, "but that the tax is discriminatory."

Max Berkowitz, a spokesman for the handbag industry, put it this way:

"To a woman, a handbag is essential. Where do they get this 'luxury' tax business? It's just the same as if you put a tax on men's pants pockets."

Whether the eight women will react to the bills as women—and vote as a group to ask for the removal of the tax—isn't known. The meeting was informal, and reporters were shooed out of the room.

But Berkowitz, with 53 years in the handbag business, was eager to state the arguments for dropping the tax.

"Now you go out and buy an Oriental rug, for instance," he said, "and you pay $1,000 for it. Do you pay a luxury tax? No.

"Or a woman goes downtown and she wants to buy some first class underthings—what do you call them? Well, anyway, fancy pants—and maybe she pays $10 for them. "Does she pay a luxury tax? No.

"But every time she buys a handbag, even if it is just for one of the kids from the five-and-ten, she pays a tax."

Timing Of Taft "Go-It-Alone" Idea Assailed

May Have Ruined Chances For Truce, Sparkman Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said today that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) "may have torpedoed chances for a truce in Korea" with his speech in Cincinnati last night.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, suggested that "we might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean War is concerned."

He said he did not believe in the U. N. as an effective means to prevent aggression and that if a truce cannot be reached the United States should "let England and our other allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

Ike Policy "Contradiction"

Sparkman said this is "a diametrical contradiction" of President Eisenhower's policy. Taft's speech, Sparkman told a reporter, "amounts to telling our allies, England, France, India and others, that 'we don't need you and don't want you'."

Sparkman, the Democrats' vice presidential nominee last year, is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a former American delegate to the United Nations.

He protested that Taft's speech, read before the National Conference of Christians and Jews by his son, Robert A. Taft Jr., was badly timed, coming at a crucial point in the truce negotiations.

"Very Bad Timing"

"I can't understand the very bad timing in this," Sparkman said.

"Communist Russia has been trying to drive a wedge between the United Nations Allies, and now Sen. Taft's speech appears to do it for them."

The U. N. has just made a new truce proposal to the Communists and is awaiting their answer.

While Taft was saying that "even the best truce under present conditions will be extremely unsatisfactory," Eisenhower issued a statement reaffirming American support of the U. N.-approved principles in the Korean truce talks.

Fowler Says Ike May Be Leading Country Into Demobilization

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 27 (AP)—Former Mobilization Chief Henry H. Fowler said today the Eisenhower administration's plan to cut defense spending may be leading this nation into demobilization.

And he voiced concern over what he called the administration's "stretchout and cutback of armed forces and military production goals."

Making a new plea for his pet project, a national mobilization base, Fowler said that to achieve national security Americans must pay an "annual insurance premium" in talent, money and material resources.

11 Governors Pledge Speeder Crackdown

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27 (AP)—Governors of 11 northeastern states today pledged a crackdown on highway speeders during the summer vacation months.

They warned prospective tourists, as well as residents, that "firm, impartial traffic law enforcement" can be expected from police and in the traffic courts.

The joint proclamation was issued through Paul E. Burke of Baltimore, Secretary of the Northeastern State Safety Coordinators. It was signed by governors of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Sen. Morse Assails Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) said today The Associated Press is a "slanted news reporting service" with a "bunch of clever writers skilled in the use of snide, reputation-assassinating adjectives."

He declared, in a Senate speech, that publishers who own The Associated Press are by and large "reactionary businessmen" who do not like an outspoken "representative of the Independent party."

Car Crossing Picket Line Fells Deputy

Special Deputy Sheriff Peter Boehmer grimaces in pain while waiting for an ambulance after he was felled yesterday by an automobile crossing picket lines at General Electric's Electronics Park at Syracuse, N. Y. Another deputy also was hospitalized when salaried employes returned to work at two GE plants hit by a seven-week-old strike of CIO electrical workers.

New Bid To Save Doomed Atomic Spies Launched

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—The defense started all over again at the bottom today in a new bid to save the lives of the condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who condemned the pair two years ago, was summoned to appear Monday in the Federal Court of Appeals to defend his death sentences.

Only Technicality

This is not an unusual procedure, and actually is only a technicality—the judge does not have to appear personally. He will be represented by government attorneys.

Meanwhile, Defense Attorney Emanuel Bloch started at the bottom in the Federal District Court with a motion to vacate the death sentences against the Rosenbergs.

The couple all but reached the end of the road Monday when the U. S. Supreme Court for the third time refused to intervene in their case. Bloch is trying to forestall the setting on Friday of a new execution date.

The defense lawyer filed a series of motions and asked for a stay of execution until they can be debated.

Bloch's Argument

In his motion to vacate the death sentence, Bloch argued that the Rosenbergs were not accused of conspiring to betray the nation in time of war. Rather, he said, the government claimed the conspiracy was conceived in time of war for the transmission of atomic secrets to Soviet Russia "at a time not designated in the indictment."

Bloch contended, therefore, that the maximum sentence against the Rosenbergs should have been 20 years. The death penalty only may be invoked against wartime spies.

Poulson Wins In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, May 27 (AP) — Congressman Norris Poulson was Los Angeles-mayor-designate today as his election victory snapped the record term of Fletcher Bowron, head man for 15 years.

Twins To Graduate From West Point

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 27 (AP)—For the first time in its century and a half history, the U. S. Military Academy will graduate a set of twins at exercises Tuesday.

The sons of an Army colonel with the old fighting name of McGregor, Rob Roy was appointed to the academy by President Truman and Thomas by Sen. Downey (D-Calif) in 1949.

They were born in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1931 and like Army children saw a lot of traveling. They attended schools in Japan, Washington, D. C., and Carmel, Calif., where their parents, Col. and Mrs. Thomas McGregor, now live.

Red Spy Charge Phony, U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The State Department said today that Russia's story of four American spies being parachuted into the Ukraine is "too fantastic to deserve comment."

"Another dismal example of the phony charges issued from time to time by the Communists in an effort to delude their own people," said Lincoln White, a State Department press officer, in brushing aside the Soviet communique.

The Russians had announced that four men had confessed that they jumped from an American airplane over the Ukraine, one of the Soviet republics, a month ago to carry on "diversionist, terrorist and espionage assignments." The announcement said the four were captured and executed by firing squads.

As usual, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the heart of America's intelligence network, declined to comment on the Russian charge.

U. N. Lines Hold As Reds Launch Violent Attacks

SEOUL, May 28 (Thursday) (INS) — The Korean battlefront flared into violent action last night when Chinese Communists smashed at Allied lines in the east-central sector in regimental and battalion strength.

Fighting raged throughout the night and morning, with Allied lines holding against the assaults.

Enemy raiding parties also struck along the Western Front near Kumhwa and at the eastern end of the line but with little or no success.

During the night 14 Superforts unloaded bomb cargoes on Togwan, five miles west of Wonsan, and Tangha, nine miles southwest of Wonsan.

New Jersey Shells Wonsan

SEOUL, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—The battleship New Jersey dashed around the Korean Peninsula from the West to the East Coast and led a battering new assault on the Communist port of Wonsan Wednesday.

Far East Naval Headquarters said the Seventh Fleet flagship started bombardment of the rubbled Red target at 8:50 a.m. and destroyed at least four coast defense guns and heavily damaged two more.

Only last Monday the New Jersey teamed with British fleet units for a surprise bombardment of the Communist West Coast port of Chinnampo, within easy striking range of Manchurian based Communist planes.

The Allied air war slackened. Communist MIG pilots refused to challenge U. S. Sabre jets cruising over Northwest Korea in search of a fight. On Tuesday the MIGs had lost 12 planes in a violent series of dogfights that brought total losses this month to 51.

Churchill Emphasizes U. S.-British Links At Pre-Coronation Luncheon For Queen

LONDON, May 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, addressing Queen Elizabeth II directly today, emphasized the links between the United States and Britain and said the nations share a common "hatred of dictatorship."

He spoke at a pre-coronation luncheon for the young Queen in Westminister Hall that had as its theme the birth of a new Elizabethan age.

The occasion was a kind of family affair of the British Commonwealth. The prime ministers and chief officers of 52 parliaments—more than 750 in all—were present. The keynote, naturally, was the relationship between Britain and the nations of the Commonwealth.

Churchill, however, chose to focus special attention on relations with the United States.

"The key thought, alike of the British constitutional monarchy and the republic of the United States of America, is the hatred of dictatorship," he said.

"Both here and across the ocean, over the generations and the centuries, the idea of the division of power has lain deep at the root of our development. We do not want to live in a system dominated either by one man or one theme."

Apparently in bubbling spirits, Churchill was at his forensic best today. By turns, he was serious and then funny—first a mighty pipe organ, then a piccolo.

He led into his statements about British-American relations with a deadpan reference to the recent spasm of trans-Atlantic bickering set off by former Prime Minister Clement Attlee. In a parliamentary speech, Attlee had made some remarks about the American Constitution. Churchill said:

"We must be very careful nowadays in what we say about the American Constitution. I will therefore content myself with the observation that no constitution was written in better English."

The ancient wooden roof of Westminster Hall echoed the explosion of laughter.

Army Of First Aid Workers Mobilized

LONDON, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—An army of 8,491 medical attendants—doctors, Red Cross workers, first aid men and stretcher bearers—will take care of the thousands who swoon or get squashed in the coronation jam-up next Tuesday.

More than 2,000 first aid men will stand just five yards apart along the six-mile-long processional route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey.

The route has been divided into six sectors, like a battle line on a fighting front. A doctor will command each sector.

Crowd casualties who do not recover in 20 minutes will be borne away to the hospital serving the sector where they fall.

South Korean Ideas Will Be Offered Allies

Gen. Harrison Will Receive Proposals, Letter From Rhee

SEOUL, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—The South Korean government, not consulted and balking angrily at secret terms of the U. N. Command's new truce plan, today makes a last ditch attempt to get it modified before its possible acceptance Monday by the Communists.

An official government source said South Korea will present its own ideas to the Allied Command at Munsan later today on how to solve the prisoner exchange deadlock. The problem involves about 34,000 North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese prisoners who refuse to return home after an armistice.

Rhee To Express Views

There will be a series of recommendations including a "very important letter" expressing the views of President Syngman Rhee's government. Details of the Korean proposal were not disclosed.

Stiffly observing protocol, the Korean member of the Allied truce delegation, Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, was due to deliver his government's recommendations to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior member, at Munsan.

The move subtly emphasized that while Britain, India and other countries were told in advance what the latest Allied truce plan would offer, South Korea was not consulted on the drafting of the plan although it was a member of the truce delegation.

Choi Boycotted Meeting

President Rhee was advised of the terms only an hour before it was presented last Monday to the Communists. General Choi boycotted that meeting at Panmunjom.

Rhee has repeatedly vowed to fight on alone if an armistice was signed that did not provide for unification of all Korea.

(In Washington U. S. State Department officials said the idea of a unified Korea would be pressed at a peace conference to follow any truce agreement.)

The Allies presented their plan in secrecy. At Allied request the negotiations were then recessed until next Monday.

Yank Casualties Climb To 135,221

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 135,221 today, an increase of 66 since last week.

The net increase of 66 is the lowest reported for any week during the Korean War, but the Defense Department explained that it was the result of bookkeeping corrections in previous reports of Army wounded.

The Army said that a re-check of hospital records revealed that 146 men previously listed as battle casualties actually were non-battle casualties and their status has since been changed.

The department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday reported:

	Increase	New Total
Killed in action	50	21,590
Wounded	16	100,519
Missing	no change	13,112
Total	66	135,221

Air Force Fund Row Nearing Showdown

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The public feud over a proposal to cut Air Force funds brought on a round of secret, high-level conferences today as the fight moved toward the showdown stage.

The issue probably will be discussed anew tomorrow morning when: (1) President Eisenhower holds a news conference and (2) Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Eisenhower's choice for chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, goes before a congressional committee.

Both Eisenhower and Radford are certain to be asked about the question Democrats and some Republicans in both houses of Congress have been posing.

What will be the effect on this nation's security of the administration's plan to cut Air Force funds five billion dollars in the fiscal year beginning July 1?

11 Governors Pledge Speeder Crackdown

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27 (AP)—Governors of 11 northeastern states today pledged a crackdown on highway speeders during the summer vacation months.

They warned prospective tourists, as well as residents, that "firm, impartial traffic law enforcement" can be expected from police and in the traffic courts.

The joint proclamation was issued through Paul E. Burke of Baltimore, Secretary of the Northeastern State Safety Coordinators. It was signed by governors of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Sen. Morse Assails Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) said today The Associated Press is a "slanted news reporting service" with a "bunch of clever writers skilled in the use of snide, reputation-assassinating adjectives."

He declared, in a Senate speech, that publishers who own The Associated Press are by and large "reactionary businessmen" who do not like an outspoken "representative of the Independent party."

Car Crossing Picket Line Fells Deputy

Special Deputy Sheriff Peter Boehmer grimaces in pain while waiting for an ambulance after he was felled yesterday by an automobile crossing picket lines at General Electric's Electronics Park at Syracuse, N. Y. Another deputy also was hospitalized when salaried employes returned to work at two GE plants hit by a seven-week-old strike of CIO electrical workers.

South Korean Ideas Will Be Offered Allies

Gen. Harrison Will Receive Proposals, Letter From Rhee

SEOUL, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—The South Korean government, not consulted and balking angrily at secret terms of the U. N. Command's new truce plan, today makes a last ditch attempt to get it modified before its possible acceptance Monday by the Communists.

An official government source said South Korea will present its own ideas to the Allied Command at Munsan later today on how to solve the prisoner exchange deadlock. The problem involves about 34,000 North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese prisoners who refuse to return home after an armistice.

Rhee To Express Views

There will be a series of recommendations including a "very important letter" expressing the views of President Syngman Rhee's government. Details of the Korean proposal were not disclosed.

Stiffly observing protocol, the Korean member of the Allied truce delegation, Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, was due to deliver his government's recommendations to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior member, at Munsan.

The move subtly emphasized that while Britain, India and other countries were told in advance what the latest Allied truce plan would offer, South Korea was not consulted on the drafting of the plan although it was a member of the truce delegation.

Choi Boycotted Meeting

President Rhee was advised of the terms only an hour before it was presented last Monday to the Communists. General Choi boycotted that meeting at Panmunjom.

Rhee has repeatedly vowed to fight on alone if an armistice was signed that did not provide for unification of all Korea.

(In Washington U. S. State Department officials said the idea of a unified Korea would be pressed at a peace conference to follow any truce agreement.)

The Allies presented their plan in secrecy. At Allied request the negotiations were then recessed until next Monday.

Members of the South Korean National Assembly blasted the Allied proposal as a "dishonorable and surrendering truce."

New Bid To Save Doomed Atomic Spies Launched

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—The defense started all over again at the bottom today in a new bid to save the lives of the condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who condemned the pair two years ago, was summoned to appear Monday in the Federal Court of Appeals to defend his death sentences.

Only Technicality

This is not an unusual procedure, and actually is only a technicality—the judge does not have to appear personally. He will be represented by government attorneys.

Meanwhile, Defense Attorney Emanuel Bloch started at the bottom in the Federal District Court with a motion to vacate the death sentences against the Rosenbergs.

The couple all but reached the end of the road Monday when the U. S. Supreme Court for the third time refused to intervene in their case. Bloch is trying to forestall the setting on Friday of a new execution date.

The defense lawyer filed a series of motions and asked for a stay of execution until they can be debated.

Bloch's Argument

In his motion to vacate the death sentence, Bloch argued that the Rosenbergs were not accused of conspiring to betray the nation in time of war. Rather, he said, the government claimed the conspiracy was conceived in time of war for the transmission of atomic secrets to Soviet Russia "at a time not designated in the indictment."

Bloch contended, therefore, that the maximum sentence against the Rosenbergs should have been 20 years. The death penalty only may be invoked against wartime spies.

Twins To Graduate From West Point

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 27 (AP)—For the first time in its century and a half history, the U. S. Military Academy will graduate a set of twins at exercises Tuesday.

The sons of an Army colonel with the old fighting name of McGregor, Rob Roy was appointed to the academy by President Truman and Thomas by Sen. Downey (D-Calif) in 1949.

They were born in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1931 and like Army children saw a lot of traveling. They attended schools in Japan, Washington, D. C., and Carmel, Calif., where their parents, Col. and Mrs. Thomas McGregor, now live.

Red Spy Charge Phony, U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The State Department said today that Russia's story of four American spies being parachuted into the Ukraine is "too fantastic to deserve comment."

"Another dismal example of the phony charges issued from time to time by the Communists in an effort to delude their own people," said Lincoln White, a State Department press officer, in brushing aside the Soviet communique.

The Russians had announced that four men had confessed that they jumped from an American airplane over the Ukraine, one of the Soviet republics, a month ago to carry on "diversionist, terrorist and espionage assignments." The announcement said the four were captured and executed by firing squads.

As usual, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the heart of America's intelligence network, declined to comment on the Russian charge.

U. N. Lines Hold As Reds Launch Violent Attacks

SEOUL, May 28 (Thursday) (INS) — The Korean battlefront flared into violent action last night when Chinese Communists smashed at Allied lines in the east-central sector in regimental and battalion strength.

Fighting raged throughout the night and morning, with Allied lines holding against the assaults.

Enemy raiding parties also struck along the Western Front near Kumhwa and at the eastern end of the line but with little or no success.

During the night 14 Superforts unloaded bomb cargoes on Togwan, five miles west of Wonsan, and Tangha, nine miles southwest of Wonsan.

New Jersey Shells Wonsan

SEOUL, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—The battleship New Jersey dashed around the Korean Peninsula from the West to the East Coast and led a battering new assault on the Communist port of Wonsan Wednesday.

Far East Naval Headquarters said the Seventh Fleet flagship started bombardment of the rubbled Red target at 8:50 a.m. and destroyed at least four coast defense guns and heavily damaged two more.

Only last Monday the New Jersey teamed with British fleet units for a surprise bombardment of the Communist West Coast port of Chinnampo, within easy striking range of Manchurian based Communist planes.

The Allied air war slackened. Communist MIG pilots refused to challenge U. S. Sabre jets cruising over Northwest Korea in search of a fight. On Tuesday the MIGs had lost 12 planes in a violent series of dogfights that brought total losses this month to 51.

Yank Casualties Climb To 135,221

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 135,221 today, an increase of 66 since last week.

The net increase of 66 is the lowest reported for any week during the Korean War, but the Defense Department explained that it was the result of bookkeeping corrections in previous reports of Army wounded.

The Army said that a re-check of hospital records revealed that 146 men previously listed as battle casualties actually were non-battle casualties and their status has since been changed.

The department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday reported:

	Increase	New Total
Killed in action	50	21,590
Wounded	16	100,519
Missing	no change	13,112
Total	66	135,221

New Job For Collins

WASHINGTON, May 27 (INS)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, retiring Army chief of staff, was named by President Eisenhower today to become U. S. representative on the Atlantic pact military committee when his term expires Aug. 15.

Thousands Face Pay Cut As Index Drops

WASHINGTON, May 27 (INS) — A possible two-cents-per-hour pay cut is in store today for thousands of automobile and farm implement workers as result of a drop in the "old-style" cost-of-living index.

The pay of many employes of the Chrysler Corp. and International Harvester is still tied to the old method of computing living costs which the government plans to abandon.

A decline of three-tenths of one per cent was recorded by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the month ending April 15. This brought the old-style index down to 188.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Congresswomen Consider Bill To Erase Handbag Tax

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—A group of congresswomen today considered a proposal to drop a tax that literally hits them right in the pocketbook—the present so-called luxury tax on ladies' handbags.

There are 12 women in this Congress and eight of them showed up at a luncheon discussion of bills introduced by two of them, Representatives St. George (R-NY) and Kelly (D-NY).

These bills call for the elimination of the 20 per cent excise tax on handbags.

"There is no question," Mrs. Kelly said, "but that the tax is discriminatory."

Max Berkowitz, a spokesman for the handbag industry, put it this way:

"To a woman, a handbag is essential. Where do they get this 'luxury' tax business? It's just the same as if you put a tax on men's pants pockets."

Whether the eight women will react to the bills as women—and vote as a group to ask for the removal of the tax—isn't known. The meeting was informal, and reporters were shooed out of the room.

But Berkowitz, with 53 years in the handbag business, was eager to state the arguments for dropping the tax.

"Now you go out and buy an Oriental rug, for instance," he said, "and you pay $1,000 for it. Do you pay a luxury tax? No.

"Or a woman goes downtown and she wants to buy some first class underthings—what do you call them? Well, anyway, fancy pants—and maybe she pays $10 for them.

"Does she pay a luxury tax? No.

"But every time she buys a handbag, even if it is just for one of the kids from the five-and-ten, she pays a tax."

Churchill Emphasizes U. S.-British Links At Pre-Coronation Luncheon For Queen

LONDON, May 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, addressing Queen Elizabeth II directly today, emphasized the links between the United States and Britain and said the nations share a common "hatred of dictatorship."

He spoke at a pre-coronation luncheon for the young Queen in Westminister Hall that had as its theme the birth of a new Elizabethan age.

The occasion was a kind of family affair of the British Commonwealth. The prime ministers and chief officers of 52 parliaments—more than 750 in all—were present. The keynote, naturally, was the relationship between Britain and the nations of the Commonwealth.

Churchill, however, chose to focus special attention on relations with the United States.

"The key thought, alike of the British constitutional monarchy and the republic of the United States of America, is the hatred of dictatorship," he said.

"Both here and across the ocean, over the generations and the centuries, the idea of the division of power has lain deep at the root of our development. We do not want to live in a system dominated either by one man or one theme."

Apparently in bubbling spirits, Churchill was at his forensic best today. By turns, he was serious and then funny—first a mighty pipe organ, then a piccolo.

He led into his statements about British-American relations with a deadpan reference to the recent spasm of trans-Atlantic bickering set off by former Prime Minister Clement Attlee. In a parliamentary speech, Attlee had made some remarks about the American Constitution. Churchill said:

"We must be very careful nowadays in what we say about the American Constitution. I will therefore content myself with the observation that no constitution was written in better English."

The ancient wooden roof of Westminster Hall echoed the explosion of laughter.

Army Of First Aid Workers Mobilized

LONDON, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—An army of 8,491 medical attendants—doctors, Red Cross workers, first aid men and stretcher bearers—will take care of the thousands who swoon or get squashed in the coronation jam-up next Tuesday.

More than 2,000 first aid men will stand just five yards apart along the six-mile-long processional route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey.

The route has been divided into six sectors, like a battle line on a fighting front. A doctor will command each sector.

Crowd casualties who do not recover in 20 minutes will be borne away to the hospital serving the sector where they fall.

Air Force Fund Row Nearing Showdown

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The public feud over a proposal to cut Air Force funds brought on a round of secret, high-level conferences today as the fight moved toward the showdown stage.

The issue probably will be discussed anew tomorrow morning when: (1) President Eisenhower holds a news conference and (2) Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Eisenhower's choice for chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, goes before a congressional committee.

Both Eisenhower and Radford are certain to be asked about the question Democrats and some Republicans in both houses of Congress have been posing.

What will be the effect on this nation's security of the administration's plan to cut Air Force funds five billion dollars in the fiscal year beginning July 1?

M'Keldin To Bring 'Little Kingdoms' Into Coordinated State Government

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today announced plans for regular meetings of state department heads with him to "bring the little kingdoms into a coordinated government."

"These meetings will be in the nature of cabinet meetings," he said.

He called coordination of the various departments "one of the greatest needs of the state government."

The governor said that "through the years, the government of the state of Maryland has developed into a group of little kingdoms—each feeling itself separate and distinct from the others. It is a result of government growing away from those who are responsible for its operation and its coordination."

One reason is that offices are scattered in Baltimore and Annapolis. Plans are afoot to remedy this by erecting new state office buildings in the two cities.

But McKeldin isn't going to wait for that.

"We are going to start immediately to impress on the various administrations that the success of one department is the success of the state government," he stated.

The governor's plans for having all department heads gather together, probably twice a month, were in a speech he had prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Advertising Club.

He pocketed the speech, however, in favor of paying tribute to Max Hochschild, 98-year-old founder of a Baltimore department store. Copies of the speech were distributed to news media.

Man Apparently Trips, Strikes Tub Faucet, Drowns

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 27 (AP)—A doctor theorized today that a 71-year-old retired mechanical engineer tripped on a bathroom rug, struck the hot water faucet on the bathtub and then drowned in the running water.

That was Dr. Frank J. Townsend Jr.'s opinion in the death of Perry Conklin Lee, found slumped over a bathtub filling with hot water at his home Sunday. His wife found the body.

Dr. Towsend said however, that Lee actually could have died from a blow on the head or a heart attack as well as drowning. He said blood specimens were sent to a laboratory in Baltimore to determine the exact cause of death.

Congress Told Of Aid Savings

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The administration told Congress today it has saved 354 million dollars of money appropriated for foreign aid this year and that it will trim at least that much from its request for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Another 50 millions now is held in reserve, and a still further cut of that amount may be possible if no "new and urgent" obligations develop before mid-June, said Acting Mutual Security Administrator William M. Rand.

He emphasized that the cut "does not mean a reduction in the physical activities and programs which it is proposed should be carried out and financed during the next fiscal year."

He outlined the savings in letters to Chairman Chipperfield (R-Ill) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee both of which now are working on the administrations original request that Congress authorize a $5,828,000,000 foreign aid program for next year.

Accused Wife Slayer Goes On Trial Today

TOWSON, Md., May 27 (AP)—Wilbur F. Coyle Jr. goes on trial tomorrow for the murder of his wife, and State's Attorney John E.Raine Jr. said the defendant's son and mother-in-law are among state witnesses "expected" to testify.

Coyle's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Fallon Coyle, former fashion model and a buyer of women's clothing for a Baltimore department store, was slain Feb. 25.

Coyle's 16-year-old-son, Wilbur F. Coyle, 3d, rushed from his parents' home in the early morning hours sobbing out the story of a double shooting.

Police found Mrs. Coyle dead in bed, two bullets in her neck and a third in her head, and Coyle on the floor bleeding from wounds in the neck.

Baltimore Hospital To Close One Floor

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—One floor containing 80 beds in the Public Health Service Hospital here is to be closed because of the purse string tightening in Washington.

Director Donald Patrick said the reduced operation will result from discontinuance of a contract with the Veterans Administration.

The hospital has had a contract with the VA to supply 45 beds. The VA budget has been cut and no longer can afford the contract, Dr. Patrick said.

The hospital therefore will close on July 1 the sixth floor of the seven-story building. This will mean that about 45 nurses, technicians and attendants will lose their jobs, the director estimated.

British Ship Charge Confirmation Expected

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today the State Department has agreed to confirm publicly that it knows British owned ships have been used as troop carriers for the Chinese Communists during the Korean War.

McCarthy told reporters he now expects the department will name the companies operating the vessels, but won't necessarily name the ships.

He said its statement will be made public tomorrow in his absence, at a news conference in the office of Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the Senate investigatins subcommittee.

Contempt Threat Fails To Swerve Probe Witness

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—A threat of a contempt citation failed today to swerve a college professor from his refusal to testify about his colleagues in a Communist group at Harvard in the 1940's.

Dr. Marcus Singer, Cornell University zoologist, told the House Un-American Activities Committee:

"I would never in honor and conscience trade someone else's career for my own, come what may."

He also invoked the Fifth Amendment with regard to self-incrimination in declining to say whether certain individuals named by the committee counsel joined him in his study of Marxism while he was a student and teacher at Harvard.

Singer, in a brief appearance before the group yesterday, acknowledged his former Communist activity and asserted he broke away about 1948 or 1949.

The 39-year-old professor—whose work with blood plasma during the war earned official praise—said he was still prepared to talk about his own participation in communism but would not tell on others.

He added that he would regard it his "duty" to report any subversive activity but insisted the Harvard group's pursuit of Communist philosophy was "schoalrly" and "not subversive."

Singer spoke earnestly and appeared concerned after Rep. Clardy (R-Mich) told him:

"I think you are in contempt of Congress and this committee and I shall do what I can do to see that you are cited."

Earlier Chairman Velde (R-Ill) warned him that he would run the risk of being prosecuted for contempt if he did not respond to questions about other persons.

Singer, after the hearing, told Committee Counsel Robert Kunzig he realized that he had taken "the worst possible position."

Velde told reporters Singer's case would be studied by counsel along with others with regard to contempt citations. He added, however, "We don't want to cite these people unless we are reasonably certain the attorney general will prosecute."

Autonomy Given U. Of Md. Regents Invalid, Suit Says

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP) — A companion measure to the autonomy granted the University of Maryland regents last year over vigorous opposition was attacked today as unconstitutional.

Seven former trustees of the University's two million dollar endowment fund filed suit to have the act declared invalid.

They protested that transfer of control of the money to the regents was a "gross breach of faith" to those who donated it. Administration of the funds by the regents instead of the trustees was part of a move to free the University from state control of buying, hiring and awarding building contracts.

The endowment fund transfer was vetoed by Gov. McKeldin after it was passed in the 1951 Maryland Legislature. He was overridden by the 1952 Legislature.

No attempt was made at that time to override the Governor's veto of the major autonomy bill in the 1951 session. Instead, a substitute and revised bill was introduced and pushed through the next session.

The seven former trustees argued in their suit that the act not only is a gross breach of faith "with those who donated the funds and with those who solicited such donations, but it also violates the contract rights of such donors and the corporation, and deprives them, and each of them, of their property by mere legislative fiat..."

The seven asked that the law be voided and they be designated the proper endowment trustees along with Dr. H. C. Byrd, university president, and William P. Cole Jr., chairman of the regents. Byrd and Coleman also were trustees of the endowment.

Resolution Would Lower Voting Age

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY), asserting he was following the lead of the Eisenhower administration, today introduced a resolution to grant 18-year-olds the right to vote.

The Keating proposal to lower the legal voting age from 21 is in the form of a constitutional amendment, subject to ratification by three-fourths of the states.

Congress Told Of Aid Savings

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The administration told Congress today it has saved 354 million dollars of money appropriated for foreign aid this year and that it will trim at least that much from its request for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Another 50 millions now is held in reserve, and a still further cut of that amount may be possible if no "new and urgent" obligations develop before mid-June, said Acting Mutual Security Administrator William M. Rand.

He emphasized that the cut "does not mean a reduction in the physical activities and programs which it is proposed should be carried out and financed during the next fiscal year."

He outlined the savings in letters to Chairman Chipperfield (R-Ill) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee both of which now are working on the administrations original request that Congress authorize a $5,828,000,000 foreign aid program for next year.

Accused Wife Slayer Goes On Trial Today

TOWSON, Md., May 27 (AP)—Wilbur F. Coyle Jr. goes on trial tomorrow for the murder of his wife, and State's Attorney John E. Raine Jr. said the defendant's son and mother-in-law are among state witnesses "expected" to testify.

Coyle's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Fallon Coyle, former fashion model and a buyer of women's clothing for a Baltimore department store, was slain Feb. 25.

Coyle's 16-year-old-son, Wilbur F. Coyle, 3d, rushed from his parents' home in the early morning hours sobbing out the story of a double shooting.

Police found Mrs. Coyle dead in bed, two bullets in her neck and a third in her head, and Coyle on the floor bleeding from wounds in the neck.

Baltimore Hospital To Close One Floor

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—One floor containing 80 beds in the Public Health Service Hospital here is to be closed because of the purse string tightening in Washington.

Director Donald Patrick said the reduced operation will result from discontinuance of a contract with the Veterans Administration.

The hospital has had a contract with the VA to supply 45 beds. The VA budget has been cut and no longer can afford the contract, Dr. Patrick said.

The hospital therefore will close on July 1 the sixth floor of the seven-story building. This will mean that about 45 nurses, technicians and attendants will lose their jobs, the director estimated.

British Ship Charge Confirmation Expected

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today the State Department has agreed to confirm publicly that it knows British owned ships have been used as troop carriers for the Chinese Communists during the Korean War.

McCarthy told reporters he now expects the department will name the companies operating the vessels, but won't necessarily name the ships.

He said its statement will be made public tomorrow in his absence, at a news conference in the office of Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the Senate investigatins subcommittee.

Extension Approved

WASHINGTON, May 27 (INS)—The Senate Armed Services Committee approved today a two-year extension of the law for drafting doctors and dentists.

John Bull And Uncle Sam

The Bermuda Big Three conference, now tentatively slated for June 17 or 18, will, among other things, give two old friends, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, a chance to discuss ways and means of jacking up Anglo-American relations from their present low ebb.

The political differences between John Bull and Uncle Sam stem from recognition by the British government on January 6, 1950, of the Communist government of China.

The British action three years ago, explained as "acknowledgment of a fact, not a mark of approbation," was taken with an eye on Britain's $840 million commercial interest in China. The United States, with investments in China (1950) of about $100 million, continued to recognize the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa. The fundamental divergence in their position on China renders the British much more acquiescent than we to UN membership for the Chinese Reds.

Rifts between Great Britain and the United States have a way of widening after wars. But the American and British governments and peoples have always emerged from such periods of coolness into periods of co-operation.

In this century differences between the two nations have been frequent and serious. Feeling in the United States ran high in the early days of World War I against Britain's extension of contraband lists and British methods of search and seizure at sea. The German submarine campaign and then American entry into the war as Britain's partner caused these differences to be overshadowed and then erased.

The World War I allies edged apart when the United States refused to join the League of Nations. But the gap was lessened by the naval limitations agreement of the Washington Conference of 1921-22 and the coincident ending of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Disagreement on cruiser limitation at the Geneva conference in 1927 caused another rift in the friendly atmosphere, widened the following year by disclosure of a secret Anglo-French naval treaty on armament. It took the 1930 London Naval Conference to heal these Anglo-American differences.

But at the same time the two governments were haggling over the U. S. Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act and Britain's indebtedness to the United States from World War I. Then came, successively, U. S. cooperation with Britain by invoking the neutrality act against Italy in 1935, and by withholding supplies from both sides in the Spanish Civil War in 1937. Joint action against totalitarian states, climaxing in the outbreak of World War II in September 1939, the U. S. Lend-Lease Act of 1941, and U. S. entry into the war brought the two nations probably closer than they had ever been before.

In Fulton, Mo., on March 5, 1946, Churchill, then out of office, called for a "fraternal association" of the United States and the British Empire and Commonwealth which would give the world "an overwhelming assurance of security." But despite tokens of friendship, such as the U. S. loan to Britain, on both sides the two nations have since tended to drift apart. Some of the coolness today has stemmed from Churchill's oft-repeated hankering for a top-level personal approach to Russia, opposed by the Truman administration and thus far questioned by President Eisenhower.

For John Bull: Dollars

When Elizabeth II rides to Westminster Abbey on June 2 to be crowned, American pronunciations will be heard along the route almost as much as Cockney or Oxford accents—if the travel agencies are to be believed. Although John Bull may complain that the "Ameddicans" are monopolizing the best seats, he is glad they are on hand, for they bring dollars that he needs.

One British authority on tourist travel estimates that U. S. visitors will spend over $100,000,000 this year in the British Isles and for passage on British boats and planes. Altogether, half a million Americans are expected to have crossed the Atlantic before the end of the year, and to have spent in all of Europe between $300,000,000 and $350,000,000.

This would mean that the average American tourist in Europe in 1953 will put out about $650 on his or her trip, exclusive of passage fares.

For a small nation like Switzerland the tourist trade is a major industry, just as it is for certain relatively small states of the Union. But for a populous nation like Great Britain, with its population of more than 50 million, the American tourist trade, although important economically, can be overemphasized as a factor in the British supply of dollars.

As against the $100,000,000 anticipated this year from U. S. visitors to England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, the British exported to this country last year merchandise valued at $485,000,000 and imported U. S. merchandise valued at $675,000,000. With the addition of "invisible" items, Britain had a dollar deficit in 1952, even after defense aid, of more than $450,000,000. She has been making a much better showing so far this year, but is must be remembered that a good many American tourists went to Britain last year also, even if not so many as are going this year.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day originated officially three years after the end of the Civil War—which many Southerners say would be more fittingly called "The War between the States"—when Major General Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, set aside May 30, 1868, for GAR members to decorate the graves of Union soldiers.

In 1882 the GAR formally resolved to call May 30 "Memorial Day" instead of "Decoration Day," but the latter term refused to die out. Some Southern states observe a separate Confederate Memorial Day—in Kentucky and Tennessee on June 3, birthday of Jefferson Davis.

Certain communities had unofficially observed a day for putting flowers on the graves of veterans before 1868. Two months after the surrender of Lee at Appomattox in 1865, men, women and children of Richmond marched in a body to Hollywood Cemetery to decorate graves of soldiers, Union and Confederate alike. A similar ceremony was held in Columbus, Miss. in 1866.

One of the 2,200,000 who wore the Blue in 1861-65 is still alive. He is Albert Woolson, 106, of Duluth, Minn., who served as a drummer boy. Several who wore the Gray also survive.

Almost 7,000 widows of Union veterans are alive as Memorial Day 1953 is celebrated. Their average age is around 68.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

An Old Problem: Constipation

Chronic constipation is a bad habit and many of those who are bothered admit they have never made an honest attempt to become regular. Some were too busy or too lazy to spend the time required for elimination. The bowel acted accordingly and ultimately refused to cooperate unless prodded by a laxative or stimulated by an enema.

There are exceptions to this rule, such as persons who were never constipated until they became ill with colitis or lead poisoning or acquired a painful rectal disorder or intestinal adhesions. Dehydration from insufficient liquids or profuse sweating adds to the difficulty. Constipation is more likely to occur among those who consume a preponderance of soft, starchy foods that lack bulk to stimulate evacuation.

Foods containing cellulose and pulpy fibers, such as fruits and vegetables, force the intestinal contents along for a number of reasons. Mechanical distention and irritation of the wall encourage the bowel to contract. The chemical action stems from concentration of sugar and neutral salts. Spinach, cabbage, onions, asparagus, parsnips, lettuce, and fresh and dried fruits are of value along this line.

Increasing the bulk will not solve the problem, however, unless the man or woman is willing to take the time to become regular. Eating when the stomach is empty creates a powerful stimulus and the majority find the period after breakfast the most favorable time to establish the reflex. For some, this means arising earlier to avoid hurry and tenseness. A few will require a small enema of tap water or olive oil, repeated daily at exactly the same time. Once the habit is fixed, these aids are no longer needed.

Constipation often is accompanied by headache, lassitude, poor appetite, and abdominal discomfort, but it is debatable whether these manifestations are caused by a sluggish bowel or merely are associated with it. The conviction that poisons are absorbed through the wall of the large intestine in periods of constipation goes back to the old idea of autointoxication popular before World War I. At that time some physicians conceived the notion that it was dangerous to allow the intestinal contents to remain stagnated within the bowel and they blamed numerous diseases upon the condition, varying from melancholia to feeblemindedness. Little did they realize that only liquids and no solids are reabsorbed from the lower intestine.

Now and then individuals who do not know the difference between normal and abnormal complain of constipation. It is true that most of us have a daily movement but thousands of perfectly healthy men and women seldom go more than two or three times a week. In other words, there is no need to become concerned or rush to the drug store for a laxative when we miss a day. The chances are the bowel will respond without help on the following day. (Additional suggestions are contained in our leaflet on constipation which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses hereditary curled fingers.

UNDETECTED SYPHILIS

R. T. writes: Can syphilis be contracted without showing any signs or symptoms until a late stage?

REPLY

Yes, and in many stances there are no signs or symptoms except for a positive blood test. This is the reason why periodic Wassermann or Kahn tests are recommended.

EYE HEMORRHAGES

F. W. writes: Will you please write something about hemorrhages of the eyes in a diabetic?

REPLY

Such hemorrhages usually are caused by rupture of the blood vessels back of the eyes. They are detected by a physician when he looks through the pupil with an ophthalmoscope.

MEASLES

Mrs. T. writes: Is German measles also known as false measles?

REPLY

No. Other names for German measles are rubella and three-day measles.

WISHFUL THINKING

Mrs. K. writes: What is false pregnancy?

REPLY

This is an unusual condition in which a woman is convinced she is pregnant and for months will go through the usual routine for the layette and other plans until it becomes apparent that pregnancy does not exist. Nervous women who are having marital difficulties are more likely to be so afflicted; others believe they can recapture their husband's affection by having a baby. This condition is not to be confused with misdiagnosed ovarian tumor or cyst.

World's Number One Model

DREW PEARSON on

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Budget Cut Could Come From Armed Services Co-ordination; Efficiency Of Supercarrier Questionable; Vulnerable To Air, Undersea, Atomic Attacks.

WASHINGTON—If Congress and the Ike administration want to balance the budget without jeopardizing national defense they will have to abandon the present uncoordinated system of parceling out money to the armed services.

In the past, the Joint Chiefs of Staff merely allotted appropriations to the Army, Navy, and Air Force, letting the individual service decide how each should spend its own share. Thus the Navy didn't pass on what types of airplanes the Air Force bought, nor did the Army or Air Force say anything about the type of airplane carriers the Navy built.

Under the current strict rules against interservice bickering, no criticism or opposition is allowed. As a result, Congress has heard only one side of the story regarding certain weapons, such as atomic artillery and supercarriers.

If the real purpose of Army-Navy unification is to be carried out, however, and if the budget is to be cut without endangering national security, it will be necessary for some top umpire to knock admirals' and generals' heads together in order to figure out the weapons that give most protection for the fewest dollars.

Best illustration of this is the supercarrier. Pride of the Navy, used to impress solons on congressional junkets, it nevertheless remains a fact that the latest carriers cannot squeeze through the Panama Canal and that a carrier force costs seven times more money, takes nine times more manpower and uses 13 times more fuel than an equivalent group of Air Force bombers.

Small carriers are in a different category. They are cheaper, are more efficient, get around with less protection, and are definitely needed to battle enemy submarines.

But here are some of the facts regarding the big carrier, the battle-wagon, which caused the admirals to rise in revolt against one secretary of Defense—Louey Johnson—and which must be carefully scrutinized if the Ike administration really wants to save money:

Carrier Scorecard

DIFFICULTY OF SUPPLY—A carrier task force consists of four carriers mounting about 450 planes, 30 destroyers, six cruisers or battleships, four scouting submarines and a mine-sweeping force. It is supplied by a mobile replenishment force of at least eight fleet oilers, an ammunition ship, store ship, a destroyer tender, a refrigerator ship and a fleet tug. This floating supply center in turn also needs protection, so the Navy assigns another carrier, five destroyers, four destroyer escorts and three frigates as a screen. Then these ships must be resupplied, and the ships supplying them must be protected in turn.

USE OF PLANES—This doesn't leave the 450 carrier planes free to attack the enemy. In hostile waters, at least half must stay behind and circle overhead to guard the task force against enemy air raids. Even the 225 planes that finally hit the enemy can't reach the major target area, since the Navy's most far-flying bombers can't get to the industrial heartland deep inside Russia except on one-way suicide missions.

COST OF CARRIER FORCE—The Navy won't talk cost figures, but a carrier task force with its full regalia costs roughly $2,500,000,000. In other words, only 225 plans are available for attack out of a $2,500,000,000 investment. By comparison, an Air Force B-50 bomber group—complete with air base, fighter protection, anti-aircraft defense and full supplies—costs less than $1,000,000,000. In contrast, a B-50 group can deliver about 15 times as much bomb tonnage on the enemy as a carrier task force.

Of course, a carrier force is more mobile and can change position as much as 350 miles in one night. However, a Russian MIG can cover this distance in half an hour, and three enemy jets flying 50 miles apart down the center of the Mediterranean with radar can sweep the whole sea.

Vulnerability Of Carriers

This brings up the question of carrier vulnerability, which the Navy doesn't like to talk about but which the taxpayers have a right to know.

VULNERABILITY TO AIR ATTACK—Big ships show up on radar much clearer than small planes. For example, RAF bombers took pictures through their radarscopes of the Navy's proud task force on maneuvers in the North Atlantic last September. Embarrassed admirals didn't know the bomber had been around until later. This makes Russia's swarm of MIG's, which could converge on a carrier force from Hundreds of Soviet bases a real danger.

VULNERABILITY TO UNDERSEA ATTACK—Submarines have proven their ability to sneak into the middle of a carrier group and pot off carriers left and right. For example, only 10 old-fashioned, World War II subs operated against the task force in the Baltic maneuvers. Yet the subs slipped through the most elaborate defenses and managed to claim torpedo hits against four carriers and a battleship. This should have been sobering news to the Navy, since Russia

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Kings And Queens

At the turn of the century, the world was full of kings and queens who formed a society of their own, an aristocracy of birth, tracing back for a thousand years in Europe and closely associated by marriages and family.

A rigid social system, stabilized in an ethical code which all understood and none transgressed openly, dominated all classes of human beings. The upper crust of society recognized its obligations to maintain this code, lest the human order become disturbed.

These feudal families had had their warning in the French Revolution and in Napoleonism, from which France never recovered. First the genius, Talleyrand, and then Bismarck had re-established an order which was withstanding the battering waves of socialism and revolution.

Victoria could smile at such fears, for in her British Empire this really German queen had won an affection not experienced by her numerous relatives on the continent. The aged Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary was heading a diminishing empire — proudest house of all Europe, the Hapsburgs, but already going to pieces.

Nicholas II of Russia remained the most autocratic of autocrats, but he was afraid of his power and of the unrest among the complex of peoples who composed his empire. Such queer organizations were coming into existence as the Social Democratic party of George Plekhanov, which was frightening because these German ideas were proving attractive to intellectuals even among the aristocracy.

The Hohenzollern had emerged after the Napoleonic era as the leading house among the Germanic nations. Bismarck had created a mighty state, but he was a servant to a royal house, and as a servant, he was in effect, dismissed. Wilhelm II, young, aggressive, impetuous, jealous of Great Britain, fearful of Russia, with a parvenu's love of publicity, held court as emperor. He craved the center of the stage and held it until war brought him exile.

There were many other kings and queens, and their visits to each other, their meetings at various spas, their marriages and funerals were affairs of the greatest importance. They were the terminus of feudalism and few of them have survived the wars, revolutions and depressions of the past half century.

Kings were toppled from their thrones. Carlos I of Portugal and his son Manuel II were among the first to go, Carlos by assassination; Manuel by flight. Pu-Yi of Manchuria was driven from the Chinese throne. World War I destroyed the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollern; the Turkish dynasty fell before the Young Turks. Spain, Portugal, Italy, the Balkan countries became republics of one kind or another.

The ancient institutions of royalty continued in the Scandanavian countries and the Netherlands, Belgium, Greece and in Great Britain in Europe. There are still several kings in Asia and the equivalent of kings in Africa. In Europe, the remaining kings are limited monarchs, controlled by constitutions and acts of legislation. They are democratic and beloved. They have survived this era of so-called democracy because they have held the affections of their people. None of them rules over his people. Their influence upon their subjects is profound because of the emotional response which their persons evoke.

The institution of kingship in Great Britain is about to experience a stimulating renewal in the dramatic pageantry of the coronation of Elizabeth II, a young woman who charms her people by her simplicity and Englishness. The British have had several queens; the greatest of these were Elizabeth and Victoria.

Elizabeth II starts her reign under great political strain in which she is an onlooker. But the hope of the British is that her personality will keep what is left of the empire and commonwealth bound together in the crown. It is this hope and belief that makes the crown so politically essential to Great Britain at this time. Elizabeth II's consort, Philip of Greece, whose family is closely related to hers, both being of German origin, seems to be the most British of Britishers and may come to mean to Britain what Victoria's consort, Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, came to mean in another era.

It is one of the phenomena of our period that no anti-monarchial movement exists in Great Britain and that the British subject, even in the days of highest taxes, prefers the expense of monarchy. The coronation ceremony and festivities are with them no mere formality; it is of the very marrow of that nation.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Is Anyone Secure?

WASHINGTON

Under the new security procedures that are now being followed in the State Department, there is a queston whether the secretary of State himself is a satisfactory security risk. This is the clear implication, at any rate, of the case of L. Corrin Strong.

Strong is an amiable millionaire, much given to good works, always happy to be organizing something or other, and fond of small public distinctions, such as decorations and minor ambassadorships. He and Mrs. Strong were both leading workers for President Eisenhower before the Republican convention and during the campaign; and there is every reason to believe that he also contributed heavily to the party's war chest.

When the choice of Strong as ambassador to Norway was disclosed in early January, the news hardly caused a ripple. To be sure, Strong has no visible qualifications to represent this country in a diplomatic post. But that could also be said of most of the other purchasers of ambassadorships; and Strong is at least less purse-proud than some. In short, there can be no real objection to the Strong appointment, as long as the country tolerates the public auction of the most delicate posts abroad.

Four and a half months have now passed since Strong learned of his supposed good fortune. His troubles are now reported to be over and his nomination will probably be sent to the Senate before long. Yet the fact remains that the Strong nomination was held up for this long period, causing the maximum embarrassment to a professional pillar of the community, because of allegations that the blameless Strong was a "security risk."

Showed Remarkable Courage

The widely known reason for this extraordinary action was that Strong and Mrs. Strong were acquainted with Alger and Priscilla Hiss. They were not intimate friends, but they were on casual first-name terms.

To make the case look blacker, presumably, the story was also put about that Strong contributed a small sum to help pay Hiss' legal expenses. This story is not true, although Storng, to his eternal credit, has the quite remarkable courage to say:

"I still believe that even the worst man has the right to a fair trial; and maybe I would have contributed if anyone had asked me."

These are the facts. If simple acquaintance with Alger Hiss is to raise a doubt of loyalty, one must conclude that Secretary Dulles himself will soon be re-investigated by his own security officers. He too knew Hiss. He chose Hiss to head the Carnegie Trust. To his eternal credit, Secretary Dulles even refused to pre-judge the Hiss case until the wrongdoer had been fairly tried. By the test of his own performance to date, State Department Security Officer R. W. Scott McLeod must have the darkest doubts about Dulles.

The Strong case is of a piece with the case of Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, former commander of the "WAVES," president of Wellesley College, and one of the truly distinguished American women. The President thought well enough of Mrs. Horton to ask her to represent this country at the UN. But McLeod has held up Mrs. Horton's nomination for security reasons, presumably because there is some suspicion that Mrs. Horton does not hold a very high opinion of Sen. McCarthy.

Started Damaging Rumors

Both Strong and Mrs. Horton have been exposed to extreme annoyance and embarrassment by these so-called security procedures, which will soon have the effect of preventing this government from hiring anyone who can read and write. In other cases, involving less well protected persons, still uglier effects have been produced.

In his anxiety to prevent the nomination and confirmation of Charles E. Bohlen, of example, Security Officer McLeod can be charged with flagrantly attacking the reputation of an honorable public servant. All over Europe, McLeod's gumshoes went to those who had known Bohlen, reportedly including foreigners as well as Americans, and positively demanded to be told that Bohlen was a man of dissolute life. "Come clean, now, the very worst is true, isn't it?" was the line taken by these agents of the State Department, about the President's personal friend and nominee as ambassador to Moscow. The result, of course, was to start the wildest and most damaging rumors among the puzzled Europeans, who are pardonably confused by the methods of our new American gestapo.

Again, there was the case of Theodore Kaghan, the able and courageous American information officer in Germany, who defied San. McCarthy. Kaghan was crudely blackmailed into resigning from the State Department, by threats of summary dismissal by McLeod. McLeod then blandly told newspaper men that Kaghan got out voluntarily, as he will no doubt assert that press of paper work has caused the delay in the Corrin-Strong case.

All these cases and many others add up to one conclusion. Secretary Dulles has had much unfairness since he took his thankless job. But he cannot fairly be excused from responsibility for the administration of his own department. And his first duty is to see that some measure of common decency and old-fashioned Americanism is made to prevail there.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Examination of recent issues of the "Daily Worker," the organ of the Communists in the United States, reveals that the drive against Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin has taken on renewed vigor.

Not only did the "Daily Worker" originally coin the word "McCarthyism" but it now uses the word "McCarthyites" to describe all persons who are against Communist activities in America or Communist policies abroad.

Even the appointment of a chairman of the Board of Education in New York City, who would be expected to make short shrift of Communist agents among teachers in the schools, is described in a May 20 headline thus: "McCarthyite heads board of higher education."

Instruction Sheet

Since the "Daily Worker" is an instruction sheet to all Communists in America—guiding them as to what line to take from day to day in their efforts to influence schools, colleges, churchmen, newspapermen, radio commentators, movie actors and producers and anybody else who can radiate influence to millions of people — the following headline in the May 25 issue is significant:

"How to turn anger at McCarthy into a struggle to stop him."

Then follows this comment:

"Throughout the United States today, resistance to McCarthyism is on the upsurge. Individuals and organizations who yesterday looked the other way while the senator from Wisconsin blew one prop after another from under the Bill of Rights are emerging from their neutral corners.

"Among the most recent to join the good fight against McCarthyism are the National Council of Churches in the U.S.A., the Commission of Justice and Peace of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, two hundred members of Princeton University's faculty, the National Education Association, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Amherst Alumni Association of Washington . . .

"Those who, under McCarthyism fire, couple their disavowal of pro-communism with an accommodating attack on the Communist party are strengthening McCarthy's big lie. McCarthyism's stock in trade is the lie that communism is an imminent and mortal threat to the country."

Still another headline, this one on Monday, May 25, reads: "Call for Big Four parley; fight back on McCarthyism." Then the main dispatch, displayed across the front page, tells about the three-day convention in Washington of the Americans for Democratic Action, which called for a fight on McCarthyism.

With praise for Harvard University, the "Daily Worker" says in its May 21 issue:

"The refusal of Harvard University to 'play ball' with the democracy-killing goons of the Velde-Jenner-McCarthy committees by firing three faculty members crucified by the witchhunters is an encouraging sign."

The "Daily Worker," moreover, attributes to McCarthy everything that the Eisenhower administration does—a technique that is being followed by many other persons who are trying to exaggerate "McCarthyism" as an issue. The "Daily Worker" says:

"This McCarthyite dictum on when and under what conditions the Eisenhower administration will condescend to talk with Soviet leaders cannot but give fresh alarm to the peoples of the world, especially the people of the United States."

FBI Next Target

Column upon column of tirades against McCarthy appears in the "Daily Worker," with a considerable amount of space playing up as worthy of admiration every attack against the Wisconsin senator.

Just why is the Communist organ so concerned about the senator and just why is it emphasizing "McCarthyism" in every day's issue? It must be that the Communists recognize that, if they can discredit or destroy McCarthy's crusade, they will also have bottled up every other congressional activity that tends to discredit what the Communists are doing.

Already the Communists have their knives sharpened against the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Once they can feel sure congressional inquiries are at an end, they will go after the FBI. In fact, they frequently now denounce J. Edgar Hoover and they are particularly annoyed with the work of his bureau in exposing and helping to convict the Rosenbergs. "They must not die," cries the "Daily Worker," as it appeals for the lives of the Rosenbergs. They call it all a "McCarthy frameup."

Considering the fury of the "Daily Worker," the anti-Communist crusade in America must be making progress.

John Bull And Uncle Sam

The Bermuda Big Three conference, now tentatively slated for June 17 or 18, will, among other things, give two old friends, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, a chance to discuss ways and means of jacking up Anglo-American relations from their present low ebb.

The political differences between John Bull and Uncle Sam stem from recognition by the British government on January 6, 1950, of the Communist government of China.

The British action three years ago, explained as "acknowledgment of a fact, not a mark of approbation," was taken with an eye on Britain's $840 million commercial interest in China. The United States, with investments in China (1950) of about $100 million, continued to recognize the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa. The fundamental divergence in their position on China renders the British much more acquiescent than we to UN membership for the Chinese Reds.

Rifts between Great Britain and the United States have a way of widening after wars. But the American and British governments and peoples have always emerged from such periods of coolness into periods of co-operation.

In this century differences between the two nations have been frequent and serious. Feeling in the United States ran high in the early days of World War I against Britain's extension of contraband lists and British methods of search and seizure at sea. The German submarine campaign and then American entry into the war as Britain's partner caused these differences to be overshadowed and then erased.

The World War I allies edged apart when the United States refused to join the League of Nations. But the gap was lessened by the naval limitations agreement of the Washington Conference of 1921-22 and the coincident ending of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Disagreement on cruiser limitation at the Geneva conference in 1927 caused another rift in the friendly atmosphere, widened the following year by disclosure of a secret Anglo-French naval treaty on armament. It took the 1930 London Naval Conference to heal these Anglo-American differences.

But at the same time the two governments were haggling over the U. S. Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act and Britain's indebtedness to the United States from World War I. Then came, successively, U. S. co-operation with Britain by invoking the neutrality act against Italy in 1935, and by withholding supplies from both sides in the Spanish Civil War in 1937. Joint action against totalitarian states, climaxing in the outbreak of World War II in September 1939, the U. S. Lend-Lease Act of 1941, and U. S. entry into the war brought the two nations probably closer than they had ever been before.

In Fulton, Mo., on March 5, 1946, Churchill, then out of office, called for a "fraternal association" of the United States and the British Empire and Commonwealth which would give the world "an overwhelming assurance of security." But despite tokens of friendship, such as the U. S. loan to Britain, on both sides the two nations have since tended to drift apart. Some of the coolness today has stemmed from Churchill's oft-repeated hankering for a top-level personal approach to Russia, opposed by the Truman administration and thus far questioned by President Eisenhower.

For John Bull: Dollars

When Elizabeth II rides to Westminster Abbey on June 2 to be crowned, American pronunciations will be heard along the route almost as much as Cockney or Oxford accents—if the travel agencies are to be believed. Although John Bull may complain that the "Ameddicans" are monopolizing the best seats, he is glad they are on hand, for they bring dollars that he needs.

One British authority on tourist travel estimates that U. S. visitors will spend over $100,000,000 this year in the British Isles and for passage on British boats and planes. Altogether, half a million Americans are expected to have crossed the Atlantic before the end of the year, and to have spent in all of Europe between $300,000,000 and $350,000,000.

This would mean that the average American tourist in Europe in 1953 will put out about $650 on his or her trip, exclusive of passage fares.

For a small nation like Switzerland the tourist trade is a major industry, just as it is for certain relatively small states of the Union. But for a populous nation like Great Britain, with its population of more than 50 million, the American tourist trade, although important economically, can be overemphasized as a factor in the British supply of dollars.

As against the $100,000,000 anticipated this year from U. S. visitors to England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, the British exported to this country last year merchandise valued at $485,000,000 and imported U. S. merchandise valued at $675,000,000. With the addition of "invisible" items, Britain had a dollar deficit in 1952, even after defense aid, of more than $450,000,000. She has been making a much better showing so far this year, but is must be remembered that a good many American tourists went to Britain last year also, even if not so many as are going this year.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day originated officially three years after the end of the Civil War—which many Southerners say would be more fittingly called "The War between the States"—when Major General Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, set aside May 30, 1868, for GAR members to decorate the graves of Union soldiers.

In 1882 the GAR formally resolved to call May 30 "Memorial Day" instead of "Decoration Day," but the latter term refused to die out. Some Southern states observe a separate Confederate Memorial Day—in Kentucky and Tennessee on June 3, birthday of Jefferson Davis.

Certain communities had unofficially observed a day for putting flowers on the graves of veterans before 1868. Two months after the surrender of Lee at Appomattox in 1865, men, women and children of Richmond marched in a body to Hollywood Cemetery to decorate graves of soldiers, Union and Confederate alike. A similar ceremony was held in Columbus, Miss. in 1866.

One of the 2,200,000 who wore the Blue in 1861-65 is still alive. He is Albert Woolson, 106, of Duluth, Minn., who served as a drummer boy. Several who wore the Gray also survive.

Almost 7,000 widows of Union veterans are alive as Memorial Day 1953 is celebrated. Their average age is around 88.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

An Old Problem: Constipation

Chronic constipation is a bad habit and many of those who are bothered admit they have never made an honest attempt to become regular. Some were too busy or too lazy to spend the time required for elimination. The bowel acted accordingly and ultimately refused to cooperate unless prodded by a laxative or stimulated by an enema.

There are exceptions to this rule, such as persons who were never constipated until they became ill with colitis or lead poisoning or acquired a painful rectal disorder or intestinal adhesions. Dehydration from insufficient liquids or profuse sweating adds to the difficulty. Constipation is more likely to occur among those who consume a preponderance of soft, starchy foods that lack bulk to stimulate evacuation.

Foods containing cellulose and pulpy fibers, such as fruits and vegetables, force the intestinal contents along for a number of reasons. Mechanical distention and irritation of the wall encourage the bowel to contract. The chemical action stems from concentration of sugar and neutral salts. Spinach, cabbage, onions, asparagus, parsnips, lettuce, and fresh and dried fruits are of value along this line.

Increasing the bulk will not solve the problem, however, unless the man or woman is willing to take the time to become regular. Eating when the stomach is empty creates a powerful stimulus and the majority find the period after breakfast the most favorable time to establish the reflex. For some, this means arising earlier to avoid hurry and tenseness. A few will require a small enema of tap water or olive oil, repeated daily at exactly the same time. Once the habit is fixed, these aids are no longer needed.

Constipation often is accompanied by headache, lassitude, poor appetite, and abdominal discomfort, but it is debatable whether these manifestations are caused by a sluggish bowel or merely are associated with it. The conviction that poisons are absorbed through the wall of the large intestine in periods of constipation goes back to the old idea of auto-intoxication popular before World War I. At that time some physicians conceived the notion that it was dangerous to allow the intestinal contents to remain stagnated within the bowel and they blamed numerous diseases upon the condition, varying from melancholia to feeblemindedness. Little did they realize that only liquids and no solids are reabsorbed from the lower intestine.

Now and then individuals who do not know the difference between normal and abnormal complain of constipation. It is true that most of us have a daily movement but thousands of perfectly healthy men and women seldom go more than two or three times a week. In other words, there is no need to become concerned or rush to the drug store for a laxative when we miss a day. The chances are the bowel will respond without help on the following day. (Additional suggestions are contained in our leaflet on constipation which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses hereditary curled fingers.

UNDETECTED SYPHILIS

R. T. writes: Can syphilis be contracted without showing any signs or symptoms until a late stage?

REPLY

Yes, and in many stances there are no signs or symptoms except for a positive blood test. This is the reason why periodic Wassermann or Kahn tests are recommended.

EYE HEMORRHAGES

F. W. writes: Will you please write something about hemorrhages of the eyes in a diabetic?

REPLY

Such hemorrhages usually are caused by rupture of the blood vessels back of the eyes. They are detected by a physician when he looks through the pupil with an ophthalmoscope.

MEASLES

Mrs. T. writes: Is German measles also known as false measles?

REPLY

No. Other names for German measles are rubella and three-day measles.

WISHFUL THINKING

Mrs. K. writes: What is false pregnancy?

REPLY

This is an unusual condition in which a woman is convinced she is pregnant and for months will go through the usual routine for the layette and other plans until it becomes apparent that pregnancy does not exist. Nervous women who are having marital difficulties are more likely to be so afflicted; others believe they can recapture their husband's affection by having a baby. This condition is not to be confused with misdiagnosed ovarian tumor or cyst.

World's Number One Model

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Budget Cut Could Come From Armed Services Co-ordination; Efficiency Of Supercarrier Questionable; Vulnerable To Air, Undersea, Atomic Attacks.

WASHINGTON—If Congress and the Ike administration want to balance the budget without jeopardizing national defense they will have to abandon the present uncoordinated system of parceling out money to the armed services.

In the past, the Joint Chiefs of Staff merely allotted appropriations to the Army, Navy, and Air Force, letting the individual service decide how each should spend its own share. Thus the Navy didn't pass on what types of airplanes the Air Force bought, nor did the Army or Air Force say anything about the type of airplane carriers the Navy built.

Under the current strict rules against interservice bickering, no criticism or opposition is allowed. As a result, Congress has heard only one side of the story regarding certain weapons, such as atomic artillery and supercarriers.

If the real purpose of Army-Navy unification is to be carried out, however, and if the budget is to be cut without endangering national security, it will be necessary for some top umpire to knock admirals' and generals' heads together in order to figure out the weapons that give most protection for the fewest dollars.

Best illustration of this is the supercarrier. Pride of the Navy, used to impress solons on congressional junkets, it nevertheless remains a fact that the latest carriers cannot squeeze through the Panama Canal and that a carrier force costs seven times more money, takes nine times more manpower and uses 13 times more fuel than an equivalent group of Air Force bombers.

Small carriers are in a different category. They are cheaper, are more efficient, get around with less protection, and are definitely needed to battle enemy submarines.

But here are some of the facts regarding the big carrier, the battle-wagon, which caused the admirals to rise in revolt against one secretary of Defense—Louey Johnson—and which must be carefully scrutinized if the Ike administration really wants to save money:

Carrier Scorecard

DIFFICULTY OF SUPPLY—A carrier task force consists of four carriers mounting about 450 planes, 30 destroyers, six cruisers or battleships, four scouting submarines and a mine-sweeping force. It is supplied by a mobile replenishment force of at least eight fleet oilers, an ammunition ship, store ship, a destroyer tender, a refrigerator ship and a fleet tug. This floating supply center in turn also needs protection, so the Navy assigns another carrier, five destroyers, four destroyer escorts and three frigates as a screen. Then these ships must be resupplied, and the ships supplying them must be protected in turn.

USE OF PLANES—This doesn't leave the 450 carrier planes free to attack the enemy. In hostile waters, at least half must stay behind and circle overhead to guard the task force against enemy air raids. Even the 225 planes that finally hit the enemy can't reach the major target area, since the Navy's most far-flying bombers can't get to the industrial heartland deep inside Russia except on one-way suicide missions.

COST OF CARRIER FORCE—The Navy won't talk cost figures, but a carrier task force with its full regalia costs roughly $2,500,000,000. In other words, only 225 plans are available for attack out of a $2,500,000,000 investment. By comparison, an Air Force B-50 bomber group—complete with air base, fighter protection, anti-aircraft defense and full supplies—costs less than $1,000,000,000. In contrast, a B-50 group can deliver about 15 times as much bomb tonnage on the enemy as a carrier task force.

Of course, a carrier force is more mobile and can change position as much as 350 miles in one night. However, a Russian MIG can cover this distance in half an hour, and three enemy jets flying 50 miles apart down the center of the Mediterranean with radar can sweep the whole sea.

Vulnerability Of Carriers

This brings up the question of carrier vulnerability, which the Navy doesn't like to talk about but which the taxpayers have a right to know.

VULNERABILITY TO AIR ATTACK—Big ships show up on radar much clearer than small planes. For example, RAF bombers took pictures through their radarscopes of the Navy's proud task force on maneuvers in the North Atlantic last September. Embarrassed admirals didn't know the bomber had been around until later. This makes Russia's swarm of MIG's, which could converge on a carrier force from Hundreds of Soviet bases a real danger.

VULNERABILITY TO UNDERSEA ATTACK—Submarines have proven their ability to sneak into the middle of a carrier group and pot off carriers left and right. For example, only 10 old-fashioned, World War II subs operated against the task force in the Baltic maneuvers. Yet the subs slipped through the most elaborate defenses and managed to claim torpedo hits against four carriers and a battleship. This should have been sobering news to the Navy, since Russia

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Kings And Queens

At the turn of the century, the world was full of kings and queens who formed a society of their own, an aristocracy of birth, tracing back for a thousand years in Europe and closely associated by marriages and family.

A rigid social system, stabilized in an ethical code which all understood and none transgressed openly, dominated all classes of human beings. The upper crust of society recognized its obligations to maintain this code, lest the human order become disturbed.

These feudal families had had their warning in the French Revolution and in Napoleonism, from which France never recovered. First the genius, Talleyrand, and then Bismarck had re-established an order which was withstanding the battering waves of socialism and revolution.

Victoria could smile at such fears, for in her British Empire this really German queen had won an affection not experienced by her numerous relatives on the continent. The aged Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary was heading a diminishing empire — proudest house of all Europe, the Hapsburgs, but already going to pieces.

Nicholas II of Russia remained the most autocratic of autocrats, but he was afraid of his power and of the unrest among the complex of peoples who composed his empire. Such queer organizations were coming into existence as the Social Democratic party of George Plekhanov, which was frightening because these German ideas were proving attractive to intellectuals even among the aristocracy.

The Hohenzollern had emerged after the Napoleonic era as the leading house among the Germanic nations. Bismarck had created a mighty state, but he was a servant to a royal house, and as a servant, he was in effect, dismissed. Wilhelm II, young, aggressive, impetuous, jealous of Great Britain, fearful of Russia, with a parvenu's love of publicity, held court as emperor. He craved the center of the stage and held it until war brought him exile.

There were many other kings and queens, and their visits to each other, their meetings at various spas, their marriages and funerals were affairs of the greatest importance. They were the terminus of feudalism and few of them have survived the wars, revolutions and depressions of the past half century.

Kings were toppled from their thrones. Carlos I of Portugal and his son Manuel II were among the first to go, Carlos by assassination; Manuel by flight. Pu-Yi of Manchuria was driven from the Chinese throne. World War I destroyed the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollern; the Turkish dynasty fell before the Young Turks. Spain, Portugal, Italy, the Balkan countries became republics of one kind or another.

The ancient institutions of royalty continued in the Scandanavian countries and the Netherlands, Belgium, Greece and in Great Britain in Europe. There are still several kings in Asia and the equivalent of kings in Africa. In Europe, the remaining kings are limited monarchs, controlled by constitutions and acts of legislation. They are democratic and beloved. They have survived this era of so-called democracy because they have held the affections of their people. None of them rules over his people. Their influence upon their subjects is profound because of the emotional response which their persons evoke.

The institution of kingship in Great Britain is about to experience a stimulating renewal in the dramatic pageantry of the coronation of Elizabeth II, a young woman who charms her people by her simplicity and Englishness. The British have had several queens; the greatest of these were Elizabeth and Victoria.

Elizabeth II starts her reign under great political strain in which she is an onlooker. But the hope of the British is that her personality will keep what is left of the empire and commonwealth bound together in the crown. It is this hope and belief that makes the crown so politically essential to Great Britain at this time. Elizabeth II's consort, Philip of Greece, whose family is closely related to hers, both being of German origin, seems to be the most British of Britishers and may come to mean to Britain what Victoria's consort, Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, came to mean in another era.

It is one of the phenomena of our period that no anti-monarchial movement exists in Great Britain and that the British subject, even in the days of highest taxes, prefers the expense of monarchy. The coronation ceremony and festivities are with them no mere formality; it is of the very marrow of that nation.

All these cases and many others add up to one conclusion. Secretary Dulles has had much unfairness since he took his thankless job. But he cannot fairly be excused from responsibility for the administration of his own department. And his first duty is to see that some measure of common decency and old-fashioned Americanism is made to prevail there.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Examination of recent issues of the "Daily Worker," the organ of the Communists in the United States, reveals that the drive against Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin has taken on renewed vigor.

Not only did the "Daily Worker" originally coin the word "McCarthyism" but it now uses the word "McCarthyites" to describe all persons who are against Communist activities in America or Communist policies abroad.

Even the appointment of a chairman of the Board of Education in New York City, who would be expected to make short shrift of Communist agents among teachers in the schools, is described in a May 20 headline thus: "McCarthyite heads board of higher education."

Instruction Sheet

Since the "Daily Worker" is an instruction sheet to all Communists in America—guiding them as to what line to take from day to day in their efforts to influence schools, colleges, churchmen, newspapermen, radio commentators, movie actors and producers and anybody else who can radiate influence to millions of people — the following headline in the May 25 issue is significant:

"How to turn anger at McCarthy into a struggle to stop him."

Then follows this comment:

"Throughout the United States today, resistance to McCarthyism is on the upsurge. Individuals and organizations who yesterday looked the other way while the senator from Wisconsin blew one prop after another from under the Bill of Rights are emerging from their neutral corners.

"Among the most recent to join the good fight against McCarthyism are the National Council of Churches in the U.S.A., the Commission of Justice and Peace of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, two hundred members of Princeton University's faculty, the National Education Association, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Amherst Alumni Association of Washington . . .

"Those who, under McCarthyism fire, couple their disavowal of pro-communism with an accommodating attack on the Communist party are strengthening McCarthy's big lie. McCarthyism's stock in trade is the lie that communism is an imminent and mortal threat to the country."

Still another headline, this one on Monday, May 25, reads: "Call for Big Four parley; fight back on McCarthyism." Then the main dispatch, displayed across the front page, tells about the three-day convention in Washington of the Americans for Democratic Action, which called for a fight on McCarthyism.

With praise for Harvard University, the "Daily Worker" says in its May 21 issue:

"The refusal of Harvard University to 'play ball' with the democracy-killing goons of the Velde-Jenner-McCarthy committees by firing three faculty members crucified by the witchhunters is an encouraging sign."

The "Daily Worker," moreover, attributes to McCarthy everything that the Eisenhower administration does—a technique that is being followed by many other persons who are trying to exaggerate "McCarthyism" as an issue. The "Daily Worker" says:

"This McCarthyite dictum on when and under what conditions the Eisenhower administration will condescend to talk with Soviet leaders cannot but give fresh alarm to the peoples of the world, especially the people of the United States."

FBI Next Target

Column upon column of tirades against McCarthy appears in the "Daily Worker," with a considerable amount of space playing up as worthy of admiration every attack against the Wisconsin senator.

Just why is the Communist organ so concerned about the senator and just why is it emphasizing "McCarthyism" in every day's issue? It must be that the Communists recognize that, if they can discredit or destroy McCarthy's crusade, they will also have bottled up every other congressional activity that tends to discredit what the Communists are doing.

Already the Communists have their knives sharpened against the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Once they can feel sure congressional inquiries are at an end, they will go after the FBI. In fact, they frequently now denounce J. Edgar Hoover and they are particularly annoyed with the work of his bureau in exposing and helping to convict the Rosenbergs. "They must not die," cries the "Daily Worker," as it appeals for the lives of the Rosenbergs. They call it all a "McCarthy frameup."

Considering the fury of the "Daily Worker," the anti-Communist crusade in America must be making progress.

WASHINGTON—Despite all you hear of government activities in behalf of labor, farmers and big business, the interests of small businessmen are being carefully looked after here.

For many years the House has had a Select Committee on Small Business, and last week it held three days of hearings on the tax problem of small businessmen.

The committee staff reported to the members that "heavy taxation has resulted in inadequate financing through retained earnings for both working capital and longer term purposes." The report said growing small businesses haven't been able to secure enough funds to improve their competitve positions

Craig Schaeffer, assistant secretary of Commerce, went before another committee recently and said, "There should be a single place in the federal government to which small businesses may look for assistance." He was speaking in favor of a bill to create an independent Small Business Administration.

Every congressman will pay close attention to this legislation, especially in view of the administration plan to permit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to expire. It is too early to say exactly what form new legislation may take, but I can assure the many small business owners throughout the Sixth District that their interests are not being overlooked.

THE WEEK'S WORK

Highlights of the week's work: I was able to obtain Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of engineers, as a speaker at Antietam Battleground where I will also speak Saturday at Memorial Day exercises. Gen. Sturgis' grandfather fought at Antietam . . . I have requested an extension by the Post Office Department of R.R. 1 out of Little Orleans to serve eight more families . . . Arrangements have been completed by my office for Boy Scout Troop 4 of Cumberland to billet at Bolling Air Force Base next Friday . . . Next Thursday I will testify before the Interior Committee in favor of my bill to grant rights-of-way along the C. and O. Canal so full use of the river can be made for municipal and industrial development.

I have introduced a bill which, in addition to setting up an interstate Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission to regulate bus and streetcar transportation, provides for an investigation of area transit problems as suggested by my colleague, Rep. Broyhill (R) of Virginia. Hearings continued on it this week . . . There has been a proposal to reorganize the government of D. C., and I am looking into certain phases of it which affect people in our Sixth District, particularly changes affecting the health department.

Josephine Britten Is Honor Guest At Pre-Nuptial Shower

Miss Katherine Diamond entertained in honor of Miss Josephine Britten, with a pre-nuptial linen shower, Wednesday evening at her home, Frederick Street.

Miss Britten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Britten, 442 North Mechanic Street, is the fiancee of Francis Lee Parker, son of Mrs. Earl F. Parker, 10 Schiller Terrace, and the late Mr. Parker. She is to become his bride June 27.

A white and gold color scheme was carried out with the decorations and assorted cut garden flowers. The hostess was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Frank Diamond Sr., her aunt, Mrs. Joseph Augustine Sr., and Mrs. Walter Flender.

Guests attending were Miss Carolyn Boyle, Miss Rosemary Bucklew, Miss Delores Connor, Miss Patricia Hinds, Miss Norma Flender, Miss Joann Lippold, Miss Patricia Miltenberger, Miss Teresa Miltenberger, Miss Marjorie News, Miss Maureene Morse, Miss Toby Ann Morressey, Miss Eleanor Minke, Miss Sandra Tasker, Miss Mary Jo Simpson, Miss Gail Treiber and Miss Nellie Ann Wilson.

Homemakers Elect Delegate

A short executive meeting was held at the countywide Garden Party of the homemakers yesterday at the home of Mrs. Holmes Cessna, Bedford Road. Mrs. Julia Lewis was elected delegate to the National Council, being held in Boston, August 31. Mrs. John Cook was named alternate.

Final registrations were taken for RWSC, June 15-20 at College Park.

The entertainment consisted of selections by the Homemakers Chorus. The selections were "For the Beauty of the Earth," "Fair Hills and Valleys," "Sprong Morning," "Early One Morning," and "Morning." Everyone joined in the singing of "America the Beautiful." Final numbers were "Home on the Range," and "Swanee River."

Spring flowers centered the tea table. Mrs. R. H. Aldreidge, Frostburg; and Mrs. Ernest Powell presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Cook was Refreshment chairman.

Mr. Cessna showed the guests his collection of antiques and guns.

Sport Club Picnic To Be June 25

The Women's Sport Club held a brief business session at the monthly dinner, Tuesday evening at Clarysville Inn. A name was submitted for membership and will be voted upon next month.

To perk up your weekend costumes, make yourself this enchanting accessory just as the models do!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

The models have a trick that adds a perky fresh touch to a costume—just the kind of touch that means so much to a gal with a big weekend on her calendar. It's something that makes a conversation piece; sparks your ego because you made it yourself; and it will give a bright new accent to any costume!

It's about as lovely and real-looking a carnation as ever you looked upon—and you fashion it out of these simple materials you can find around almost any house: a piece of standard, white cleansing tissue, near square in shape and of the two-ply kind, a spool of very thin wire, a safety pin and a lipstick.

Model Touch

1. Place the tissue on a table so that the grain runs from left to right and fold it toward you in half. 2. By working from left to right accordion pleate the entire length in neat, sharp, half-inch folds. The finished effect should be that of a tightly closed fan.

3. Open the safety pin, place it in the center of the top fold and loop your wire tightly around both tissue and top frame of the pin.

4. Pink the ends by nipping them with your fingernails. Do not use the pinking shears or they will not produce the desired ragged, irregular edge, characteristic of a carnation.

5. Carefully separate each layer of tissue. At this point, petals begin to take shape. 6. With the thumbs, flaten the base of the flower. 7. Lightly brush the petal tips with lipstick.

Corsage or Topknot

Presto, you have a fresh, delightful costume accessory! One on the lapel of a summer suit is charming. Several bunched together make an enchanting topknot or corsage for a party frock Add narrow, red white and blue streamers if it's patriotism you wish to show. Or add streamers to match your frock. If you really want to fool your public, scent your posies with carnations cologne you'll have a spicy aura to complement your piquant looks!

Do as model Ann Holt does and make a batch at a sitting. Stow them away and you'll always have a model touch ready for making a model appearance!

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—I turned to meditating last night, the way one does after the Lone Ranger just has ridden off the television screen, and the item I pondered over was Statan Island's ax murderers. I wondered if the place still was full of them.

I am being a trifle facetious, of course. Years ago, for money, I wrote a book about New York phenomena and in discussing its five boroughs I came at last to Staten Island. Well, like most Manhattanites, I though—what can you say about Staten Island? So I just described it as "a forlorn, misbegotten borough full of farms and ax murderers" and let it go at that. The postal carnage was frightening. Every day brought a new bag of mail from outraged Staten Islanders, some jamming the beauties and wonders of their homeland down my throat and others merely threatening to give me what-for, if they caught up with me.

Since then I have researched and personally investigated the island a little more thoroughly and have discovered that, while it never will replace Times Square in the hearts of men, it is a remarkable place. The most remarkable thing about it is that it bears no resemblance to the rest of New York at all.

Actually, Statan Island—its real and official name is Richmond—is a 14-mile-long island five miles across the lower bay from the southern tip of Manhattan. It contains 190,000 or so residents and it can be reached from the rest of New York only by ferry — by a famous, wonderful, dreamy ferry—although it is accessible to neighboring New Jersey by bridge. If the ferries ever broke down, commuting Staten Islanders would be forced to come to Manhattan by auto through Jersey. Likely the more intelligent ones would rather starve first.

Old and sleepy and looking like a high-class Hoboken, with here and there some fertile farmland, Statan Island is a community of home-owners. Four point three families in each 10 own their own homes. Apartment buildings are almost unheard of, and crime, it says here, is only footling. They do say that in the past decade only one person has been tried for first-degree murder there and he was acquitted. So much for ax murderers.

There was a time when cops who were in bad—either for accepting graft or for not accepting it—were exiled to the Island to walk a beat and this made for countless jokes in Broadway plays. However, it wasn't too bad, actually; with no call-in boxes on the Staten Island beats, the cops would phone into the station house before setting out on the beats and say "I'll be in the Doakes restaurant in six hours." Then they'd go down to the St. George ferry slip, sail to Manhattan and enjoy life for five hours before coming back to "Siberia." One cop supposed to be walking a beat on the Island once was picked up in Harlem, in upper Manhattan, during a fist fight.

Life as the burghers on Staten Island live it—Irish and Italian are the predominant racial strain—must resemble existence in a sleepy little English town. The corner saloon is the mecca for wahtever nightlife there is. Few Islanders make more than $10,000 a year; few make less than $2,500. If there is such a thing as a true middle class in America, it must be here—with the middle class men and women stirring uneasily now and then as they read of the violence and extremeness of life across the lower bay, in Manhattan.

Farming is a million-dollar business in Richmond, and even trapping is a big deal; around 12,000 muskrats are caught there each year and their skins peddled for four bucks each. Of course, Staten Island is more famous for its ferries—nine or ten of them, operated by the city at an annual $5 million loss. In addition to being full of bootblacks, strolling accordionists, lovers and probabl, here and there a wistful ax murderer, the ferries often contain suicide-bound souls. About 20 or 25 people a year leap from these venerable scows into the silty and garbage-filled waters of the bay. Usually they are fetched back on board, shivering and covered with banana peels and disillusion.

Although Mexico City is situated nearly 7,500 feet above sea level, it stands in a depression that once was covered by a lake.

Byrd Plans New South Pole Trip

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Veteran polar explorer Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd yesterday announced plans for another expedition to the South Pole as soon as the Korean War is over, and added "I have reason to believe the war will be over very soon."

"There is a land area in Antarctica as large as the United States which, so far as is known, has never been seen by human eye," the wiry 64-year-old explorer said.

"It is a vast, untouched reservoir of natural resources. As we recklessly squander our natural resources in this country we will come to need these new sources. It is imperative that they do not fall into the hands of a potential enemy."

The announcement came at a luncheon at which Byrd accepted appointment as vice president in charge of the frozen products division of Arnold Bakers, Inc., of Port Chester, New York.

The secret ballot method of voting originated in Australia.

The affair honored the incoming and retiring officers.

Well, like most Manhattanites, I though—what can you say about Staten Island? So I just described it as "a forlorn, misbegotten borough full of farms and ax murderers" and let it go at that. The postal carnage was frightening. Every day brought a new bag of mail from outraged Staten Islanders, some jamming the beauties and wonders of their homeland down my throat and others merely threatening to give me what-for, if they caught up with me.

Since then I have researched and personally investigated the island a little more thoroughly and have discovered that, while it never will replace Times Square in the hearts of men, it is a remarkable place. The most remarkable thing about it is that it bears no resemblance to the rest of New York at all.

Actually, Statan Island—its real and official name is Richmond—is a 14-mile-long island five miles across the lower bay from the southern tip of Manhattan. It contains 190,000 or so residents and it can be reached from the rest of New York only by ferry — by a famous, wonderful, dreamy ferry—although it is accessible to neighboring New Jersey by bridge. If the ferries ever broke down, commuting Staten Islanders would be forced to come to Manhattan by auto through Jersey. Likely the more intelligent ones would rather starve first.

Old and sleepy and looking like a high-class Hoboken, with here and there some fertile farmland, Statan Island is a community of home-owners. Four point three families in each 10 own their own homes. Apartment buildings are almost unheard of, and crime, it says here, is only footling. They do say that in the past decade only one person has been tried for first-degree murder there and he was acquitted. So much for ax murderers.

There was a time when cops who were in bad—either for accepting graft or for not accepting it—were exiled to the Island to walk a beat and this made for countless jokes in Broadway plays. However, it wasn't too bad, actually; with no call-in boxes on the Staten Island beats, the cops would phone into the station house before setting out on the beats and say "I'll be in the Doakes restaurant in six hours." Then they'd go down to the St. George ferry slip, sail to Manhattan and enjoy life for five hours before coming back to "Siberia." One cop supposed to be walking a beat on the Island once was picked up in Harlem, in upper Manhattan, during a fist fight.

Life as the burghers on Staten Island live it—Irish and Italian are the predominant racial strain—must resemble existence in a sleepy little English town. The corner saloon is the mecca for whatever nightlife there is. Few Islanders make more than $10,000 a year; few make less than $2,500. If there is such a thing as a true middle class in America, it must be here—with the middle class men and women stirring uneasily now and then as they read of the violence and extremeness of life across the lower bay, in Manhattan.

Farming is a million-dollar business in Richmond, and even trapping is a big deal; around 12,000 muskrats are caught there each year and their skins peddled for four bucks each. Of course, Staten Island is more famous for its ferries—nine or ten of them, operated by the city at an annual $5 million loss. In addition to being full of bootblacks, strolling accordionists, lovers and probabl, here and there a wistful ax murderer, the ferries often contain suicide-bound souls. About 20 or 25 people a year leap from these venerable scows into the silty and garbage-filled waters of the bay. Usually they are fetched back on board, shivering and covered with banana peels and disillusion.

Byrd Plans New South Pole Trip

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Veteran polar explorer Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd yesterday announced plans for another expedition to the South Pole as soon as the Korean War is over, and added "I have reason to believe the war will be over very soon."

"There is a land area in Antarctica as large as the United States which, so far as is known, has never been seen by human eye," the wiry 64-year-old explorer said.

"It is a vast, untouched reservoir of natural resources. As we recklessly squander our natural resources in this country we will come to need these new sources. It is imperative that they do not fall into the hands of a potential enemy."

The announcement came at a luncheon at which Byrd accepted appointment as vice president in charge of the frozen products division of Arnold Bakers, Inc., of Port Chester, New York.

The secret ballot method of voting originated in Australia.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK — (INS) — In this country only sports writers can understand how France can continue as a big league power despite the fact that it changes premiers every time any American tourist orders pressed duck under duress at Tour D'Argent.

Generally, I think, we are a people who cannot comprehend how a country can get along without a head man. Suppose nobody had succeeded Mr. Truman? Or Mr. Roosevelt? Or Mr. Hoover? We think of a leaderless nation as we think of a rudderless ship off Hatteras in September, a desert rat staggering across a flood of mirages, a military commentator whose pins have been pulled out of his map.

But the French, like members of the Washington Redskins or St. Louis Cardinals, shrug off such mishaps. They just go along staying in the big show, making a buck from time to time. They have had abundant proof of the truth in that fine old bromide of international affairs: It doesn't matter how you play the game but whether you win or lose. A draw, of course, is to be preferred, and it isn't very important which premier, or manager, keeps you in the league.

The New York Yankees of the American League, for example, have been tops in baseball for about as long as the United States has been tops in power politics. They, too, have undergone periodic changes in government. They originally got hot with Premier Miller Huggins, cooled out with Bob Shawkey, reheated themselves with Joe McCarthy, cooled a mite with Bill Dickey, rose again with Bucky Harris, experienced a period of coolth thereafter, and have been hot with Casey Stengel since then. But they were always the Yankees.

If Casey is fired tomorrow for issuing the first statement of his life that has predicates in the sentence, the Yankees will stay big. Some old hand in the business eventually will be deputized to carry on in Casey's stead. When he in turn is fired, some other familiar fellow will be hired. Probably Steve O'Neill. He always is. The Yankees intrinsically will remain the same.

The list of French premiers since November 1945 runs like this: DeGaulle, Gouin, Bidault, Blum, Ramadier, Schuman, Marie, Schuman, Queuille, Bidault, Queuille, Pleven, Queuille, Pleven, Faure, Pinay, and Mayer. People who follow the fortunes of the Phils and Reds in the National League, or the Browns and Senators in the American will see nothing especially strange about that turnover. And they can understand how a team survives between managers. There isn't much for the stand-in to do except hand the line-up to the umpire before the game.

Jimmy Dykes, a free thinker in baseball, once suggested that the Yankees did not need a manager. What they needed, he said, was simply somebody who could push a button and start the robots moving. Not too long after that, the Chicago White Sox, Mr. Dykes' employers, decided that they were different from the Yankees in that they did indeed need a manager, so they fired Jimmy.

But Jimmy had a good point, as fifty million Frenchmen will agree. Since the last big war the French have been demonstrating that there may be such thing as too much government; that people can get along pretty good without the rattlings of top officialdom provided there is a core of know-how in the land.

Let us not cast the first stone at La Belle France's noggin. She is doing pretty darn good. Somebody is always coming to her defense whether she wants to be defended or not. More people want to go to France to spend their money than to any other place on earth. Far more, indeed, want to go there than to countries which reflect our stability in government, countries like England, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Belgium.

If you made your American salary in leaderless France today you'd be a rich man and able to luxuriate in your wealth. If you were in the portfolio business in France you would be one of the richest men in the world, thanks to a constant exchange that far exceeds the exchange of French postcards. The French in their inscrutable manner seem to have put government in its place by proving they can do just about as well without one as with one.

B&O Against Ore Rail Rate Slash

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad offered testimony yesterday opposing a move for lower rail rates on imported iron ore from Newport News, Va., to Toledo, O.

The Chesapeake & Ohio railway is seeking Interstate Commerce Commission approval of iron ore rates between those points equal to those between Baltimore and Cleveland.

Such proposed rates for transshipping to Great Lakes points have been suspended by the commission pending a determination if they are justified.

E. A. Schofield, Baltimore, B & O freight traffic manager, testified that the B & O objects to the C & O providing rates from Hampton Road ports in Virginia to Toledo docks lower than the B & O provides from Baltimore to Toledo.

The B & O does not object, he told ICC Examiner John A. Russell, to the C & O providing the same rates from Hampton Roads to Toledo docks as the B & O provides from Baltimore to Toledo.

Earlier, R. J. Beatty, Richmond, Va., C & O coal traffic manager, testified that the C & O needs the same rates to Toledo as between Baltimore and Cleveland to meet competition.

Beatty testified that the proposed rates for C & O are not unduly low.

In opposing the proposed lower rates, Schofield said the port of Baltimore has spent millions of dollars developing its facilities and that the port has the advantage of a shorter haul to the west.

He said he knew of no reason to make an exception of iron ore in the present rate schedules.

The largest diamond in King George III's crown fell out during his coronation. Later, people said this forecast loss of the American colonies.

B&O Against Ore Rail Rate Slash

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad offered testimony yesterday opposing a move for lower rail rates on imported iron ore from Newport News, Va., to Toledo, O.

The Chesapeake & Ohio railway is seeking Interstate Commerce Commission approval of iron ore rates between those points equal to those between Baltimore and Cleveland.

Such proposed rates for transshipping to Great Lakes points have been suspended by the commission pending a determination if they are justified.

E. A. Schofield, Baltimore, B & O freight traffic manager, testified that the B & O objects to the C & O providing rates from Hampton Road ports in Virginia to Toledo docks lower than the B & O provides from Baltimore to Toledo.

The B & O does not object, he told ICC Examiner John A. Russell, to the C & O providing the same rates from Hampton Roads to Toledo docks as the B & O provides from Baltimore to Toledo.

Earlier, R. J. Beatty, Richmond, Va., C & O coal traffic manager, testified that the C & O needs the same rates to Toledo as between Baltimore and Cleveland to meet competition.

Beatty testified that the proposed rates for C & O are not unduly low.

In opposing the proposed lower rates, Schofield said the port of Baltimore has spent millions of dollars developing its facilities and that the port has the advantage of a shorter haul to the west.

He said he knew of no reason to make an exception of iron ore in the present rate schedules.

Gas Company Merger Plan Is Being Heard By PSC

A hearing on an application seeking authorization to merge the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company into the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company opened yesterday in Baltimore.

C. C. Robbins, manager here for the gas company, said the proposed merger is a move by the Columbia Gas System toward "corporate simplification" of the operating companies.

The Federal Power Commission approved the merger March 19, but permission must be granted also by the Maryland and West Virginia Public Service Commissions. The West Virginia Public Service Commission has already held its hearing on the proposal.

Columbia holds the stock of both companies, Robbins explained. Each company has the same officers and administrative personnel, and pipelines of each company are connected in four places to form an integrated unit.

Operations of both companies will continue as at present and "no customers of either company will be injured" by the proposed merger, according to the application.

Cumberland and Allegheny serves approximately 36,000 customers in Maryland and West Virginia—about 20,000 in Maryland and about 16,000 in West Virginia. Manufacturers operates in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

The application also states that the merger would "bring about savings in bookkeeping and administrative expenses which will, in the long run, benefit customers," Robbins said.

The application also points out that the merger would make no difference in the gas supply of either company, because the gas supply of all Columbia Gas System companies is pooled.

WM Passenger Train Run To End Saturday

The last passenger train between Cumberland and Hagerstown will leave here Saturday at 12:45 p. m. and the last incoming train on that service is scheduled to arrive here at 3:30 p. m. that day.

The discontinuance of the run was permitted by the State Public Service Commission following a request by the Western Maryland.

Medical Unit Recipient Of Doctor's Books

In ceremonies held recently at the School of Medicine, Georgetown University, Mrs. James Cobey, widow of Dr. J. C. Cobey, Frostburg, presented a collection of her husband's books and medical instruments to the Georgetown school. Dr. Cobey was a veteran Western Maryland physician, establishing his practice in Frostburg in the fall of 1896 and continuing to serve the area until his death in 1940.

Dr. Cobey helped to establish a 50-bed general hospital in Frostburg. He was greatly interested in and devoted much of his practice to cases involving traumatic surgery.

Dr. Cobey was a member of the class of 1896 at the Georgetown school. His son, Dr. Milton Cobey, is professor and director of orthopedic surgery at the Georgetown school.

The modern instruments presented by Mrs. Cobey at the ceremony will be used at the medical school. Others with historical interest will be displayed. Rev. Paul A. McNally, S. J., director of the Georgetown Medical Center, accepted the gift on behalf of the university.

Others present at the ceremony included Dr. Milton Cobey, Earl Cobey, an attorney, both sons of Dr. James Cobey; James C. Cobey II, a grandson, and Rev. Thomas J. O'Donnell, S. J., assistant to the dean of the Georgetown school. Father O'Donnell is a native of Frostburg and a long time friend of the Cobey family.

Draftee Exam Station Moved

Selective Service registrants of Allegany County draft boards will report in Fairmont (W. Va.) for pre-induction physical examinations, effective next month.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator here, has announced that the Baltimore Armed Forces Examining Station will discontinue accommodating Cumberland area men for the present. Winter months may result in other changes.

However, he added, local boards will continue to send draftees to Baltimore until June 15 when one registrant enters service. After that, inductees also will go to Fairmont.

Since 1948, district SS registrants have been examined in Cumberland, Martinsburg and then Baltimore.

Fahey said the round-trip to Fairmont via bus is approximately 70 miles shorter than the Baltimore distance. The move is apparently in line with the government's economy stand.

Leaving June 8 for physicals at Fairmont will be ten registrants of Board 27; 13 in Board 28; eight from Board 29 and four in Frostburg Board 30. The contingent will depart at 7 a. m. (DST).

Grace Brethren Church Being Planned Here

Plans are being made to start a new church, Grace Brethren, in Cumberland.

A mid-week Bible class held its first regular meeting yesterday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Austin of Bowling Avenue, Bowling Green.

The class was initiated by Rev. H. Leslie Moore, Meyersdale, Pa., and James Hoffmeyer, class teacher and student at Grace Theological Seminary at Winona Lake, Ind.

Sunday services will be added to the schedule after the church is organized.

Mattress Catches Fire

East Side firemen were called yesterday morning to 231 Williams Street when a mattress ignited. Damage was minor.

Allegany High Assembly Held

The traditional senior assembly was held yesterday morning in the auditorium of Allegany High School. The flag salute was led by Dean Hancox and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner was directed by Miss Dorothy Willison of the music department.

Pat Fallen read the Scripture and Kenneth McGraw sang The Lord's Prayer with Norman Scribner, accompanist.

Raymond O. McCullough, principal, presented activity awards to representatives of organizations which serve the school. Miss Mary Murray received a Freedom Foundation library (41 books) from Barbara Nicholls. Shirley Messman spoke on "High on a Hill." Walter Bosley, Senior Class president, presented the gavel of leadership and responsibility to Bernard Beerman, next year's Senior Class president. The Seniors relinquished their places in the auditorium to the juniors and sang the school song "Dear Old High School."

The stage design was executed by Mrs. Milnor Bruce and the Senior Poster Club. The stage crew was directed by Arthur Wickard.

Calhoun Also Listed As Rec Supervisor

The name of Charles O. Calhoun was omitted from the list of playground supervisors which was published Tuesday.

Calhoun and two others were named to that particular position under the summer program of the Recreation Department. He will be paid $150 a month.

The Mayor and Council approved the temporary appointments at its regular session Monday.

Maps Available

Copies of 1953 state tourist maps issued by the Maryland State Roads Commission have been received here and are available for distribution to the public, District Engineer G. Bates Chaires said yesterday.

The new map gives the location of the many picnic areas in the state, he added.

Copies of the maps may be secured, Chaires stated by calling or writing to the State Roads Commission office here at 305 Decatur Street. Telephone requests will also be filled. The district office has two phones—816 and 3728.

Celanese Declares 25-Cent Dividend

Directors of the Celanese Corporation of America Tuesday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable June 24 to holders of record June 5.

The board also voted regular quarterly dividends of $1.12½ on the preferred stock Series A, and $1.75 on the 7 per cent second preferred stock.

Both preferred stock dividends are payable July 1, to holders of record June 5, 1953.

Finan To Head County Fund Drive To Build Bar Center

Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, has been named county director in the campaign of the American Bar Foundation to raise $1,500,000 from the lawyers of the country to build an American Bar Center in Chicago. Announcement of his appointment was made by Thomas K. Everngam of Denton, state director for Maryland.

The American Bar Center is designed to furnish a national center for research in the law and to supply a headquarters for the American Bar Association and organizations of the legal profession affiliated with that association.

One building will house the headquarters and another will constitute a 'Service Center" for the entire profession. In the latter will be assembled, for the first time in one place, a library of all publications of state and local bar associations and other units of the organized bar.

Research, to be piloted in this second building, will include projects for the sections and committees of the American Bar Association and affiliated organizations. The Center will also be a clearing house for studies by other groups, including state and local bar associations and law schools. The activity is designed to bring about closer coordination and avoidance of duplication in research.

Rites Set Today For Victims Of District Blaze

Mass funeral services for four young brothers and sisters and their teen-age cousin, who perished Tuesday in a fire in Petersburg, will be held today at 10 a. m. in Church of God there.

Rev. J. W. Hughes, pastor, will officiate with interment in Maplewood Cemetery.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital as a result of the tragic blaze was Mrs. Sarah Harrison, 54, who suffered second degree burns of the arms, shoulders and neck. Her condition is satisfactory.

The victims — four children of Mr. and Mrs. Foster George and the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mongold—were trapped in the flaming second floor of their two-story frame house. Seventeen members of three families lived in the building.

A fifth child of the Georges was rescued by her grandmother, Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. Mongold, also a daughter of the woman, was burned in the fire and received treatment at a clinic.

Burned to death were Shirley Lee, 11, Caroline Sue, 8, Larry, 4 and Terry Alvin George, 3, and Anglee Mongold. The Georges have two other children, Brenda Kay and Sharon Jean.

In addition to her parents, the Mongold girl is survived by four sisters, Donna Faye, Lee Anna, Patricia Ann and Betty Lou; two brothers, Bruce and Jackie, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harrison.

The bodies are at the Shaffer Funeral Home, Petersburg. No inquest was necessary.

prevent this from happening to some other boy, and prevent other families from suffering a similar experience."

"It's wrong," he said, "All wrong."

Pvt. Fuller entered service April 7, 1953, after being physically examined in Baltimore. He was sent to Fort George G. Meade where he remained a couple of weeks before going to Aberdeen.

Started With Cold

During his short stay at Meade he contracted a cold. This cold continued and on Mother's Day, when members of his family visited him at Aberdeen, he was well and in good spirits except for the cold.

The following day, Pvt. Fuller went to the rifle range with other men of his unit. He became very ill while on the range and was sent back to his barracks on Thursday, May 14. He remained at the barracks, in bed without food or medical attention until Monday, May 18, when his parents and wife went to see him.

The family had become alarmed when one of his buddies called them Sunday night and said "Bill is pretty sick. He fainted three times Sunday and has been spitting blood and vomiting."

Said "Nothing Wrong"

The mother, father and wife went down Monday. The sick soldier was hospitalized the next day, Tuesday, May 19. Medical officers insisted in conversations with the father that the soldier "had nothing organically wrong with him," that he might have to be taken before a psychiatrist and that he was having trouble adjusting himself to the Army.

On Wednesday the family returned. It was at this time, Mrs. Mary Fuller, the soldier's wife, stayed down.

On Thursday morning, she was advised her husband had been listed as "seriously ill" so she could nurse him.

Thursday, May 21, one week after Pvt. Fuller had become too ill for duty, and two days after he was hospitalized, he died.

NEIGHBORS FILE PROTEST

Neighbors today filed protests against the John Jones family. They report that it is becoming increasingly difficult to "keep up with the Joneses". The Joneses are well known in their neighborhood for their smart, well-dressed appearance. In answer to the protest, Mr. Jones replied, "I don't know what all the ruckus is about. It's easy to keep up with me and my family. We buy our beautiful clothes at the Peoples Store and pay in small weekly amounts, and what's more, there's no extra charge for credit. Go find out for yourself, the Peoples Store is located at 77 Baltimore St., Cumberland, Md.

He said Cumberland is faced with a selling job and that the first thing to be done is to analyze what Cumberland has to sell as a site for industry.

Peterson cited particularly, as did Rock, the value of industrial zoning and said that as factories are not allowed to encroach on residences, neither should residences be allowed to move into industrial areas.

The meeting was held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with Burke presiding. Invocation was asked by Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church. Dinner music was by the Colomy Trio.

Elected Treasurer

Doris Ann Platt, sophomore in the College of Education at Ohio University, has been elected treasurer of Chimes, national honor society for junior women. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt, 757 Cleveland Avenue, she is active in Kappa Phi, religious sorority; Wesley Foundation, religious group; University of Chorus; and serves as chairman of Howard Hall dormitory.

Holiday Speeds License Deadline

Because Saturday is the Memorial Day holiday, tomorrow is the last day for Allegany County business men to purchase state traders, restaurant, cigarette and vending machine licenses without payment of penalty, according to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

The licenses were supposed to have been purchased by May 1, but a 30-day grace period is allowed. Beginning Monday, a 10 per cent penalty will be added for each month any license is not purchased.

Local Woman, Children Arrive In Germany

Mrs. George C. Beckwith, 425 Independence Street, has just receied a cablegram notifying her that her daughter and two grandchildren have arrived safely in Nuremberg, Germany.

The daughter, Mrs. Frances Bonig, and her two small children left Cumberland by train May 12 for New York City where they boarded a ship for the Atlantic Ocean crossing. The cablegram notifying Mrs. Beckwith of the safe arrival reached here Tuesday.

Mrs. Bonig made the trip to Germany to join her husband, M-Sgt. Paul Bonig, a veteran Army man.

Finan To Head County Fund Drive To Build Bar Center

Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, has been named county director in the campaign of the American Bar Foundation to raise $1,500,000 from the lawyers of the country to build an American Bar Center in Chicago. Announcement of his appointment was made by Thomas K. Everngam of Denton, state director for Maryland.

The American Bar Center is designed to furnish a national center for research in the law and to supply a headquarters for the American Bar Association and organizations of the legal profession affiliated with that association.

One building will house the headquarters and another will constitute a 'Service Center" for the entire profession. In the latter will be assembled, for the first time in one place, a library of all publications of state and local bar associations and other units of the organized bar.

Research, to be piloted in this second building, will include projects for the sections and committees of the American Bar Association and affiliated organizations. The Center will also be a clearing house for studies by other groups, including state and local bar associations and law schools. The activity is designed to bring about closer coordination and avoidance of duplication in research.

See Will Speak At Alumni Event In Romney

Delegate and Mrs. Charles M. See will deliver addresses at the annual Alumni Association meeting of the West Virginia School for the Blind in Romney Saturday at 2 p. m.

Delegate See, who is a field officer and trustee for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, will discuss the activities and progress of the project.

Mrs. See, a home teacher for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, will discuss the activities of the Home Service Department, which visits the adult blind in their homes to teach handicrafts and braille and provides counselling services.

See will also describe the manufacturing plant operated by the Workshop in Baltimore which employs 125 or more blind workers and producers goods which last year were valued at $1,000,000.

The plant, he said, has been so successful that plans are being made to expand the plant and provide even greater industrial employment to the adult blind citizens of Baltimore.

Many of the products are sold to the government. Typical products are pillow cases, glove wrappers, surgical drapes, bed sheets, medical wrappers, mailing bags and containers.

Part of the plant is devoted to chair caning, reseating of rush chairs and the making of mops and brooms.

See Will Speak At Alumni Event In Romney

Delegate and Mrs. Charles M. See will deliver addresses at the annual Alumni Association meeting of the West Virginia School for the Blind in Romney Saturday at 2 p. m.

Delegate See, who is a field officer and trustee for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, will discuss the activities and progress of the project.

Mrs. See, a home teacher for the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, will discuss the activities of the Home Service Department, which visits the adult blind in their homes to teach handicrafts and braille and provides counselling services.

See will also describe the manufacturing plant operated by the Workshop in Baltimore which employs 125 or more blind workers and producers goods which last year were valued at $1,000,000.

The plant, he said, has been so successful that plans are being made to expand the plant and provide even greater industrial employment to the adult blind citizens of Baltimore.

Many of the products are sold to the government. Typical products are pillow cases, glove wrappers, surgical drapes, bed sheets, medical wrappers, mailing bags and containers.

Part of the plant is devoted to chair caning, reseating of rush chairs and the making of mops and brooms.

4-H Judging Is Planned In Petersburg

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Mountain State 4-H Club members may participate in four state judging contests this year.

State contests will be held in dairy cattle judging, vegetable judging and identification, poultry judging and livestock judging. Livestock judging is the only one for which regional contests will be held.

Jackson's Mill will be the scene of the state 4-H dairy cattle judging contest on August 18 and the state 4-H vegetable judging and identification contest on August 20.

At the State Fair in Lewisburg, the state 4-H poultry judging contest will be held August 26 and the state 4-H livestock judging contest on August 28.

Regional livestock judging contests will be held in Morgantown, June 30; Spencer, July 1; Lewisburg, July 2, and Petersburg, July 3.

Last year more than 12,400 youths received training in 4-H judging activities. Besides the four types of judging mentioned, 4-H-'ers do local judging on foods, clothing and miscellaneous fields.

Memorial Day Service Set In Area School

Dr. Church To Give Feature Address

KEYSER—Memorial Day will be observed here with a service for the war dead in Queen's Point cemetery by the two posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Nancy Hanks and Queen's Point.

Members of the posts and others who will participate will march through the business district and out Armstrong Street to the cemetery. The procession will be headed by the Keyser High School Band.

The procession will leave the High School at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. The full memorial group will participate in the parade. Traffic will be directed by members of Queen's Point Lodge, IOOF.

Others, who will not take part in the parade but who will gather at the cemetery, are instructed to assemble before 10:30 a. m. for the program, at "The Circle," where the services will be conducted.

The memorial address will be by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State School. The band will play before and during the service.

The invocation will be by Rev. Henry Stragisher, assistant pastor of the Church of the Assumption. Rev. Donald D. Anderson, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the benediction.

The VFW firing squad will fire a salute and the bugler, Clarence Junior Clark, will sound taps.

In case of rain, the ceremonies will be held in high school auditorium.

Most local places of business will remain closed Saturday.

Summer Vesper Services Set At Frostburg

Rev. Fritsch To Be Guest Preacher

FROSTBURG — The Ministerial Association is planning a series of Sunday vesper services this summer at Braddock Park. They will begin July 12 and continue through August 30. Special music and visiting preachers will be presented and group singing will be led by Arthur Thomas.

The featured preacher this summer will be Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, of Allentown, Pa. He will give a series of Bible lectures on the Book of Acts during the week of July 19, when services will be held each evening. In case of inclement weather these services will be held in the Congregational Church, on Bowery Street.

Dr. Fritsch has had considerable experience in such series, having taught Bible and languages at Muhlenburg College for many years and lectured in several Bible Conferences both in Canada and the United States. He has lectured in New England, Cleveland, Eaglesmere, and in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Atlantic City, and others. His travels in other countries include Egypt, Palestine, Syria, and various parts of Europe.

Frostburg Churches Note Denominations Merger

FROSTBURG — On June 26, Salem and Zion Evangelical and Reformed Churches will hold a joint celebration of the merger of the two denominations with which they were formerly identified.

Salem church developed under the 16th Century Reformation whose leaders were the Swiss reformers, Calvin and Zwingli. Zion Church developed under the same reformation, and the leader was Luther in Germany.

Both denominations brought their traditions to America with the early settlements. On June 26, 1934, the Evangelical (Lutheran) Synod of North America and the Reformed Church in the United States were merged into one denomination and took the name Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The joint committee on arrangements for the celebration consists of Ernest W. Murphy, Marshall C. Skidmore and Raymond Sauder, representing Salem, and Mrs. Ann Storm, Mrs. Molly Dudley and Mrs. Minnie Taylor, representing Zion. The pastors, Rev. George L. Wehler and Dr. Paul V. Taylor are advisory members of the committee.

One of the features of the celebration will be a fellowship supper, to be served in Zion Church.

4-H Judging Is Planned In Petersburg

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Mountain State 4-H Club members may participate in four state judging contests this year.

State contests will be held in dairy cattle judging, vegetable judging and identification, poultry judging and livestock judging. Livestock judging is the only one for which regional contests will be held.

Jackson's Mill will be the scene of the state 4-H dairy cattle judging contest on August 18 and the state 4-H vegetable judging and identification contest on August 20.

At the State Fair in Lewisburg, the state 4-H poultry judging contest will be held August 26 and the state 4-H livestock judging contest on August 28.

Regional livestock judging contests will be held in Morgantown, June 30; Spencer, July 1; Lewisburg, July 2, and Petersburg, July 3.

Last year more than 12,400 youths received training in 4-H judging activities. Besides the four types of judging mentioned, 4-H-'ers do local judging on foods, clothing and miscellaneous fields.

Memorial Day Service Set In Area School

Dr. Church To Give Feature Address

KEYSER—Memorial Day will be observed here with a service for the war dead in Queen's Point cemetery by the two posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Nancy Hanks and Queen's Point.

Members of the posts and others who will participate will march through the business district and out Armstrong Street to the cemetery. The procession will be headed by the Keyser High School Band.

The procession will leave the High School at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. The full memorial group will participate in the parade. Traffic will be directed by members of Queen's Point Lodge, IOOF.

Others, who will not take part in the parade but who will gather at the cemetery, are instructed to assemble before 10:30 a. m. for the program, at "The Circle," where the services will be conducted.

The memorial address will be by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State School. The band will play before and during the service.

The invocation will be by Rev. Henry Stragisher, assistant pastor of the Church of the Assumption. Rev. Donald D. Anderson, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will give the benediction.

The VFW firing squad will fire a salute and the bugler, Clarence Junior Clark, will sound taps.

In case of rain, the ceremonies will be held in high school auditorium.

Most local places of business will remain closed Saturday.

Auxiliary To Meet

MT. SAVAGE — Members of the Auxiliary unit of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are asked to meet at the post home Saturday at 9:30 a. m. to take part in the Memorial Day parade.

Summer Vesper Services Set At Frostburg

Rev. Fritsch To Be Guest Preacher

FROSTBURG — The Ministerial Association is planning a series of Sunday vesper services this summer at Braddock Park. They will begin July 12 and continue through August 30. Special music and visiting preachers will be presented and group singing will be led by Arthur Thomas.

The featured preacher this summer will be Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, of Allentown, Pa. He will give a series of Bible lectures on the Book of Acts during the week of July 19, when services will be held each evening. In case of inclement weather these services will be held in the Congregational Church, on Bowery Street.

Dr. Fritsch has had considerable experience in such series, having taught Bible and languages at Muhlenburg College for many years and lectured in several Bible Conferences both in Canada and the United States. He has lectured in New England, Cleveland, Eaglesmere, and in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Atlantic City, and others. His travels in other countries include Egypt, Palestine, Syria, and various parts of Europe.

For Sale — Bed and vanity chest of drawers, day-bed, enameled coal range and two French doors. Phone 1-W Frostburg. Adv. N-T—May 27.

Frostburg Churches Note Denominations Merger

FROSTBURG — On June 26, Salem and Zion Evangelical and Reformed Churches will hold a joint celebration of the merger of the two denominations with which they were formerly identified.

Salem church developed under the 16th Century Reformation whose leaders were the Swiss reformers, Calvin and Zwingli. Zion Church developed under the same reformation, and the leader was Luther in Germany.

Both denominations brought their traditions to America with the early settlements. On June 26, 1934, the Evangelical (Lutheran) Synod of North America and the Reformed Church in the United States were merged into one denomination and took the name Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The joint committee on arrangements for the celebration consists of Ernest W. Murphy, Marshall C. Skidmore and Raymond Sauder, representing Salem, and Mrs. Ann Storm, Mrs. Molly Dudley and Mrs. Minnie Taylor, representing Zion. The pastors, Rev. George L. Wehler and Dr. Paul V. Taylor are advisory members of the committee.

One of the features of the celebration will be a fellowship supper, to be served in Zion Church.

Selling On Heels Of Truce Rumor Trims Stock Prices

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—A selling flurry swept through the stock market today on the heels of a Korean armistice rumor and knocked prices down abruptly.

For the most part the rail losses were cut off at around 3 points with losses of 1 to 2 points frequent.

Steels, aircrafts, coppers, oils and many others suffered in the fall. Few escaped.

Atlantic Coast Line was off as much as 6 points at the worst and closed off 4½ at 100.

Among other rail prices were Northern Pacific off 1½ at 71½, Baltimore & Ohio off 1 at 26, Southern Railway off 3⅛ at 93⅝, New York Central off ½ at 23¾, Rock Island off 1⅝ at 74¾, Seaboard Railroad off 1¼ at 117, and Cotton Belt off 7 at 302.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.30. It was down that much twice during April, and it was off $2.60 on April 6.

The Associated Press average now stands at $109.60, having retraced all of the gains made in the past two weeks. The industrial component of the average was down $1.30, the railroads were down $1.70, and the utilities were down 20 cents.

The list was composed of 1,110 individual issues, as compared with 1,095 issues yesterday, with 204 advancing and 659 declining. There were 13 new highs and 81 new lows for the year touched during the day.

New York Central was the day's most active issue with 53,700 shares traded and closed off ½ at 23¾. It was followed by Pacific Western Oil up ⅝ at 43½, Packard Motor car off ⅛ at 5½, American Telephone off ⅞ at 155⅛, and American Safety Razor off ¼ at 77⅛.

LaSalle Edges Mt. Savage In 2-1 Contest

Conroy Bats In Winning Run In 7th

Three League Tilts Are Scheduled Today; AHS Hosts Hyndman

Joe Conroy's bouncing single to third drove home Bobby Christ from third in the bottom of the seventh to give Coach Al Martin's LaSalle Explorers a 2-1 decision over the Mt. Savage Braves yesterday at Stitcher Field, in a Bi-State Conference engagement.

The triumph was in the sixth in a row for the hustling Explorers, but the home team was guilty of some very poor base running which nearly cost them the game.

Several runners were called out for failure to touch bases, costing a couple of runs, Martin said last night, and failure of one player to return to base and tag up after a fly ball was caught resulted in Mt. Savage turning in a triple play.

With the score knotted at 1-1 and Rickey Harris on second and Mike Larkin at first with none out, Dude Shaffer attempted to sacrifice in the sixth.

The opposing pitcher caught Shaffer's easy pop bunt for one out and when he threw wild past first Larkin tagged up and came all the way around to score behind Harris. However Harris failed to tag and the appeal play was allowed with Harris being called out at second and Larkin being called out for passing a base runner, thus nullifying two LaSalle runs.

However in the seventh Conroy, making his first start for LaSalle, singled following Christ's triple to win his own game. The LaSalle pitcher chipped in with three of the Explorers' seven hits.

In important Bi-State games today, Allegany's Campers, in the midst of a six game losing streak, host the league-leading Hyndman tossers. Fort Hill invades Central at Lonaconing and Flintstone plays LaSalle at Stitcher. The box:

As You Were

Back in 1909 and 1910 Cumberland boasted a county championship football team.

In 1909 the team whipped Mt. Savage 6-5, 6-0 and played a scoreless tie in the third game, defeated Piedmont 16-0, Frostburg 5-0 and Allegany County High School 12-8.

Today this former gridder operates a market on North Centre Street.

Do you know his name?

Northern Avenges Confluence Loss

CONFLUENCE Pa., May 27 — Northern High of Accident defeated Confluence High here today, 5-1, behind the steady seven-hit pitching of John Georg. The win avenged an earlier loss to Confluence by an identical score at Accident.

The victory was the fifth in seven games for Northern as Georg struck out 11 and walked three, blanking Confluence until the final inning. The victors play Elk Garden at Accident Friday. The box:

Hall Of Famer Jesse Burkett Succumbs At 82

Batted Over .400 In Three Seasons

WORCESTER, Mass., May 27 (AP) —Jesse C. Burkett, 82, one of three baseball players ever to compile a batting average better than .400 in three seasons, died today. He was a native of Wheeling, W. Va.

Burkett, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, began his professional career in 1888 as a pitcher but soon was shifted to the outfield because of his hitting ability.

His highest batting average was .423 in 1895. He batted .410 in 1896 and .402 in 1899. Only other players to better the .400 mark three times were the fabulous Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, now managing the Cincinnati Redlegs.

His highest salary, he once told an interviewer was $5,300.

The New York Giants bought him in 1890 and farmed him to Lincoln, Neb., in the old Western Association. There he was shifted to the outfield.

He joined Cleveland, then in the National League, the next season and in 1898 went to the St. Louis Browns where he stayed until 1904 when he was transferred to the Boston Americans, now the Red Sox.

He finished up his active playing career in Boston after the 1905 season.

Central, East Side Score Queen's Wins

Central Lunch defeated Hercules Powder Puffs, 20-1, and East Side Maids edged Bake's S&S, 12-11, in opening Queen's League softball games yesterday.

Pat Thompson struck out 10 Hercules batters and retired the first 14 batters to face her for Central. M. Sherman got the only Hercules hit, a single in the fifth. Jeanne Hale, Dot Heavener and Rose Bowers had three hits each for the winners.

Dorie Adams and Beckie Lechliter walked 23 batters between them as Bake's scored 11 runs on only two hits but the Maids edged out a one-run victory as Connie Barclay, Adams, Lechliter and Annabelle Leatherman each collected two hits.

Senate Group Approves Bill To Cut Baseball Broadcasts

Johnson Measure Regulates Games

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP) — A bill aimed at sharp curtailment of radio and television accounts of baseball games cleared its first hurdle in Congress today.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee unanimously approved a bill by Sen. Edwin Johnson (D-Colo) that would give organized baseball the right to regulate broadcasts and telecasts of its games.

Johnson, chairman of the subcommittee, also is president of the Class A Western League. The other two members of the subcommittee, Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Schoeppel (R-Kans) agreed with Johnson to report the bill favorably to the full committee.

Sen. Tobey (R-NH), the committee chairman, said his group will consider the legislation soon. If it wins expected approval there, it would go to the Senate floor for action. To be enacted into law, the measure still would require House passage and the President's signature.

The bill is aimed at boosting attendance at minor league games. Johnson said unrestricted telecasting of major league games has been keeping potential minor league fans away from their ball parks.

Old Germans Score Sixth

Bi-State Leaders Top Frostburg 16-8

The Cumberland Old Germans scored their sixth straight triumph in the Bi-State league yesterday by blasting Frostburg Demons, 16-8, in a game called because of darkness at the end of seven innings at Frostburg.

George Geatz won in a relief role as Ronnie Cage and Bill McProuty each chipped in with two singles and double and Bobby Williams had a triple and two one-base knocks to pace the Old Gees 16-hit assault.

Jim Gaffney had two triples and single and Jimmy Byrnes an inside the park homerun for Frostburg.

Today at 5 p.m. Mt. Savage will play Westvaco at Westernport. The score:

Van Meter Wins AHS Mibs Crown

With 73 competing for the honor yesterday afternoon, Marvin Van Meter won the Allegany High School marbles championship and Don Fishell won runnerup position.

Assisting Coach Eugene Hopkins and Times-News tournament officials were Bob Reiber, Bob Kirtley, John Chappell, Fred Wartzzack and James Deremer.

Ring winners were Shuck, Warnick, Riley, Bennett, Arnold, Smith, Fansler, Shearer, Loewendick, Judy, Adams, Rice, Swaner. Fishell and Van Meter.

In the semi-finals were Warnick, Adams, Shuck, Fishell and Van Meter. The latter took two games in a row from Fishell to win the Allegany championship. Both will get letters at Allegany for their outstanding play and sportsmanship.

Van Meter is a former Columbia Street champ and an older brother was also a champion.

After today's games at Penn Avenue only the Gephart finals remain to complete the search for 22 school champions who will shoot it out next Tuesday at Gephart Playground, Frederick street, for the grand prize of a week's stay at Asbury Park, N. J. during the National Marbles Tournament June 14-19.

LaSalle Edges Mt. Savage In 2-1 Contest

Three League Tilts Are Scheduled Today; AHS Hosts Hyndman

Joe Conroy's bouncing single to third drove home Bobby Christ from third in the bottom of the seventh to give Coach Al Martin's LaSalle Explorers a 2-1 decision over the Mt. Savage Braves yesterday at Stitcher Field, in a Bi-State Conference engagement.

The triumph was in the sixth in a row for the hustling Explorers, but the home team was guilty of some very poor base running which nearly cost them the game.

Several runners were called out for failure to touch bases, costing a couple of runs, Martin said last night, and failure of one player to return to base and tag up after a fly ball was caught resulted in Mt. Savage turning in a triple play.

With the score knotted at 1-1 and Rickey Harris on second and Mike Larkin at first with none out, Dude Shaffer attempted to sacrifice in the sixth.

The opposing pitcher caught Shaffer's easy pop bunt for one out and when he threw wild past first Larkin tagged up and came all the way around to score behind Harris. However Harris failed to tag and the appeal play was allowed with Harris being called out at second and Larkin being called out for passing a base runner, thus nullifying two LaSalle runs.

However in the seventh Conroy, making his first start for LaSalle, singled following Christ's triple to win his own game. The LaSalle pitcher chipped in with three of the Explorers' seven hits.

In important Bi-State games today, Allegany's Campers, in the midst of a six game losing streak, host the league-leading Hyndman tossers. Fort Hill invades Central at Lonaconing and Flintstone plays LaSalle at Stitcher. The box:

As You Were

Back in 1909 and 1910 Cumberland boasted a county championship football team.

In 1909 the team whipped Mt. Savage 6-5, 6-0 and played a scoreless tie in the third game, defeated Piedmont 16-0, Frostburg 5-0 and Allegany County High School 12-8.

Today this former gridder operates a market on North Centre Street.

Do you know his name?

Northern Avenges Confluence Loss

CONFLUENCE Pa., May 27 — Northern High of Accident defeated Confluence High here today, 5-1, behind the steady seven-hit pitching of John Georg. The win avenged an earlier loss to Confluence by an identical score at Accident.

The victory was the fifth in seven games for Northern as Georg struck out 11 and walked three, blanking Confluence until the final inning. The victors play Elk Garden at Accident Friday. The box:

Hall Of Famer Jesse Burkett Succumbs At 82

Batted Over .400 In Three Seasons

WORCESTER, Mass., May 27 (AP) —Jesse C. Burkett, 82, one of three baseball players ever to compile a batting average better than .400 in three seasons, died today. He was a native of Wheeling, W. Va.

Burkett, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, began his professional career in 1888 as a pitcher but soon was shifted to the outfield because of his hitting ability.

His highest batting average was .423 in 1895. He batted .410 in 1896 and .402 in 1899. Only other players to better the .400 mark three times were the fabulous Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, now managing the Cincinnati Redlegs.

His highest salary, he once told an interviewer was $5,300.

The New York Giants bought him in 1890 and farmed him to Lincoln, Neb., in the old Western Association. There he was shifted to the outfield.

He joined Cleveland, then in the National League, the next season and in 1898 went to the St. Louis Browns where he stayed until 1904 when he was transferred to the Boston Americans, now the Red Sox.

He finished up his active playing career in Boston after the 1905 season.

Central, East Side Score Queen's Wins

Central Lunch defeated Hercules Powder Puffs, 20-1, and East Side Maids edged Bake's S&S, 12-11, in opening Queen's League softball games yesterday.

Pat Thompson struck out 10 Hercules batters and retired the first 14 batters to face her for Central. M. Sherman got the only Hercules hit, a single in the fifth. Jeanne Hale, Dot Heavener and Rose Bowers had three hits each for the winners.

Dorie Adams and Beckie Lechliter walked 23 batters between them as Bake's scored 11 runs on only two hits but the Maids edged out a one-run victory as Connie Barclay, Adams, Lechliter and Annabelle Leatherman each collected two hits.

Senate Group Approves Bill To Cut Baseball Broadcasts

Johnson Measure Regulates Games

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP) — A bill aimed at sharp curtailment of radio and television accounts of baseball games cleared its first hurdle in Congress today.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee unanimously approved a bill by Sen. Edwin Johnson (D-Colo) that would give organized baseball the right to regulate broadcasts and telecasts of its games.

Johnson, chairman of the subcommittee, also is president of the Class A Western League. The other two members of the subcommittee, Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Schoeppel (R-Kans) agreed with Johnson to report the bill favorably to the full committee.

Sen. Tobey (R-NH), the committee chairman, said his group will consider the legislation soon. If it wins expected approval there, it would go to the Senate floor for action. To be enacted into law, the measure still would require House passage and the President's signature.

The bill is aimed at boosting attendance at minor league games. Johnson said unrestricted telecasting of major league games has been keeping potential minor league fans away from their ball parks.

Ed Lopat Tosses 3-Hitter, Yanks Beat Nats, 3-1

Berra, Martin, Collins Hit Homers

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Eddie Lopat cooled off the Washington Senators with three hits today, 3-1, behind New York Yankee home runs by Joe Collins, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra.

After spotting Washington an unearned run in the first inning, the Yankee lefty breezed home with his fourth straight win. Lopat has won eight in a row over the Senators who last beat him June 26, 1951.

Collins touched Walt Masterson for a tying home run that dropped into the left field seats in the second inning.

Martin hit a fly ball homer down the left field line in the third to give Lopat all the margin he needed. Berra belted a high driver into the third tier seats in right field for the clincher in the fourth.

U. S. Doubles Teams Score

Americans Advance Into Semi-Finals

PARIS, May 27 (AP) — The top-ranking Americans, Vic Seixas and Gardnar Mulloy, had to work like Trojans to vanquish a pair of South Americans, Enrique Morea of Argentina and Armanda Vieira of Brazil, in the French international tennis tourney today.

The Americans won out by virtue of their steadier play, but they went through a great many uneasy moments before turning the trick. The score: 11-9, 6-2, 1-6, 8-6.

The match put Seixas and Mulloy into the semifinal round of the men's doubles.

The day was devoted entirely to doubles play. On the distaff side, Little Mo Maurren Connolly and Julia Sampson romped into the doubles semifinal with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Jacqueline Kermina of France and Violette Rigollet of Switzerland.

Shirley Fry and Doris Hart, another pair of Americans who are the U. S. women's doubles champs, steam rollered their British opponents, Angela Mortimer and Ann Shilcock, 6-0, 6-3.

Hunch Double Pays $496.20

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Racing fans who go for hunches had a chance to get in on a $496.20-for-$2 daily double today at Belmont Park when Four Jacks won the first race and Donnajack took the second.

Four Jacks, incidentally, was ridden by Jackie Westrope, and paid $12.40. Donnajack paid $72.30 with Jockey Bill Boland up.

Selvy Wins SC Athletic Award

Furman Cage Star Tops Jack Scarbath

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 27 (AP) — Frank Selvy, Furman University basketball star who set a long list of national cage records, has been voted Athlete of the Year for 1952-53 in the Southern Conference.

He will receive the McKevlin award presented by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association. The award is a memorial to Anthony J. McKevlin, former sports editor and managing editor of the Raleigh News and Observer.

In winning the sixth award of the association, Selvy successfully matched his All-America basketball honors against the All-America football tributes of Maryland's Jack Scarbath. It was the basketball scorer of the year vs. the T-formation quarterback of the year in the tabulation of 49 sports writers' and sportscasters' votes. Selvy had 83 points to Scarbath's 71.

The Selvy-Scarbath runaway left Joel Shankle, Duke's sophomore track star, in third place among the 15 eligibles in the final vote. Shankle had 45 points, followed by Dickie Hemric, Wake Forest, and Chal Port, North Carolina, 35 each; Jack Lewis, Wake Forest, 34; Johnny Mapp, V. M. I., 28; Gene Shue, Maryland, 24; Paul Bischoff, West Virginia, 22; and Emmett Gurney, South Carolina, 20.

Three former Michigan State NCAA boxing champions are now fighting professionally — light heavyweight Chuck Speiser and welterweights Chuck Davey and Jed Black.

Ed Lopat Tosses 3-Hitter, Yanks Beat Nats, 3-1

Berra, Martin, Collins Hit Homers

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Eddie Lopat cooled off the Washington Senators with three hits today, 3-1, behind New York Yankee home runs by Joe Collins, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra.

After spotting Washington an unearned run in the first inning, the Yankee lefty breezed home with his fourth straight win. Lopat has won eight in a row over the Senators who last beat him June 26, 1951.

Collins touched Walt Masterson for a tying home run that dropped into the left field seats in the second inning.

Martin hit a fly ball homer down the left field line in the third to give Lopat all the margin he needed. Berra belted a high driver into the third tier seats in right field for the clincher in the fourth.

U. S. Doubles Teams Score

Americans Advance Into Semi-Finals

PARIS, May 27 (AP) — The top-ranking Americans, Vic Seixas and Gardnar Mulloy, had to work like Trojans to vanquish a pair of South Americans, Enrique Morea of Argentina and Armanda Vieira of Brazil, in the French international tennis tourney today.

The Americans won out by virtue of their steadier play, but they went through a great many uneasy moments before turning the trick. The score: 11-9, 6-2, 1-6, 8-6.

The match put Seixas and Mulloy into the semifinal round of the men's doubles.

The day was devoted entirely to doubles play. On the distaff side, Little Mo Maurren Connolly and Julia Sampson romped into the doubles semifinal with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Jacqueline Kermina of France and Violette Rigollet of Switzerland.

Shirley Fry and Doris Hart, another pair of Americans who are the U. S. women's doubles champs, steam rollered their British opponents, Angela Mortimer and Ann Shilcock, 6-0, 6-3.

Hunch Double Pays $496.20

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Racing fans who go for hunches had a chance to get in on a $496.20-for-$2 daily double today at Belmont Park when Four Jacks won the first race and Donnajack took the second.

Four Jacks, incidentally, was ridden by Jackie Westrope, and paid $12.40. Donnajack paid $72.30 with Jockey Bill Boland up.

Furman Cage Star Tops Jack Scarbath

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 27 (AP) — Frank Selvy, Furman University basketball star who set a long list of national cage records, has been voted Athlete of the Year for 1952-53 in the Southern Conference.

He will receive the McKevlin award presented by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association. The award is a memorial to Anthony J. McKevlin, former sports editor and managing editor of the Raleigh News and Observer.

In winning the sixth award of the association, Selvy successfully matched his All-America basketball honors against the All-America football tributes of Maryland's Jack Scarbath. It was the basketball scorer of the year vs. the T-formation quarterback of the year in the tabulation of 49 sports writers' and sportscasters' votes. Selvy had 83 points to Scarbath's 71.

The Selvy-Scarbath runaway left Joel Shankle, Duke's sophomore track star, in third place among the 15 eligibles in the final vote. Shankle had 45 points, followed by Dickie Hemric, Wake Forest, and Chal Port, North Carolina, 35 each; Jack Lewis, Wake Forest, 34; Johnny Mapp, V. M. I., 28; Gene Shue, Maryland, 24; Paul Bischoff, West Virginia, 22; and Emmett Gurney, South Carolina, 20.

Three former Michigan State NCAA boxing champions are now fighting professionally — light heavyweight Chuck Speiser and welterweights Chuck Davey and Jed Black.

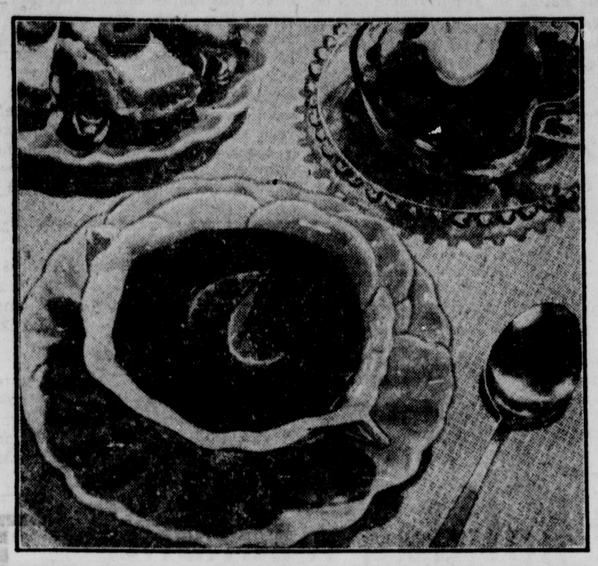
Families Eat Well In Summer



BRIGHTEN a summer day with this meal. It includes rosy tomato soup with a twist of lime for garnish; also cheese sandwich and strawberry shortcake.

Comes summer; and the living should be easy. So go the thoughts of many a homemaker, according to a new survey of summer eating habits.

Women all over the country were questioned recently about how they feed their families during hot weather. This study of 3100 homemakers was sponsored by the nation's leading soup-making company.

Light meals are in highest fashion when the weather turns warm, these homemakers said. Basically, families eat the same foods summer and winter. But from May to September, combinations like sandwiches and soups and salads appear at more than half of noon and evening meals. More canned soup than homemade is served in summer compared to winter; though soup appears less often. Almost double the amount of salads and sandwiches are served at summer meals versus winter. And two foods that rise impressively are iced tea and ice cream.

The woman who "mans" the kitchen doesn't find her work letting up in the summer. More noon meals are served at home this season. And homemakers often have guests to feed since more than 50 percent of people on vacations are visiting friends.

For variety in summer meals, the whole array of condensed soups, hearty sandwiches, and crisp-fresh salads offer much pleasant eating.

"Sweet 'N Lovely Summer Meals"

Tomato Consomme'. Cheese-Olive Sandwich. Strawberry Shortcake.

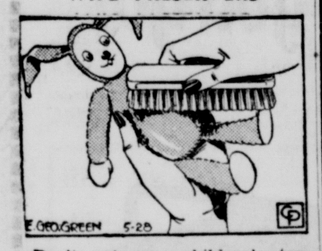
Tomato Consomme': Combine 1 can each condensed tomato soup and consomme' with 1 soup can water and 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Heat. Or chill 6 hours and serve icy cold. 4 servings.

Tomato Chowder. Asparagus and Sliced Egg Salad. Cold Melon. Iced Tea.

Tomato Chowder: Crisp-fry 2 slices bacon; remove bacon from pan; cook ½ cup chopped onion until soft in drippings. Add 1 can condensed tomato soup and 1 soup can milk plus 1 cup cream style corn. Simmer all 5 minutes. Serve garnished with bacon broken into short pieces. 4 servings.

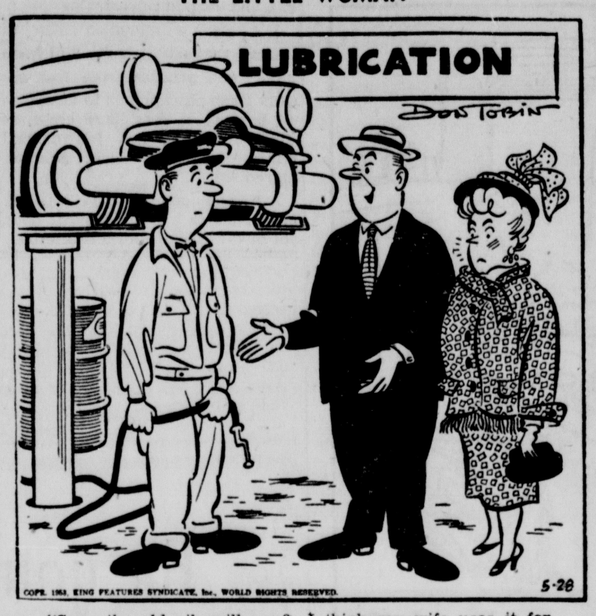
Sandwich time is here again. It's easy to spread sandwich bread quickly and easily when margarine is used. Because modern margarine is "tailor made", its spreadability can be controlled. Nowadays most margarines spread smoothly and easily even when quite cold. They require no tedious creaming and stirring before sandwich-making can start.

WIFE PRESERVERS



Don't put your children's toys which have plastic or rubber faces, into the dryer after washing. The heat may soften the plastic and rubber. Better scrub such toys with a dry lather, wipe with a damp cloth, and when dry brush the stuffed plush bodies against the grain.

THE LITTLE WOMAN



"Save the old oil, will you? I think my wife uses it for salad dressing."

A Product of General Foods

Are Diet Facts Merely Fancy

A sense of curiosity about the present retains youthful zest and spirit. People who live solely in the past are apt to be bores. People holding to narrow food diets or to food superstitions of the past are handicapping their health and eating enjoyment.

Unless by doctor's orders, don't say you can't eat fruits or vegetables or meat. Such complaints are often signs that you need better food habits . . . food more varied rather than less. The senior citizen who has restricted activity does not need as many calories as he did when more physically active. But the fewer calories should come by smaller servings and by skipping second helpings . . . not by a narrow selection of foods.

Do you think meat is bad for you if you have heart trouble or high blood pressure? Medical nutritionists now recommend diets low in calories and salt but high in protein . . . as much as ¾ to 1 pound of cooked meat daily . . . as treatment for heart disease.

Do you believe that raw eggs are more completely digested than cooked eggs? The opposite is true; either soft or hard cooked eggs are more quickly digested. Do you believe it's dangerous to eat milk products with a sea food? Wrong again . . . if the seafood isn't in good condition, it can cause digestive disturbances all by itself.

Have you avoided milk with acid fruits? Wrong. Scientists tell us that actually an acid fruit and milk combination is even more easily digested than milk alone. The gastric juice in the stomach is acid anyway, and curds are formed when it acts upon milk. The combination of fruit and milk forms a more easily digested curd. Do you think citrus fruits are acid forming in the stomach? Wrong; they actually have an alkalizing action.

What about the belief that foods must not be cooked in aluminum utensils? Wrong. Foods cooked in aluminum utensils are not changed in any way even though the food may brighten or darken the pans. Even if small traces of aluminum were taken up by food, they would do the body no harm.

Do you believe that canned foods are less nutritious than home cooked ones? Wrong again. Canned foods have as much as or more vitamin and mineral content than home prepared foods. Long storage and cooking periods rob fresh vegetables of vitamins. Canned vegetables and fruits are processed within a few hours after harvesting, and elusive food values are captured in the can. It is also false to believe that foods can not be stores in opened cans. The can is a sterile container and perfectly safe . . . just cover food in opened can and keep in refrigerator.

It's also a mistaken idea to believe that citrus fruits will keep unflavored gelatine from firming. Only fresh pineapple is to be avoided because it does have enzymes that prevent a gel, but canned pineapple makes a perfect gelatine ingredient.

Are you one to give special properties to a food which it does not have? Fish is not a brain food, oysters do not assure virility, celery is not a nerve food, nor will the eating of green vegetables on New Year's Eve assure you greenbacks in your pocketbook in the year ahead.

Prepare Good Value Cream-Style Soups

Convenient condensed soup, prepared with milk, gives double good value to summer meals. There's the food value in the soup ingredients plus that of milk. Grand prepared this way are cream of chicken or celery soup, tomato, bean with bacon or black bean, vegetable or cream of asparagus. The soup and milk combine to give a delicate blended flavor. Besides fresh milk, you can use dry milk to prepare soup. For each can of soup, add 1 can-measure of reconstituted dry milk or evaporated milk (fully diluted).

Are Diet Facts Merely Fancy

A sense of curiosity about the present retains youthful zest and spirit. People who live solely in the past are apt to be bores. People holding to narrow food diets or to food superstitions of the past are handicapping their health and eating enjoyment.

Unless by doctor's orders, don't say you can't eat fruits or vegetables or meat. Such complaints are often signs that you need better food habits . . . food more varied rather than less. The senior citizen who has restricted activity does not need as many calories as he did when more physically active. But the fewer calories should come by smaller servings and by skipping second helpings . . . not by a narrow selection of foods.

Do you think meat is bad for you if you have heart trouble or high blood pressure? Medical nutritionists now recommend diets low in calories and salt but high in protein . . . as much as ¾ to 1 pound of cooked meat daily . . . as treatment for heart disease.

Do you believe that raw eggs are more completely digested than cooked eggs? The opposite is true; either soft or hard cooked eggs are more quickly digested. Do you believe it's dangerous to eat milk products with a sea food? Wrong again . . . if the seafood isn't in good condition, it can cause digestive disturbances all by itself.

Have you avoided milk with acid fruits? Wrong. Scientists tell us that actually an acid fruit and milk combination is even more easily digested than milk alone. The gastric juice in the stomach is acid anyway, and curds are formed when it acts upon milk. The combination of fruit and milk forms a more easily digested curd. Do you think citrus fruits are acid forming in the stomach? Wrong; they actually have an alkalizing action.

What about the belief that foods must not be cooked in aluminum utensils? Wrong. Foods cooked in aluminum utensils are not changed in any way even though the food may brighten or darken the pans. Even if small traces of aluminum were taken up by food, they would do the body no harm.

Do you believe that canned foods are less nutritious than home cooked ones? Wrong again. Canned foods have as much as or more vitamin and mineral content than home prepared foods. Long storage and cooking periods rob fresh vegetables of vitamins. Canned vegetables and fruits are processed within a few hours after harvesting, and elusive food values are captured in the can. It is also false to believe that foods can not be stores in opened cans. The can is a sterile container and perfectly safe . . . just cover food in opened can and keep in refrigerator.

It's also a mistaken idea to believe that citrus fruits will keep unflavored gelatine from firming. Only fresh pineapple is to be avoided because it does have enzymes that prevent a gel, but canned pineapple makes a perfect gelatine ingredient.

Bakery Briefs

It's not all for the birds—that bread left in the bread box. It can make its next appearance as dry toast or as other kinds of toast, such as: French, cinnamon, hot-milk, cheese toasts and the thin melba toast, served in smart restaurants.

You won't be at sea to cut food costs if you combine bread with fish or meat. Stuffed fish dishes and meat loaves on summer menus forecast smooth sailing for the homemaker.

Of course an airy sunshine sponge cake is made for summer eating, but did you ever think of how sponge cake was just the ticket for traveling to picnics? There is little danger of cracking or breaking. And, they are so easy to pick up at the bakery for that spur-of-the moment outing.

Bright and shiny to match a summer morning are piping hot slices of orange French toast. To two beaten eggs add three tablespoons confectioner's sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, two-thirds cup orange juice and two teaspoons grated orange rind. The mixture will cost both sides of 10 slices of bread. Brown in skillet and serve with honey or confectioner's sugar.

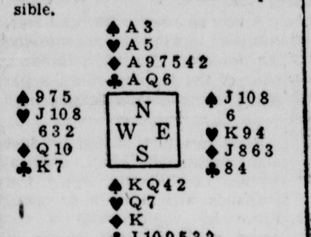
Some hot steamy days—so unkind to crisp cookies—are not too far off. To guard against dampness, the baker packages his products in practically moisture- proof cartons so that they reach you in crisp condition. Do you tear open the package or carefully slit along the marked cutting line with a sharp knife, The latter practice will keep the paper jacket intact. Store the cookies above or near the range bcause these cabinets will be the driest in the kitchen.

For added flavor in seasoning vegetables, especially such succulent green ones as asparagus or broccoli, mix a tablespoon of lemon juice with one-fourth cup melted margarine. Pour over the hot, freshly cooked vegetables. The flavor is excellent, and the seasoning much simpler to prepare than a sauce.

Barclay On Bridge

SQUEEZE PREMATURELY

ORDINARILY, when a squeeze play is negotiated, the card doing the damage is the last of the suit on which the unfortunate opponent must discard. It is possible, in rare situations, for the squeeze to come one trick earlier, on the next to last card of the damaging suit. Such a denouement is so unusual, however, that very few players have seen it actually develop, though they probably could construct a hypothetical hand on which it would be possible.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West

2 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl

You could have knocked South off his chair with a feather when his unorthodox call of 3-No Trumps was lifted to grand slam by his partner. But he bent to his work and, being a thorough cardsman, managed to pull himself through.

He reckoned that West's lead of the heart J made it certain East had the K of that suit. So he came right in with the A, led to the diamond K, finessed the club Q, felled the K with the A and then proceeded to run the rest of the clubs. When he led the next to last of the suit, East was ruined.

At that stage, South had left in dummy the two spades, four diamonds headed by the A and the heart 5, which he discarded on the penultimate club. East's seven cards at that stage were four spades, the heart K and the diamond J-8. You can easily see that the discard of a red card would build all the declarer needed. East felt that way about it too, so picked one of his spades. The final club, spade A, diamond A and three more spades then completed the big slam.

Needless to say, South got a top score for making that contract, and so was glad both he and his partner had made such peculiar bids an their last turns.

Beef Goes Far In Pinwheels

The last bit of roast beef turns into a generous main dish with this Biscuit Pinwheel recipe. You'll need a can of beef gravy for it. First blend ½ cup chopped cooked beef with seasonings (1 small onion and a small clove garlic, both minced and cooked in butter; plus salt and pepper). Stir in ¼ cup of the beef gravy. Now prepare biscuit dough with 1 cup of packaged mix and ⅓ cup milk. Roll soft dough on lightly floured board so dough forms a rectangle and is about ¼-inch thick. Spread meat mixture on dough; roll as for jelly roll; cut into 4 slices. Bake on cooky sheet at 450°F. for 15 minutes or till lightly browned. Serve with remaining hot gravy, 4 servings.

A nutrition study of children in Louisiana turned up the amazing fact that these growing youngsters ate only 1 percent of the amount of margarine or butter nutritionists say they need. The rich vitamin A content of margarine contributes importantly to growth and health. Spreading margarine generously on biscuits, sandwiches and toast is a good way to use this nutritious spread to help improve nutrition. Some nutrition workers say that a generous intake of vitamin A-rich foods helps make a smooth, glowing skin.

In 1610 a mutinous crew cast Henry Hudson adrift to die in the bay named for him.

Bakery Briefs

It's not all for the birds—that bread left in the bread box. It can make its next appearance as dry toast or as other kinds of toast, such as: French, cinnamon, hot-milk, cheese toasts and the thin melba toast, served in smart restaurants.

You won't be at sea to cut food costs if you combine bread with fish or meat. Stuffed fish dishes and meat loaves on summer menus forecast smooth sailing for the homemaker.

Of course an airy sunshine sponge cake is made for summer eating, but did you ever think of how sponge cake was just the ticket for traveling to picnics? There is little danger of cracking or breaking. And, they are so easy to pick up at the bakery for that spur-of-the moment outing.

Bright and shiny to match a summer morning are piping hot slices of orange French toast. To two beaten eggs add three tablespoons confectioner's sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, two-thirds cup orange juice and two teaspoons grated orange rind. The mixture will cost both sides of 10 slices of bread. Brown in skillet and serve with honey or confectioner's sugar.

Some hot steamy days—so unkind to crisp cookies—are not too far off. To guard against dampness, the baker packages his products in practically moisture- proof cartons so that they reach you in crisp condition. Do you tear open the package or carefully slit along the marked cutting line with a sharp knife, The latter practice will keep the paper jacket intact. Store the cookies above or near the range bcause these cabinets will be the driest in the kitchen.

For added flavor in seasoning vegetables, especially such succulent green ones as asparagus or broccoli, mix a tablespoon of lemon juice with one-fourth cup melted margarine. Pour over the hot, freshly cooked vegetables. The flavor is excellent, and the seasoning much simpler to prepare than a sauce.

Barclay On Bridge

SQUEEZE PREMATURELY

ORDINARILY, when a squeeze play is negotiated, the card doing the damage is the last of the suit on which the unfortunate opponent must discard. It is possible, in rare situations, for the squeeze to come one trick earlier, on the next to last card of the damaging suit. Such a denouement is so unusual, however, that very few players have seen it actually develop, though they probably could construct a hypothetical hand on which it would be possible.

You could have knocked South off his chair with a feather when his unorthodox call of 3-No Trumps was lifted to grand slam by his partner. But he bent to his work and, being a thorough cardsman, managed to pull himself through.

He reckoned that West's lead of the heart J made it certain East had the K of that suit. So he came right in with the A, led to the diamond K, finessed the club Q, felled the K with the A and then proceeded to run the rest of the clubs. When he led the next to last of the suit, East was ruined.

At that stage, South had left in dummy the two spades, four diamonds headed by the A and the heart 5, which he discarded on the penultimate club. East's seven cards at that stage were four spades, the heart K and the diamond J-8. You can easily see that the discard of a red card would build all the declarer needed. East felt that way about it too, so picked one of his spades. The final club, spade A, diamond A and three more spades then completed the big slam.

Needless to say, South got a top score for making that contract, and so was glad both he and his partner had made such peculiar bids an their last turns.

This Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie Takes Cake

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE . . . No drippy juice.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Delight your family with a gorgeous springtime dessert—Strawberry Rhubarb Pie. If you follow our directions exactly, we guarantee you'll be serving something that tastes exquisitely good. The recipe is so just-right you'll put it in your permanent file.

Of course, there's a trick to it: You use quick-cooking tapioca in the filling. Result—no fruit juices running over in the oven; a filling that's pleasantly juicy but not too thin; the lovely colors of the strawberries and rhubarb are protected as are the natural flavors of the fruit. In addition, quick-cooking tapioca is so simple to use; you just mix it as it comes from the package, with the sugar and fruit, pour the mixture into an unbaked pie shell and bake as usual.

We also want to add a word of praise for the crust recipe we are giving you. It's crisp, flaky and bakes to a lovely light golden color.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

Ingredients: 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups fresh strawberries, 2 cups fresh rhubarb, (cut in ½-inch pieces), pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

Method: Mix tapioca, sugar, salt, strawberries and rhubarb. Line a 9-inch pie plate with half the pastry rolled ⅛-inch thick, leaving enough lapover for turning under and fluting. Roll remaining pastry ⅛-inch thick and cut into ½-inch strips. Fill pie shell with fruit mixture and dot with butter. Adjust pastry strips in lattice across top of pie. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot (425F) over 45 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst.

PASTRY FOR STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

Ingredients: 2¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup shortening, 5 tablespoons cold water.

Method: Sift flour and salt into bowl. Cut in ½ cup shortening with pastry blender or two knives until mixture is fine. Add remaining shortening in several pieces and chop in just until divided into pieces the size of large peas. Sprinkle in a small amount of the water at a time, mixing lightly with blender or fork. When all particles are moistened, press pastry lightly into a cake, cover with damp cloth, and let stand about 30 minutes before rolling out.

Marshmallow Topping

A new raspberry flavored marshmallow topping is recommended for desserts. The color, flavor and odor of the topping offers a party touch to homemade desserts.

Reed furniture should be dusted and vacuumed often, and also washed occasionally. Apply warm soapsuds with a cloth or sponge. Rinse by wiping with a clean damp cloth and put in an airy spot to dry.

Pie In A Bag

Courtesy Deepfreeze Appliances

Have a piece of leftover pie? Wrap and put it in a plastic bag. Freeze in the home freezer. Filled with several pieces of different kinds of pie, the bag is a handy snack-sack. One piece of pie may be removed at a time and a selection is always available.

Merry-Go-Round

now has 370 modern submarines—five times more deadly than Germany's World War II U-boat fleet.

VULNERABILITY TO ATOMIC ATTACK—A carrier force can be put out of business by one atomic bomb. This was proved at Bikini where one A-bomb, that missed its target by several hundred yards, still wrecked or contaminated every ship in the force. Some of the hulls remained radioactive for several years. During the Baltic maneuvers, the Navy conveniently ruled that atomic weapons would not be allowed in the mock attacks. However, Russia is not celebrated for sticking to the rules.

VULNERABILITY TO ACCIDENTS—Frequently, carriers are laid up for weeks by operational accidents that have nothing to do with enemy action. For example, the carrier Essex was put out of action at a crucial period in the Korea War, because a single plane crashed on its flight deck. This not only meant tying up the Essex, but also all its escort vessels for over five weeks.

VULNERABILITY TO WEATHER—The seas were so rough during the Baltic maneuvers that carrier planes couldn't take off at all half the time and were seriously hampered the rest of the time. Giant waves flooded the flight decks and smashed the Midway's steel hangar. Yet at the height of the storm, land-based RAF bombers flew overhead and reported that the ships were wallowing so badly that their antiaircraft guns would be useless.

The carrier group also called time out every two days for refueling—a convenience that the enemy might not agree to.

These are factors which Congress should consider as it tackles the difficult job of cutting the budget.

This Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie Takes Cake

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE . . . No drippy juice.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Delight your family with a gorgeous springtime dessert—Strawberry Rhubarb Pie. If you follow our directions exactly, we guarantee you'll be serving something that tastes exquisitely good. The recipe is so just-right you'll put it in your permanent file.

Of course, there's a trick to it: You use quick-cooking tapioca in the filling. Result—no fruit juices running over in the oven; a filling that's pleasantly juicy but not too thin; the lovely colors of the strawberries and rhubarb are protected as are the natural flavors of the fruit. In addition, quick-cooking tapioca is so simple to use; you just mix it as it comes from the package, with the sugar and fruit, pour the mixture into an unbaked pie shell and bake as usual.

We also want to add a word of praise for the crust recipe we are giving you. It's crisp, flaky and bakes to a lovely light golden color.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

Ingredients: 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups fresh strawberries, 2 cups fresh rhubarb, (cut in ½-inch pieces), pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie, 1 tablespoon butter of margarine.

Method: Mix tapioca, sugar, salt, strawberries and rhubarb. Line a 9-inch pie plate with half the pastry rolled ⅛-inch thick, leaving enough lapover for turning under and fluting. Roll remaining pastry ⅛-inch thick and cut into ½-inch strips. Fill pie shell with fruit mixture and dot with butter. Adjust pastry strips in lattice across top of pie. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot (425F) over 45 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst.

PASTRY FOR STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

Ingredients: 2¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup shortening, 5 tablespoons cold water.

Method: Sift flour and salt into bowl. Cut in ½ cup shortening with pastry blender or two knives until mixture is fine. Add remaining shortening in several pieces and chop in just until divided into pieces the size of large peas. Sprinkle in a small amount of the water at a time, mixing lightly with blender or fork. When all particles are moistened, press pastry lightly into a cake, cover with damp cloth, and let stand about 30 minutes before rolling out.

Marshmallow Topping

A new raspberry flavored marshmallow topping is recommended for desserts. The color, flavor and odor of the topping offers a party touch to homemade desserts.

Reed furniture should be dusted and vacuumed often, and also washed occasionally. Apply warm soapsuds with a cloth or sponge. Rinse by wiping with a clean damp cloth and put in an airy spot to dry.

Pie In A Bag

Have a piece of leftover pie? Wrap and put it in a plastic bag. Freeze in the home freezer. Filled with several pieces of different kinds of pie, the bag is a handy snack-sack. One piece of pie may be removed at a time and a selection is always available.

now has 370 modern submarines—five times more deadly than Germany's World War II U-boat fleet.

VULNERABILITY TO ATOMIC ATTACK—A carrier force can be put out of business by one atomic bomb. This was proved at Bikini where one A-bomb, that missed its target by several hundred yards, still wrecked or contaminated every ship in the force. Some of the hulls remained radioactive for several years. During the Baltic maneuvers, the Navy conveniently ruled that atomic weapons would not be allowed in the mock attacks. However, Russia is not celebrated for sticking to the rules.

VULNERABILITY TO ACCIDENTS—Frequently, carriers are laid up for weeks by operational accidents that have nothing to do with enemy action. For example, the carrier Essex was put out of action at a crucial period in the Korea War, because a single plane crashed on its flight deck. This not only meant tying up the Essex, but also all its escort vessels for over five weeks.

VULNERABILITY TO WEATHER—The seas were so rough during the Baltic maneuvers that carrier planes couldn't take off at all half the time and were seriously hampered the rest of the time. Giant waves flooded the flight decks and smashed the Midway's steel hangar. Yet at the height of the storm, land-based RAF bombers flew overhead and reported that the ships were wallowing so badly that their antiaircraft guns would be useless.

The carrier group also called time out every two days for refueling—a convenience that the enemy might not agree to.

These are factors which Congress should consider as it tackles the difficult job of cutting the budget.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 27 (INS)—It's supposed to be hush-hush, but the star Universal-International is after to play "Magnificent Obsession" is my girl—Jane Wyman.

Everything possible is being done to pry Janie from Warners for the remake of this drama, which was so terrific with Robert Taylor and Irene Dunne.

I remember I wept and wept over Bob and Irene in Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas' beautiful story of redemption.

Of course, you know that Rock Hudson is elected for the Taylor role. And I'd love to see Jane in Irene's part.

Couldn't be more surprised to hear that James Jones, bright boy novelist of "From Here to Eternity" is writing a screen adaptation of "The Killing Frost" (not his book)—at home.

Last I heard about this boy's writing he was part of a "writing stable" conducted by a woman who trained literary talent as though the scribes were athletes. Jones admitted that "From Here to Eternity" came out of her "school."

If Jones is working at home on this yarn for Burt Lancaster he must have dropped his lady coach! "The Killing Frost" is a story of circus acrobats, right up Burt's street. He used to be one.

The fantastic salaries paid by the various night clubs in Las Vegas continue to attract our stars. Keefe Brasselle who played his last nightclub date a couple of years ago for $150 weekly, has been signed for the Flamingo by his agent, Wynn Rocamora, at $15,000 per. He'll make this appearance just about the time "The Eddie Cantor Story," in which he stars, is released.

Tallulah Bankhead is packing them in at Vegas, and Jane Powell is doing well. Carole Mathews, who is whipping up a night club act in which she's a lady M.C., tried it out over the weekend for a group of Marines who okayed her.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gene Nelson and Jane Powell have been an everyday item around Las Vegas. She no longer tries to deny that he's the man in her life.

Milton Berle goes into the hospital next week for a minor but painful operation.

Joni James, singer at Ciro's, has fallen so hard for Tony Acquaveda that she has given him the job of her manager.

Teresa Wright has herself a new beau. He's Dr. Nathan Rickles, unattached local medico. In the past week they have been a Plymouth House duo three times.

Former Actress Marjorie Manners will go to Las Vegas for the usual reason—a divorce from Walter Colmes, head of the Encyclopaedia Britannica motion picture division, and formerly a Republic producer.

At the Mocambo to hear Marti Stevens who gets better all the time, were Jean Simmons, Stewart Granger, Spencer Tracy and George Jessel.

At the Cocoanut Grove Jimmy McHugh and his singing stars will be honored Friday night with an ASCAP dinner. The Grove incidentally is having its biggest business in months.

Congratulations to Cecilia Parker and Dick Baldwin on their 15th wedding anniversary. Cecilia was formerly with Mickey Rooney in the "Andy Hardy" series, and Dick was an actor at 20th, but is now a prosperous real estate dealer.

The mere fact that Mario Lanza was well enough to drive to Las Vegas to the opening of Andy and Della Russell, indicates how much better he is. Mrs. Lanza went with him.

Zachary Scott, who shares part time custody of his own daughter Waverly, with his ex-wife, Elaine, (Mrs. John Steinbeck) is now adopting his present wife's 12-year old daughter.

Nicky Hilton's current telephone calls go to Peggy Taylor, singer on Don McNeil's Breakfast Club show. She looks almost like Elizabeth Taylor's twin. Is that bad?

Lucy Monroe, whom I've known since she was a youngster, telephoned from San Francisco to say that she's going to Korea for five weeks to entertain the troops.

Congratulations to Lida Livingston, head of Margaret Ettinger's New York office, who welcomed a 6-pound baby boy last week. She's married to Carl Perutz.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Quartet Of Spring Shoes

The wide-open silhouette and touches of white highlight the news in spring shoes. Good Housekeeping magazine's fashion editors illustrate the trend with these styles in their March issue. Starting at upper right in clockwise order they are: a wonderfully pliable walking shoe of maple-color llama calf with soft toe and elasticized gore in top of vamp. About $20. British Walkers; the dressed-up black suede pump with a cut-out design and overlay of mesh on the vamp, and a medium slender heel. About $12. Air Step; a patent-leather stripping sandal with a high Louis heel, a sling back, and a very open toe. About $11. Grace Walker; a comfortable sling-back moccasin with sole of resilient cork crepe and top of charcoal denim. About $5. U. S. Kedettes.

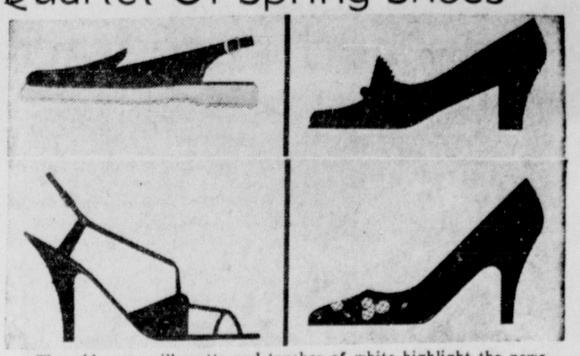
Quartet Of Spring Shoes



The wide-open silhouette and touches of white highlight the news in spring shoes. Good Housekeeping magazine's fashion editors illustrate the trend with these styles in their March issue. Starting at upper right in clockwise order they are: a wonderfully pliable walking shoe of maple-color llama calf with soft toe and elasticized gore in top of vamp. About $20. British Walkers; the dressed-up black suede pump with a cut-out design and overlay of mesh on the vamp, and a medium slender heel. About $12. Air Step; a patent-leather stripping sandal with a high Louis heel, a sling back, and a very open toe. About $11. Grace Walker; a comfortable sling-back moccasin with sole of resilient cork crepe and top of charcoal denim. About $5. U. S. Kedettes.

STAG LINES for men

Three-Way Shirt

FASHION: "Convertible" up to now has meant making one garment look like two. Now comes a triple-threat. The musical Three Suns (above) demonstrate how the same convertible sport shirt can be worn in three ways. From left to right: Artie Dunn wears his as a turtle neck; Al Nevins shows the gaucho collar, and Morty Nevins the conventional open-neck style.

Dress Tips: Your buttoned-down collar will have the proper roll if you do not pull your tie too tight. Experiment with it . . . If you wear a belt while golfing, try wearing the buckle at the back—to avoid scratching your inner forearm on the back swing. . . . Before storing your winter shoes, give them a good polish, put shoe trees in them and cover with shoe bags.

Factuals: If any of you mountain climbers are thinking of scaling Mt. Everest, you can forget it for a while. The state of Nepal is allowing only one expedition each year to get to the mountain and applications have been approved until 1955. . . . Experts who reckon up such things figure that at present rates it costs $20,000 to raise a child from birth to age eighteen. . . . The Ritz Men's Bar, at New York's Carlton House, and the Beau Nash Room, in Chicago's Ambassador, both permit women after 4:07 p. m. The extra seven minutes comes from an old English custom that allowed male carousers time to tidy their hair and costumes!

For Parents: Editor Max Lehman of the "Children's Times" points out that children have short memories and short-lived desires. He therefore advises fond fathers not to rush out and buy expensive equipment the moment a youngster develops a sudden passion for a violin, drums, pony, etc. More often than not, the interest will fade.

Jiffy Breads

There is no doubt about it — the pace of living today is fast. Women are doing things wherever you go. They achieve results because they key their homemaking and entertaining to smart new ideas, short cuts in food preparation and step-saving ways althrough the house.

We have a host of new jiffy ideas, ideas for serving the most colorful of bread treats. We are hoping that your enthusiasm will match ours.

Garlic Rye Toasties

¼ cup soft butter or margarine
1 garlic clove
24 thin slices salty rye bread

Cut garlic clove into 4 pieces; cream garlic pieces into butter. Let stand for thirty minutes to allow flavor to permeate butter; remove garlic. Spread on each slice of rye bread, using ½ teaspoon garlic butter per slice. Place on a cookie sheet, spread side up, and toast in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for seven minutes, or until crisp. Serve as a snack, or with salads and soups.

Yield: 24 Garlic Rye Toasties.

Cheese Buns

6 frankfurter buns
¼ cup soft butter or margarine
¼ cup finely grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cut buns in half, horizontally. Combine butter, Parmesan cheese and Worcestershire sauce. Spread Parmesan butter on cut sides of bun halves, using 1 tablespoon per bun. Place buns on a shallow pan, spread side up, and toast in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for seven minutes, or until light brown.

Yield: 6 servings (2 bun halves per serving).

Zippy Cheese Loaf

½ cup cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup grated sharp process cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 (1-pound) loaf unsliced enriched bread

Blend cream cheese and milk until smooth. Add cheese, parsley, horseradish, pimiento, onion, lemon juice and salt. Mix well. Cut bread, almost through to bottom crust, into ten equal-sized slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 10 servings.

Brown 'N Serve Garlic-Cheese Bread

1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1½ teaspoons prepared horseradish
2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
2 (5-ounce) loaves Brown 'n Serve French bread

Combine cream cheese, milk, garlic salt and horseradish. Brush butter over top of bread. Cut each loaf of bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for twelve minutes, or until golden brown. Serve with salads, soups or entrees.

Yield: 10 servings.

Brown 'N Serve Chive-Cheese Bread

1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon finely chopped chives
2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
2 (5-ounce) loaves Brown 'n Serve French bread

Combine cream cheese, milk and chives. Brush butter over top of bread. Cut each loaf of bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for twelve minutes, or until golden brown.

Yield: 10 servings.

Garlic French Bread

1 garlic clove
½ cup soft butter or margarine
1 (1-pound) loaf French or Vienna bread

Cut garlic clove into 4 pieces; cream garlic pieces into butter. Let stand for thirty minutes to allow flavor to permeate butter; remove garlic. Cut bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread garlic butter between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 12 servings.

Caraway-Cheese French Bread

1 cup grated process American cheese
2 teaspoons caraway seed
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 (1-pound) loaf French or Vienna bread
¼ cup soft butter or margarine

Combine cheese, caraway seed ally, almost through to bottom and mayonnaise. Cut bread diagoncrust, into 1-inch slices. Spread butter between slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 12 servings.

Amateur Chef: Grate a half dozen Norway sardines and two hard-boiled eggs through a sieve and moisten the mix with a little butter. Makes a great spread for sandwiches. . . . You can have good ice water easily on picnics if you first freeze solid a cardboard milk container nearly full of water. It stays cold a long time.

Sports Rules: This is the time of year when it's too easy for a man to look garish rather than well groomed—and the most common cause is the careless combining of sport jackets and sport shirts. As in all other articles of apparel, use the rule of contrast (see drawing): Never combine two bold patterns. Wear a neat shirt with patterned jacket; a bold shirt with neat or plain jacket.

Snack On Juice And Tidbits

Scarlet bright vegetables juices taste like a "garden in a glass". Keep cans of the juice well chilled for snacks on warm days. And have cheese and cucumber kabobs to nibble as you sip. For kabobs, string chunks of cheese and slices of cucumber on toothpicks. Have several kabobs for each partaker.

A major sport among the Indians of Panama's remote western provinces is balseria, one of the world's roughest games. Object of the game is to incapacitate an opponent by hurling a heavy, six-foot pole at his legs.

VALUABLE RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY AND ONE UNIMPROVED LOT SITUATED IN THE TOWN OF LONCAONING, MARYLAND.

Under and by virtue of a Decree of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, dated the twenty-second day of April Nineteen Hundred Fifty-Three, passed in a cause therein pending wherein Ida E. Swanson, et al, are plaintiffs and George L. Eichhorn, et al, are defendants, it being No. 22993 Equity upon the Dockets of said Court, the undersigned Trustee, having given bond as required by said Decree, will offer at public sale to the highest bidder or bidders for the same on Thursday, May 28, 1953, at 11:00 o'clock A. M. in front of the premises to be sold, the following pieces or parcels of ground; namely,

1. All that piece or parcel of ground known and distinguished as Lots Nos. 2 and 4, Main Street, in the Town of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, comprising all those three lots and parcels of land situated on East Main Street in the Town of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, together comprising one whole parcel of land conveyed to Minnie Eichhorn by H. Stanley Torbet and wife by deed dated May 13, 1947, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, in Liber No. 215, folio 590, and having a frontage of approximately 108 feet, and an irregular depth of approximately 189 feet.

THIS PARCEL OF GROUND IS IMPROVED BY A DOUBLE FRAME DWELLING HOUSE DESIGNATED AS NO. 2 and 4 MAIN STREET AND CONTAINING FIVE ROOMS AND BATH ON ONE SIDE, THAT IS THE SIDE DESIGNATED AS NO. 4, AND CONTAINING EIGHT ROOMS AND BATH WITH HOT AIR FURNACE ON THE SIDE DESIGNATED AS NO. 2, AND BOTH SIDES HAVE WATER, GAS AND ELECTRICITY. THIS PROPERTY EMBRACES, ALSO, A VACANT LOT ADJOINING THE SAME.

2. All that piece or parcel of ground situated in the rear of No. 2, 4 and 6 Main Street, Lonaconing, and lying along the creek and described as follows:

BEGINNING at the end of 78 feet on the fourth line of a Lot conveyed by Georges Creek Coal and Iron Company to George Schantze by deed dated August 14, 1874, and running thence, (1) South 5 degrees West 112 feet, (2) South 78½ degrees East 42 feet, (3) North 8½ degrees West 120 feet, (4) North 78½ degrees West 13 feet to the place of beginning.

It being the same property conveyed unto Minnie Eichhorn by August Eichhorn by deed dated December 16, 1909, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County in Liber No. 105, folio 586.

THIS PARCEL OF GROUND IS UNIMPROVED.

The aforegoing parcels of ground will first be offered separately, and the Trustee will receive and reserve all bids received thereon and will then offer said property as a whole, and the Trustee reserves the right to make sale of said property, either separately or as a whole in accordance with the bids received to the best advantage of the heirs of Minnie Eichhorn to whom said property belonged. TERMS OF SALE: ⅓ Cash on the day of sale and the balance thereof in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court and tender of deed for the same.

½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cut buns in half, horizontally. Combine butter, Parmesan cheese and Worcestershire sauce. Spread Parmesan butter on cut sides of bun halves, using 1 tablespoon per bun. Place buns on a shallow pan, spread side up, and toast in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for seven minutes, or until light brown.

Yield: 6 servings (2 bun halves per serving).

Zippy Cheese Loaf

½ cup cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup grated sharp process cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 (1-pound) loaf unsliced enriched bread

Blend cream cheese and milk until smooth. Add cheese, parsley, horseradish, pimiento, onion, lemon juice and salt. Mix well. Cut bread, almost through to bottom crust, into ten equal-sized slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 10 servings.

Brown 'N Serve Garlic-Cheese Bread

1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1½ teaspoons prepared horseradish
2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
2 (5-ounce) loaves Brown 'n Serve French bread

Combine cream cheese, milk, garlic salt and horseradish. Brush butter over top of bread. Cut each loaf of bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for twelve minutes, or until golden brown. Serve with salads, soups or entrees.

Yield: 10 servings.

Brown 'N Serve Chive-Cheese Bread

1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon finely chopped chives
2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
2 (5-ounce) loaves Brown 'n Serve French bread

Combine cream cheese, milk and chives. Brush butter over top of bread. Cut each loaf of bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for twelve minutes, or until golden brown.

Yield: 10 servings.

Garlic French Bread

1 garlic clove
½ cup soft butter or margarine
1 (1-pound) loaf French or Vienna bread

Cut garlic clove into 4 pieces; cream garlic pieces into butter. Let stand for thirty minutes to allow flavor to permeate butter; remove garlic. Cut bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread garlic butter between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 12 servings.

Caraway-Cheese French Bread

1 cup grated process American cheese
2 teaspoons caraway seed
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 (1-pound) loaf French or Vienna bread
¼ cup soft butter or margarine

Combine cheese, caraway seed and mayonnaise. Cut bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 1-inch slices. Spread butter between slices. Spread cheese mixture between each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil. Heat in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes, or until piping hot and crusty.

Yield: 12 servings.

Amateur Chef: Grate a half dozen Norway sardines and two hard-boiled eggs through a sieve and moisten the mix with a little butter. Makes a great spread for sandwiches. . . . You can have good ice water easily on picnics if you first freeze solid a cardboard milk container nearly full of water. It stays cold a long time.

Sports Rules: This is the time of year when it's too easy for a man to look garish rather than well groomed—and the most common cause is the careless combining of sport jackets and sport shirts. As in all other articles of apparel, use the rule of contrast (see drawing): Never combine two bold patterns. Wear a neat shirt with patterned jacket; a bold shirt with neat or plain jacket.

Snack On Juice And Tidbits

Scarlet bright vegetables juices taste like a "garden in a glass". Keep cans of the juice well chilled for snacks on warm days. And have cheese and cucumber kabobs to nibble as you sip. For kabobs, string chunks of cheese and slices of cucumber on toothpicks. Have several kabobs for each partaker.

A major sport among the Indians of Panama's remote western provinces is balseria, one of the world's roughest games. Object of the game is to incapacitate an opponent by hurling a heavy, six-foot pole at his legs.

EXECUTRIX NOTICE

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE, That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphan's Court of Allegany County, Maryland, letters Testamentary on the estate of Albert T. Reckley late of Allegany County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 26th day of November, 1953. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 26th day of May, 1953.

VALUABLE RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY AND ONE UNIMPROVED LOT SITUATED IN THE TOWN OF LONCAONING, MARYLAND.

Under and by virtue of a Decree of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, dated the twenty-second day of April Nineteen Hundred Fifty-Three, passed in a cause therein pending wherein Ida E. Swanson, et al, are plaintiffs and George L. Eichhorn, et al, are defendants, it being No. 22993 Equity upon the Dockets of said Court, the undersigned Trustee, having given bond as required by said Decree, will offer at public sale to the highest bidder or bidders for the same on Thursday, May 28, 1953, at 11:00 o'clock A. M. in front of the premises to be sold, the following pieces or parcels of ground, namely,

1. All that piece or parcel of ground known and distinguished as Lots Nos. 2 and 4, Main Street, in the Town of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, comprising all those three lots and parcels of land situated on East Main Street in the Town of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, together comprising one whole parcel of land conveyed to Minnie Eichhorn by H. Stanley Torbet and wife by deed dated May 13, 1947, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, in Liber No. 215, folio 590, and having a frontage of approximately 108 feet, and an irregular depth of approximately 189 feet.

THIS PARCEL OF GROUND IS IMPROVED BY A DOUBLE FRAME DWELLING HOUSE DESIGNATED AS NO. 2 and 4 MAIN STREET AND CONTAINING FIVE ROOMS AND BATH ON ONE SIDE, THAT IS THE SIDE DESIGNATED AS NO. 4, AND CONTAINING EIGHT ROOMS AND BATH WITH HOT AIR FURNACE ON THE SIDE DESIGNATED AS NO. 2, AND BOTH SIDES HAVE WATER, GAS AND ELECTRICITY. THIS PROPERTY EMBRACES, ALSO, A VACANT LOT ADJOINING THE SAME.

2. All that piece or parcel of ground situated in the rear of No. 2, 4 and 6 Main Street, Lonaconing, and lying along the creek and described as follows:

BEGINNING at the end of 78 feet on the fourth line of a Lot conveyed by Georges Creek Coal and Iron Company to George Schantze by deed dated August 14, 1874, and running thence, (1) South 5 degrees West 112 feet, (2) South 78½ degrees East 42 feet, (3) North 8½ degrees West 120 feet, (4) North 78½ degrees West 13 feet to the place of beginning.

It being the same property conveyed unto Minnie Eichhorn by August Eichhorn by deed dated December 16, 1909, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County in Liber No. 105, folio 586.

THIS PARCEL OF GROUND IS UNIMPROVED.

The aforegoing parcels of ground will first be offered separately, and the Trustee will receive and reserve all bids received thereon and will then offer said property as a whole, and the Trustee reserves the right to make sale of said property, either separately or as a whole in accordance with the bids received to the best advantage of the heirs of Minnie Eichhorn to whom said property belonged. TERMS OF SALE: ⅓ Cash on the day of sale and the balance thereof in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court and tender of deed for the same.

Charles Z. Heskett
Charles Z. Heskett, Trustee

McKeldin Reducing

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin is reducing himself.

The chief executive reported today that three months of dieting has dropped his weight from 220 to 198. This despite as many as five banquets a day.

And he hopes to lose another seven pounds in two more months.

In Spain a wife retains her surname and the son may adopt either the paternal or the maternal name or use both.

McKeldin Reducing

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin is reducing himself.

The chief executive reported today that three months of dieting has dropped his weight from 220 to 198. This despite as many as five banquets a day.

And he hopes to lose another seven pounds in two more months.

In Spain a wife retains her surname and the son may adopt either the paternal or the maternal name or use both.

HERE'S PICTURE WINDOW BEAUTY PLUS WONDERFUL VENTILATION

TRUSCON RANCH WINDOWS

HANDSOMELY STYLED IN LONG-LASTING STEEL!

Here's the living room picture window you've always dreamed of living with! Advanced design of this striking steel window tends to minimize the "wide open" effect of large undivided glass areas. Awning type ventilators make your home open and airy in pleasant weather—or snug, tight and cozy during unpleasant seasons. Can be fitted with double insulating glass. Sliding wicket screens available. Cost no more than ordinary windows completely installed. On display now. Bring in your plans . . . we'll work out sizes and costs with you.

Industrial Development Leaders

Enthusiasm And Time Needed To Get Plants

Chamber Members Hear Baltimoreans

Enthusiasm and patience are among the prime requisites for a successful industrial development program, two officials of the Baltimore Association of Commerce told members and guests of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night.

Duane L. Peterson, president of the Baltimore Association, said that every factor in obtaining new industry can be done correctly and the goal still not be achieved because there is a lack of enthusiasm. On the other hand, he added, many mistakes can be made and "enthusiasm will pull you over the hump."

William P. Rock, industry location manager for the Baltimore organization, dwelt at some length on the value of patience and cited figures to show that obtaining a new industry is a long, difficult task.

Six Picked Maryland

Of 5,000 selected industries across the nation, 2,200 have received personal calls from Baltimore representatives, Rock stated, pointing out that of the 700 clients they got as a result, only 19 came to eastern states in 1952 and of the 19, six came to Maryland.

On the basis that all 5,000 had been contacted, Rock estimated that possibly 40 would have come to the East Coast and possibly 12 of these to Maryland.

Forty industries a year distributed evenly among the 14 East Coast states would provide three to a state and one branch industry to a county every 20 years, he explained.

Even with Maryland receiving a higher percentage than other states, with 12 new industries a year, that still provides only one to each county every two years, Rock declared.

He said industrial development's two simple functions are to find the clients and to prepare the general area so that it readily affords the diversity of facilities to meet the diversity of clients' needs. He broke the source of industrial clients into three categories: 1. branch plants of national industry; 2. relocation or expansion of local industry, and 3. research laboratory ideas which can with assistance of risk capital be developed into new industry.

Personal Calls Best

Rock listed market needs and land site needs as the two needs of industry and cited personal calls on industry executives as the best method to follow in attracting industry clients for possible location.

Rock recommended, in order to meet requirements of industries, the availability of existing single story buildings and a diversity in sizes of sites and location of sites both in direction and distance from the city. There likewise should be preparation to meet economic needs with a substantial fund for assisting in meeting financial need of worthwhile industries, and tax concessions in some cases, he said.

The industrial committee and its staff should have all possible support, patience and faith, said Rock who added that time is required for the community to place itself in the position to impress the comparatively few industry representatives who come to see the area.

Both Rock and Peterson offered to work with Cumberland in obtaining new industry and Edmund S. Burke, president of the Cumberland Chamber, said Cumberland wants to work in harmony and close co-operation with Baltimore. He expressed the hope that the Cumberland area's assets will prove themselves to industry and also raised the question that the Cumberland Chamber should take a more active interest in civic improvements.

Women's Work Important

This latter comment followed Peterson's explanation of the growth of activity by the Baltimore Association in civic affairs.

Peterson also offered the advice that women of the community be given a large part to play because of their knack of getting certain

C&P Says Costs Justify Higher Telephone Bills

Allen Argues Rates Already Too High

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. brought some old figures up to date and shadow boxed with them before the Maryland Public Service Commission today at a hearing on its rates.

The company did not come right out and say what it wanted. The figures and the brief testimony indicated:

1. It wants for keeps the rate increases it was granted early this year on a temporary basis.

2. It feels there is justification for even higher rates if the commission wants to take it upon itself to find such justification.

Joseph Allen, people's counsel to the PSC, started a skirmish designed to show even the present temporary rates are too high.

He held his heavy fire until Friday morning, when he and his aides will have had a chance to analyze the new balance sheets the company presented today. The PSC will resume the hearing then.

Figures he presented merely brought up to April 30 those the company used earlier to get increases which added 25 or 50 cents a month to most telephone bills in the state, starting last February.

The PSC authorized these increases on a temporary basis, pending a decision on permanent rates. The temporary boosts were designed to give the company $1,800,000 more a year in gross income, $830,000 more a year in net income, and a return of between 5.75 and 6 per cent on its investment.

The temporary increases were authorized for nine months, or until permanent rates were set. The company had to put up a $1,300,000 bond to cover refunds to customers in case it was decided the temporary increases weren't justified.

Allen pleaded at that time increases of 20 and 35 cents were enough. One commissioner, Wilmer Fell Davis of Denton, agreed and declined to sign the decision.

Fowler's new figures showed the company values its facilities at about 10 million dollars more than it did when it argued for the temporary increases.

Kenneweg Company Roof Ignites

Three city fire engines were summoned to the Kenneweg Company office and warehouse at 184 Baltimore Street yesterday at 3:26 when a small blaze started on the roof.

Central Company's pumper engine and aerial ladder truck responded on the first alarm, a telephone call to fire headquarters. A moment later, Box 46 inside the building was pulled and West Side and East Side companies answered.

Firemen said the blaze damaged wooden "snowbirds" on the roof. They theorized that a spark from a passing steam engine may have started the fire. Damage was minor.

Scouts Planning Order Of Arrow Council Lodge

New Honorary Unit Stresses Camping

A new lodge of the Order of the Arrow, a national organization devoted to camping, may be incorporated by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America.

At a Scoutmasters' training session last weekend at Camp Potomac, Council leaders heard a discussion of the national organization by Thomas McBride and William Krell, officers of the Order of the Arrow chapter at Winkinsburg, Pa.

Willis V. Smith, Council executive secretary, said Scoutmasters and officials attending the weekend sessions were in favor of McBride and Krell's proposal to organize a chapter here, and at present are considering the idea.

Smith explained that the Order of the Arrow is an honorary camping organization of the Scouts and its main theme is promoting the camping program.

To be eligible for membership, a Boy Scout or leader must have camped out 15 days and nights during a year and not more than seven of the days may be in summer camp. Candidates for membership are selected by members of each troops.

All induction ceremonies of the organization are based on Indian lore with colorful costumes and other props. The lodge is part of the Council organization and is in charge of the boy members with several adult advisors.

Smith pointed out that 385 of the 540 Councils in the United States have lodges in the organization with a total membership of 50,000.

Those attending the weekend sessions at the camp include James Handlan, Troop 37; Estel Oster, Troop 4; Harrison Lewis, Troop 11; Charles Smith, Clarence Bittler and Wayne Cleaver Troop 9; Joseph Grahame and Edgar Bucy, Troop 2; Commander W. E. Woodson, Jr., Troop 13.

Ronald Carpenter, and James Rafter, Troop 30, Orval Teets, William Sears and Ellis Harvey, Troop 57; J. D. Murray, Troop 14; Albert Mathias and Benjamin Frye, Troop 81; William Armbuster, Troop 1; Harold Lantz and Darwood Fike, Troop 41; Ralph Fauber, Troop 31.

Harry Fauber, Troop 71; William Hayden, Troop 70; William Burkey, Troop 6; Jasper Morris, Troop 40; Paul Crawford and David Faloon, Centerville, Pa., Troop 81; Carl Taschenberger, Troop 5, and Arlie Borror, Troop 9.

Hugh Jeffries, Troop 52; William T. Allee, district commissioner; Robert Metger, field representative.

Area Firemen Elect Officers

Urcel McCullough was recently elected president of the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

The next meeting of the company will be on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall. Future plans of the organization call for a festival on June 19 near the fire hall. McCullough last night said area volunteer companies will be invited to participate in a street parade and there will be various concessions and booths.

Lonaconing Will Cancel Protest On Water Rates

Compromise On Hike Reached At Hearing

The Mayor and Council of Lonaconing last night withdrew a protest filed earlier this month with the Public Service Commission against the Lonaconing Water Company's proposed rate increase.

The protest was withdrawn at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council called last night following a meeting in Baltimore Tuesday of the Commission, representatives of the Town of Lonaconing and the water company.

Earlier this month the Lonaconing Water Company filed a request for a 50 per cent overall rate increase of the current rate. The Mayor and Council immediately filed a protest with the Commission against the amount of increase requested.

37 Per Cent Hike

At the hearing Tuesday in Baltimore, a compromise was reached allowing the water company to increase rates approximately 37 per cent, effective June 1. Officials of the Public Service Commission indicated that the increase was in line with the cost of operation and the company's proposed improvement program amounting to nearly $27,000, which the company will be required to complete this year.

Virgil A. Alexander, mayor, and James S. Getty, city attorney, reported to the Council last night that they were assured on the best information available from members of the Public Service Commission that the increase, in case a full hearing was necessary, would probably be at least as much as the compromise figure reached in Baltimore.

Alexander and Getty added that if the increase granted by the Commission yields a higher or lower return than that agreed upon, an adjustment can be made at a later date. Following the report, the Mayor and Council withdrew its protest "in the interest of saving further expense in proceeding with a full hearing which would not, based on the information presented, result in any further reduction."

Improvements Planned

Benjamin H. Evans, president of the water company, said present plans for improving the water system include two new gas type chlorinators to be installed at Koontz and Midland Reservoirs, further deepwell drilling for a reserve supply of water during dry periods and the installation of meters at all commercial establishments obtaining water from the company.

It was pointed out that the increase will not affect commercial properties at present because the old meter rates will be used until the amount of return from this source can be averaged and adjusted to a fair rate.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the water company, pointed out that the rate of return for the company during 1952 was only three per cent on a rate basis of $120,000. The increase granted will yield approximately six per cent on the rate basis, according to the Public Service Commission.

The rate boost, effective June 1, will provide an increase to the family consumer of approximately $6.70 per year. The previous rate of $18 for a home will increase to $24.70. No figures on the cost to commercial users could be determined because the company has not used meters in billing these customers.

At the Baltimore meeting Commission members pointed out that the rate increases are of a temporary nature and will be revised if later information indicates that they are unfair to either the company or the consumer.

Celanese Begins New Fiber Work

Celanese Corporation of America announced today that it has begun production of a new ribbon-like acetate staple fiber of 35 denier per filament for blending in yarns going into heavy fabrics such as suitings and home furnishings.

This new product, heretofore not made in the United States, gives effects which are attracting favorable attention in European-designed fabrics. The fiber will be made available in various lengths as well as in tow form. It is being produced at the Celco Plant in Narrows, Va.

Used primarily as a decorative influence, the new fiber imparts a fleck effect and sparkle to fabrics. When cross-dyed, it adds eye-appeal, and when piece-dyed gives textural appeal.

Weather

Weather turned cool yesterday with mercury stopping in the 60's. The sun was out only briefly late yesterday afternoon after an overcast began to break up. High temperature was 66 degrees as reported by Constitution Park weather station; low was 57 and at 8 p.m. thermometers stood at 60 degrees. Humidity at 6 o'clock yesterday evening was 51 per cent. The Weather Bureau said today is to be fair and cooler.

Garrett County Oak Trees Lose Their Foliage

Many Garrett County oak trees are already beginning to lose their leaves despite the fact that summer has not yet arrived, District Forester William H. Johnson reported yesterday.

Johnson said that he noticed the defoliation in an area from Oakland north to the upper end of Deep Creek Lake. The exact cause is not known but the forester expressed a belief that caterpillars have been eating the foliage.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham was informed of the development and has requested Dr. Ernest Cory, state entomologist at College Park, to investigate the finding.

Brother Charged With Assault In Brick Fracas

An assault charge was filed yesterday against a Wineow Street man who reportedly admitted hitting his brother with a brick during an argument at their home late Tuesday night.

City Detective Leo E. P. Law said Rhodes admitted he threw a half-brick at his brother, Herbert, 32, sometime after 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Rhodes was reported "resting well" last night at Newton D. Baker Veterans Administration Center, Martinsburg, W. Va., with a probable skull fracture.

Law said Frank Rhodes told him the argument started as he returned home from the circus Tuesday night. Frank Rhodes said the front door was propped open with a half-brick, and that the house was chilly.

Frank said he asked his sister, Miss Ruth Rhodes, if it was all right to close the door. She told him to go ahead. Herbert objected and a heated argument ensued.

During the quarrel, said Frank, he and his brother struggled over the brick doorstop. Frank got hold of the brick as his brother ran out of the house to the sidewalk.

When Herbert was about four steps away, said Law, Frank let fly with the brick, striking Herbert in the head.

Herbert was taken to Memorial Hospital, where attaches said he had a skull fracture and scalp lacerations. Yesterday, an ambulance from the VA hospital came here to transfer Herbert Rhodes to Newton D. Baker. The veterans hospital said the extent of his head injury had not been fully determined last night.

Law said Herbert told Detective Roy C. Hawse and himself that he had been drinking and didn't remember what happened. Officer John G. Powers lodged Frank Rhodes in City Jail at 12:30 a.m. yesterday. Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis transferred him to County Jail at 4:30 p.m. after an assault warrant was obtained.

Forest Workers To Study Fire

More than 110 full-time employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks are expected to arrive Sunday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County for the beginning Monday of a three-day state fire training meeting.

District Forester William H. Johnson said that the meeting will concentrate on study of organization for combatting large scale forest fires and other disasters.

The forestry workers in the course of their training will fight a simulated forest fire.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham will be in charge of the training program. Adna R. Bond, assistant forester from the state office, will assist him.

240 Farms Aided By Conservation Program In '52

Figures Tabulated For 11 Practices

After a check of 1952 figures, the Allegany County Production and Producting Administration Committee has concluded that soil and water conservation practices were carried out last year on 240 county farms comprising about 70 per cent of all the farm land in the county.

These practices functionel on a share-the-cost basis, Albert O'Neal, PMA Committee chairman, explained. Each farmer paid his share of the cost and did most of the work. For the country as a whole the government's share averaged about 50 per cent of the out-of-pocket cost.

Farms Improved

"I am proud of the conservation work accomplished in Allegany County in 1952," O'Neal said. "This work has improved the farms of the county and made more permanent the agriculture of the whole area. Instead of our farms becoming less and less productive, erosion has been checked, organic matter restored to the soil and the productivity of the land improved."

Some 11 practices in three different classifications were carried out here last year.

Six were practices to conserve soil and water resources and to protect the soil from wind and water erosion. These practices were all under the technical guidance and certification for approval of the Soil Conservation Service.

Ditches Approved

Approved in 1952 were 15,213 feet of permanent open drainage ditches, 8,366 feet of tile drainage ditches, 144 acres of contour strip cropping, 27 acres of terracing, one acre of sod waterways and 35 acres of subsoiling, the PMA reports.

One practice to maintain farm woodland also was conducted in 1952. This was the approval of 8,035 feet of permanent fences to protect farm woodland from grazing. It was under the guidance and certification of District Forester William H. Johnson.

The other four 1952 practices were for the protection of the soil and pasture and maintain soil fertility. Approved among these were 229 acres of winter cover crops such as crimson clover, vetch and ryegrass, 84 acres of permanent pasture seeded, 3,066 tons of liming material and 397 tons of fertilizer applied to permanent pasture, hay and cover crops.

Farms on which one or more of practices were performed contained 16,103 acres of crop land and 8,026 acres of permanent pasture.

Area Student Will Receive Medical Degree

Overton Himmelwright, of Hedgesville, W. Va., formerly of Eckhart, will receive a degree in medicine from the University of Maryland Medical School at commencement exercises June 6 at College Park.

He is a son of Mrs. Leroy Himmelwright, Hedgesville, and the late Leroy Himmelwright, Eckhart.

Himmelwright received his early education in Allegany County. While attending Beall High School, Frostburg, of which he is a graduate, he was active in extra curricular activities and was awarded the Lowndes Declamation Medal in his junior year.

He also participated in the school band activities and was a member of Frostburg Arion Band and the Shrine Band of Cumberland.

In June, 1944, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy and served two years at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, and was honorably discharged in July, 1946.

Dr. Himmelwright began his premedical training at the University of Maryland in September, 1946. After completing his studies at the university, he was admitted to the School of Medicine in September, 1949 and has been in Baltimore for the past four years.

During his studies, he was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, national honorary medical society.

After serving his internship at St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore, Dr. Himmelwright plans to enter general practice. He has not picked a location for his work as yet.

He was married to the former Miss Naomi Lashley of Mt. Savage in 1947.

Probe Of Soldier's Death To Be Pushed

Family Writes To Sen. Beall

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Two major veterans' organizations yesterday pressed their requests for full investigation into the death of Pvt. William Gorman Fuller at Aberdeen Proving Ground hospital just a week ago.

Frank Webb, state department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said the office of the Inspector General of the United States Army had been contacted and a thorough study of the situation had been promised. Webb said the VFW is determined to press for a complete probe.

Daniel Burkhardt, state adjutant of the American Legion, armed with a power of attorney from Pvt. Fuller's family, together with a letter setting forth details surrounding the case, said he will contact the post commander and ask permission to talk with everyone at the post involved in the case.

"I'm sure the Army is interested in getting a full report and so are we," Burkhardt said.

In the meantime, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, 619 Sedgwick Street, parents of Pvt. Fuller, together with the young soldier's wife, Mrs. Mary Shober Fuller, gave this reporter a copy of a letter prepared for U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, outlining the case in detail as they know and recall it.

Widow Clarifies Details

The letter points out, and the Fullers emphasize, that they were told repeatedly at Aberdeen that "there was nothing organically wrong" with young Fuller. It was indicated by officers both in his company and at the base hospital that the young soldier was "goldbricking" or malingering.

In her part of the letter, Mrs. Mary Fuller, the young soldier's widow, outlines that she was at the Aberdeen base hospital only on Thursday, the day her 23-year-old husband died. She pointed this out to show the inaccuracy of a published statement in one newspaper that she had talked with Col. John F. Breslin or other medical officers on Tuesday. She told this reporter, "I could not have talked to any of them on Tuesday because I was in Cumberland."

Young Mrs. Fuller also points out that some of the officials at the hospital have denied her claim that an oxygen tent brought for her husband did not work.

Needed Machine Missing

She repeated again her statement that an oxygen tent was set up and that it did not work. A second tent was brought in, she stated, and this one did work and seemed to give the patient some relief in his breathing.

She also said, "A suction machine which was needed as an emergency measure was not on the ward."

The parents have compiled data to show the numerous times their son underwent physical examinations in civilian life, during his college years at West Virginia Wesleyan. His mother recalls that he had the normal childhood diseases, such as the measles, mumps etc. It is also a known fact generally that he was a vigorous athletic type of individual and played basketball and football while at Allegany High School.

His widow said she believes the idea that William had some "malignant or vicious type of high blood pressure which affects the kidneys" probably came as the result of a statement she made to an army doctor at the hospital Thursday.

Family Doubts Diagnosis

Young Mrs. Fuller is a registered nurse and she had been permitted to go to the hospital last Thursday morning to help administer to her sick husband. She said she was talking with Lt. Tepper, a physician who told her the patient's blood pressure was elevated. She recalls that she commented then that she recalls that once while "Bill was in college, he had high blood which probably resulted from studying for long periods for exams."

Mrs. Fuller said "Bill wrote to me about this and later I insisted he have a checkup. His blood pressure at that time was normal."

Other than this one instance, there is no case of high blood pressure in the lad's medical history, as far as the family can determine or ever heard about.

Charges of neglect at the Army post are being pressed by the family and veterans' organizations. Senator Beall has also stated he will insist on a full and complete investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller and their daughter-in-law emphasized last night, as Mr. Fuller put it, "We aren't out to get anybody. That won't help Bill. But we do believe that the neglect we saw, and the attitude of some of the officials at the camp should be corrected.

"We can't help Bill, but we might

Allegany High To Graduate 185 Friday, June 5

Program Completed For Commencement

A completed program for the 65th graduation at Allegany High School was announced yesterday by Raymond O. McCullough, school principal.

The commencement exercises will get underway at 8:15 p. m. Friday, June 5, in the school auditorium.

185 Seniors Listed

Some 185 seniors are on the list of likely graduates. Among them are 67 in the academic course, 47 in commercial and 71 in general.

Miss Anne Guthrie, a world traveler and lecturer who is on the Speaker's Research Committee for the United Nations, will deliver the principal address.

The program will open with the finale from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony by the school orchestra. Rev. H. Manusell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will deliver both the invocation and benediction.

Raymond Douglas Houck, a member of the graduating class, will give the class oration.

Choir Will Sing

The choir will present several selections, "No Man Is An Island," by Ringwald, and "Peace Must Come like a Troubadour," by Wilson. The Choral Club will offer "The Year's At The Spring," by Cain. The graduating class will sing "Dear Old High School," by Hill.

Diplomas will be presented by Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the Allegany County Board of Education. Principal McCullough will announce the honors.

Walter Bosley is president of the senior class. Other officers are David Walton, vice-president; Dorothy McDade, secretary, and Edward Andrews, treasurer.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, will preach the sermon to the graduates Sunday.

The Senior Prom is scheduled for next Wednesday and then will follow the graduation.

Office Transfer Puzzles Pullen

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. told the Board of Education today he was surprised to read in the newspapers recently that his department is to be moved from Baltimore to Annapolis.

That, said Dr. Pullen, was the first he had heard about it. He added that the Board was not aware of a study made by state building engineer Albert B. Backhaus which recommended transfer of certain agencies.

The study, approved by the Board of Public Works May 11, recommended transfer to Annapolis of the Board of Education, Department of Public Welfare, the Game and Inland Fish Commission and the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Board actions today included allocation of $3,000 to $5,000 for a study of higher educational needs if approval of the budget director and state comptroller can be obtained.

It also approved the recommendation by presidents of state teachers colleges for straight $200 salary increases for instructors at those institutions.

It announced commencement dates for the five state colleges as: Frostburg, June 5; Bowie, June 6; Coppin, June 6; Salisbury, June 8; and Towson, June 9.

Railway To Drop Local Trains This Weekend

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP) — The Western Maryland Railway today announced arrangements for eliminating all passenger service between Hagerstown and Cumberland, abandoning all Sunday passenger trains and curtailing its Baltimore - Hagerstown passenger service.

It will be done over the Memorial Day weekend.

The Hagerstown - Cumberland trains will make their last runs Saturday, ending a service that has been in existence since 1906.

The Sunday only train each way between Hagerstown and Baltimore will make its last trip Sunday.

Also to be eliminated is a commuter train that comes into Baltimore each morning from Union Bridge and returns in the evening.

The eliminating and schedule shuffling are the result of a ruling earlier this month by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The Western Maryland had asked permission to discontinue all passenger service so it would be free to concentrate on its speciality —the fast movement of freight, mostly coal, across the western part of the state to and from Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Howls of protest arose in communities along the way and the commission declined to approve total abandonment of passenger service.

What the Western Maryland will have left is twice a day service—except Sunday—in each direction between Baltimore and Hagerstown, and once a day service—except Sunday—each way between Cumberland and Elkins, W. Va.

Under the new setup:

An early morning train will leave Hagerstown at 5 a.m. and arrive in Baltimore at 7:55.

Another will leave Hagerstown at 2:15 p.m. and arrive in Baltimore at 5 p.m.

The morning train in the other direction will leave Baltimore at 9:40 and arrive Hagerstown at 1:01 p.m.

The afternoon version will leave Baltimore at 5:30 and arrive in Hagerstown at 8:35.

Compromise On Hike Reached At Hearing

The Mayor and Council of Lonaconing last night withdrew a protest filed earlier this month with the Public Service Commission against the Lonaconing Water Company's proposed rate increase.

The protest was withdrawn at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council called last night following a meeting in Baltimore Tuesday of the Commission, representatives of the Town of Lonaconing and the water company.

Earlier this month the Lonaconing Water Company filed a request for a 50 per cent overall rate increase of the current rate. The Mayor and Council immediately filed a protest with the Commission against the amount of increase requested.

37 Per Cent Hike

At the hearing Tuesday in Baltimore, a compromise was reached allowing the water company to increase rates approximately 37 per cent, effective June 1. Officials of the Public Service Commission indicated that the increase was in line with the cost of operation and the company's proposed improvement program amounting to nearly $27,000, which the company will be required to complete this year.

Virgil A. Alexander, mayor, and James S. Getty, city attorney, reported to the Council last night that they were assured on the best information available from members of the Public Service Commission that the increase, in case a full hearing was necessary, would probably be at least as much as the compromise figure reached in Baltimore.

Alexander and Getty added that if the increase granted by the Commission yields a higher or lower return than that agreed upon, an adjustment can be made at a later date. Following the report, the Mayor and Council withdrew its protest "in the interest of saving further expense in proceeding with a full hearing which would not, based on the information presented, result in any further reduction."

Improvements Planned

Benjamin H. Evans, president of the water company, said present plans for improving the water system include two new gas type chlorinators to be installed at Koontz and Midland Reservoirs, further deepwell drilling for a reserve supply of water during dry periods and the installation of meters at all commercial establishments obtaining water from the company.

It was pointed out that the increase will not affect commercial properties at present because the old meter rates will be used until the amount of return from this source can be averaged and adjusted to a fair rate.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the water company, pointed out that the rate of return for the company during 1952 was only three per cent on a rate basis of $120,000. The increase granted will yield approximately six per cent on the rate basis, according to the Public Service Commission.

The rate boost, effective June 1, will provide an increase to the family consumer of approximately $6.70 per year. The previous rate of $18 for a home will increase to $24.70. No figures on the cost to commercial users could be determined because the company has not used meters in billing these customers.

At the Baltimore meeting Commission members pointed out that the rate increases are of a temporary nature and will be revised if later information indicates that they are unfair to either the company or the consumer.

Garrett County Oak Trees Lose Their Foliage

Many Garrett County oak trees are already beginning to lose their leaves despite the fact that summer has not yet arrived, District Forester William H. Johnson reported yesterday.

Johnson said that he noticed the defoliation in an area from Oakland north to the upper end of Deep Creek Lake. The exact cause is not known but the forester expressed a belief that caterpillars have been eating the foliage.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham was informed of the development and has requested Dr. Ernest Cory, state entomologist at College Park, to investigate the finding.

Brother Charged With Assault In Brick Fracas

An assault charge was filed yesterday against a Wineow Street man who reportedly admitted hitting his brother with a brick during an argument at their home late Tuesday night.

The charge was filed against Frank Rhodes, 41, of 180 Wineow Street, after Rhodes reportedly signed a statement in the State's Attorney's Office admitting the assault.

City Detective Leo E. P. Law said Rhodes admitted he threw a half-brick at his brother, Herbert, 32, sometime after 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Rhodes was reported "resting well" last night at Newton D. Baker Veterans Administration Center, Martinsburg, W. Va., with a probable skull fracture.

Law said Frank Rhodes told him the argument started as he returned home from the circus Tuesday night. Frank Rhodes said the front door was propped open with a half-brick, and that the house was chilly.

Frank said he asked his sister, Miss Ruth Rhodes, if it was all right to close the door. She told him to go ahead. Herbert objected and a heated argument ensued.

During the quarrel, said Frank, he and his brother struggled over the brick doorstop. Frank got hold of the brick as his brother ran out of the house to the sidewalk.

When Herbert was about four steps away, said Law, Frank let fly with the brick, striking Herbert in the head.

Herbert was taken to Memorial Hospital, where attaches said he had a skull fracture and scalp lacerations. Yesterday, an ambulance from the VA hospital came here to transfer Herbert Rhodes to Newton D. Baker. The veterans hospital said the extent of his head injury had not been fully determined last night.

Law said Herbert told Detective Roy C. Hawse and himself that he had been drinking and didn't remember what happened. Officer John G. Powers lodged Frank Rhodes in City Jail at 12:30 a.m. yesterday. Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis transferred him to County Jail at 4:30 p.m. after an assault warrant was obtained.

240 Farms Aided By Conservation Program In '52

Figures Tabulated For 11 Practices

After a check of 1952 figures, the Allegany County Production and Producting Administration Committee has concluded that soil and water conservation practices were carried out last year on 240 county farms comprising about 70 per cent of all the farm land in the county.

These practices functionel on a share-the-cost basis, Albert O'Neal, PMA Committee chairman, explained. Each farmer paid his share of the cost and did most of the work. For the country as a whole the government's share averaged about 50 per cent of the out-of-pocket cost.

Farms Improved

"I am proud of the conservation work accomplished in Allegany County in 1952," O'Neal said. "This work has improved the farms of the county and made more permanent the agriculture of the whole area. Instead of our farms becoming less and less productive, erosion has been checked, organic matter restored to the soil and the productivity of the land improved."

Some 11 practices in three different classifications were carried out here last year.

Six were practices to conserve soil and water resources and to protect the soil from wind and water erosion. These practices were all under the technical guidance and certification for approval of the Soil Conservation Service.

Ditches Approved

Approved in 1952 were 15,213 feet of permanent open drainage ditches, 8,366 feet of tile drainage ditches, 144 acres of contour strip cropping, 27 acres of terracing, one acre of sod waterways and 35 acres of subsoiling, the PMA reports.

One practice to maintain farm woodland also was conducted in 1952. This was the approval of 8,035 feet of permanent fences to protect farm woodland from grazing. It was under the guidance and certification of District Forester William H. Johnson.

The other four 1952 practices were for the protection of the soil and pasture and maintain soil fertility. Approved among these were 229 acres of winter cover crops such as crimson clover, vetch and ryegrass, 84 acres of permanent pasture seeded, 3.066 tons of liming material and 397 tons of fertilizer applied to permanent pasture, hay and cover crops.

Farms on which one or more of practices were performed contained 16,103 acres of crop land and 8,026 acres of permanent pasture.

Probe Of Soldier's Death To Be Pushed

Family Writes To Sen. Beall

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Two major veterans' organizations yesterday pressed their requests for full investigation into the death of Pvt. William Gorman Fuller at Aberdeen Proving Ground hospital just a week ago.

Frank Webb, state department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said the office of the Inspector General of the United States Army had been contacted and a thorough study of the situation had been promised. Webb said the VFW is determined to press for a complete probe.

Daniel Burkhardt, state adjutant of the American Legion, armed with a power of attorney from Pvt. Fuller's family, together with a letter setting forth details surrounding the case, said he will contact the post commander and ask permission to talk with everyone at the post involved in the case.

"I'm sure the Army is interested in getting a full report and so are we," Burkhardt said.

In the meantime, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, 619 Sedgwick Street, parents of Pvt. Fuller, together with the young soldier's wife, Mrs. Mary Shober Fuller, gave this reporter a copy of a letter prepared for U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, outlining the case in detail as they know and recall it.

Widow Clarifies Details

The letter points out, and the Fullers emphasize, that they were told repeatedly at Aberdeen that "there was nothing organically wrong" with young Fuller. It was indicated by officers both in his company and at the base hospital that the young soldier was "goldbricking" or malingering.

In her part of the letter, Mrs. Mary Fuller, the young soldier's widow, outlines that she was at the Aberdeen base hospital only on Thursday, the day her 23-year-old husband died. She pointed this out to show the inaccuracy of a published statement in one newspaper that she had talked with Col. John F. Breslin or other medical officers on Tuesday. She told this reporter, "I could not have talked to any of them on Tuesday because I was in Cumberland."

Young Mrs. Fuller also points out that some of the officials at the hospital have denied her claim that an oxygen tent brought for her husband did not work.

Needed Machine Missing

She repeated again her statement that an oxygen tent was set up and that it did not work. A second tent was brought in, she stated, and this one did work and seemed to give the patient some relief in his breathing.

She also said, "A suction machine which was needed as an emergency measure was not on the ward."

The parents have compiled data to show the numerous times their son underwent physical examinations in civilian life, during his college years at West Virginia Wesleyan. His mother recalls that he had the normal childhood diseases, such as the measles, mumps etc. It is also a known fact generally that he was a vigorous athletic type of individual and played basketball and football while at Allegany High School.

His widow said she believes the idea that William had some "malignant or vicious type of high blood pressure which affects the kidneys" probably came as the result of a statement she made to an army doctor at the hospital Thursday.

Family Doubts Diagnosis

Young Mrs. Fuller is a registered nurse and she had been permitted to go to the hospital last Thursday morning to help administer to her sick husband. She said she was talking with Lt. Tepper, a physician who told her the patient's blood pressure was elevated. She recalls that she commented then that she recalls that once while "Bill was in college, he had high blood which probably resulted from studying for long periods for exams."

Mrs. Fuller said "Bill wrote to me about this and later I insisted he have a checkup. His blood pressure at that time was normal."

Other than this one instance there is no case of high blood pressure in the lad's medical history, as far as the family can determine or ever heard about.

Charges of neglect at the Army post are being pressed by the family and veterans' organizations. Senator Beall has also stated he will insist on a full and complete investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller and their daughter-in-law emphasized last night, as Mr. Fuller put it, "We aren't out to get anybody. That won't help Bill. But we do believe that the neglect we saw, and the attitude of some of the officials at the camp should be corrected.

"We can't help Bill, but we might

Allegany High To Graduate 185 Friday, June 5

Program Completed For Commencement

A completed program for the 65th graduation at Allegany High School was announced yesterday by Raymond O. McCullough, school principal.

The commencement exercises will get underway at 8:15 p. m, Friday, June 5, in the school auditorium.

185 Seniors Listed

Some 185 seniors are on the list of likely graduates. Among them are 67 in the academic course, 47 in commercial and 71 in general.

Miss Anne Guthrie, a world traveler and lecturer who is on the Speaker's Research Committee for the United Nations, will deliver the principal address.

The program will open with the finale from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony by the school orchestra. Rev. H. Manusell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will deliver both the invocation and benediction.

Raymond Douglas Houck, a member of the graduating class, will give the class oration.

Choir Will Sing

The choir will present several selections, "No Man Is An Island," by Ringwald, and "Peace Must Come like a Troubadour," by Wilson. The Choral Club will offer "The Year's At The Spring," by Cain. The graduating class will sing "Dear Old High School," by Hill.

Diplomas will be presented by Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the Allegany County Board of Education. Principal McCullough will announce the honors.

Walter Bosley is president of the senior class. Other officers are David Walton, vice-president; Dorothy McDade, secretary, and Edward Andrews, treasurer.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, will preach the sermon to the graduates Sunday.

The Senior Prom is scheduled for next Wednesday and then will follow the graduation.

Enthusiasm And Time Needed To Get Plants

Chamber Members Hear Baltimoreans

Enthusiasm and patience are among the prime requisites for a successful industrial development program, two officials of the Baltimore Association of Commerce told members and guests of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night.

Duane L. Peterson, president of the Baltimore Association, said that every factor in obtaining new industry can be done correctly and the goal still not be achieved because there is a lack of enthusiasm. On the other hand, he added, many mistakes can be made and "enthusiasm will pull you over the hump."

William P. Rock, industry location manager for the Baltimore organization, dwelt at some length on the value of patience and cited figures to show that obtaining a new industry is a long, difficult task.

Six Picked Maryland

Of 5,000 selected industries across the nation, 2,200 have received personal calls from Baltimore representatives, Rock stated, pointing out that of the 700 clients they got as a result, only 19 came to eastern states in 1952 and of the 19, six came to Maryland.

On the basis that all 5,000 had been contacted, Rock estimated that possibly 40 would have come to the East Coast and possibly 12 of these to Maryland.

Forty industries a year distributed evenly among the 14 East Coast states would provide three to a state and one branch industry to a county every 20 years, he explained.

Even with Maryland receiving a higher percentage than other states, with 12 new industries a year, that still provides only one to each county every two years, Rock declared.

He said industrial development's two simple functions are to find the clients and to prepare the general area so that it readily affords the diversity of facilities to meet the diversity of clients' needs. He broke the source of industrial clients into three categories: 1. branch plants of national industry; 2. relocation or expansion of local industry, and 3. research laboratory ideas which can with assistance of risk capital be developed into new industry.

Personal Calls Best

Rock listed market needs and land site needs as the two needs of industry and cited personal calls on industry executives as the best method to follow in attracting industry clients for possible location.

Rock recommended, in order to meet requirements of industries, the availability of existing single story buildings and a diversity in sizes of sites and location of sites both in direction and distance from the city. There likewise should be preparation to meet economic needs with a substantial fund for assisting in meeting financial need of worthwhile industries, and tax concessions in some cases, he said.

The industrial committee and its staff should have all possible support, patience and faith, said Rock who added that time is required for the community to place itself in the position to impress the comparatively few industry representatives who come to see the area.

Both Rock and Peterson offered to work with Cumberland in obtaining new industry and Edmund S. Burke, president of the Cumberland Chamber, said Cumberland wants to work in harmony and close co-operation with Baltimore. He expressed the hope that the Cumberland area's assets will prove themselves to industry and also raised the question that the Cumberland Chamber should take a more active interest in civic improvements.

Women's Work Important

This latter comment followed Peterson's explanation of the growth of activity by the Baltimore Association in civic affairs.

Peterson also offered the advice that women of the community be given a large part to play because of their knack of getting certain

C&P Says Costs Justify Higher Telephone Bills

Allen Argues Rates Already Too High

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. brought some old figures up to date and shadow boxed with them before the Maryland Public Service Commission today at a hearing on its rates.

The company did not come right out and say what it wanted. The figures and the brief testimony indicated:

1. It wants for keeps the rate increases it was granted early this year on a temporary basis.

2. It feels there is justification for even higher rates if the commission wants to take it upon itself to find such justification.

Joseph Allen, people's counsel to the PSC, started a skirmish designed to show even the present temporary rates are too high.

He held his heavy fire until Friday morning, when he and his aides will have had a chance to analyze the new balance sheets the company presented today. The PSC will resume the hearing then.

Today, R. M. Fowler, general accounting supervisor, told the company's story to the commission.

Figures he presented merely brought up to Ap. 1 30 those the company used earlier to get increases which added 25 or 50 cents a month to most telephone bills in the state, starting last February.

The PSC authorized these increases on a temporary basis, pending a decision on permanent rates. The temporary boosts were designed to give the company $1,800,000 more a year in gross income, $830,000 more a year in net income, and a return of between 5.75 and 6 per cent on its investment.

The temporary increases were authorized for nine months, or until permanent rates were set. The company had to put up a $1,300,000 bond to cover refunds to customers in case it was decided the temporary increases weren't justified.

Allen pleaded at that time increases of 20 and 35 cents were enough. One commissioner, Wilmer Fell Davis of Denton, agreed and declined to sign the decision.

Fowler's new figures showed the company values its facilities at about 10 million dollars more than it did when it argued for the temporary increases.

Scouts Planning Order Of Arrow Council Lodge

New Honorary Unit Stresses Camping

A new lodge of the Order of the Arrow, a national organization devoted to camping, may be incorporated by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America.

At a Scoutmasters' training session last weekend at Camp Potomac, Council leaders heard a discussion of the national organization by Thomas McBride and William Krell, officers of the Order of the Arrow chapter at Winkinsburg, Pa.

Willis V. Smith, Council executive secretary, said Scoutmasters and officials attending the weekend sessions were in favor of McBride and Krell's proposal to organize a chapter here, and at present are considering the idea.

Smith explained that the Order of the Arrow is an honorary camping organization of the Scouts and its main theme is promoting the camping program.

To be eligible for membership, a Boy Scout or leader must have camped out 15 days and nights during a year and not more than seven of the days may be in summer camp. Candidates for membership are selected by members of each troops.

All induction ceremonies of the organization are based on Indian lore with colorful costumes and other props. The lodge is part of the Council organization and is in charge of the boy members with several adult advisors.

Smith pointed out that 385 of the 540 Councils in the United States have lodges in the organization with a total membership of 50,000.

Those attending the weekend sessions at the camp include James Handlan, Troop 37; Estel Oster, Troop 4; Harrison Lewis, Troop 11; Charles Smith, Clarence Bittler and Wayne Cleaver Troop 9; Joseph Grahame and Edgar Bucy, Troop 2; Commander W. E. Woodson, Jr., Troop 13.

Ronald Carpenter, and James Rafter, Troop 30, Orval Teets, William Sears and Ellis Harvey, Troop 57; J. D. Murray, Troop 14; Albert Mathias and Benjamin Frye, Troop 81; William Armbuster, Troop 1; Harold Lantz and Darwood Fike, Troop 41; Ralph Fauber, Troop 31.

Harry Fauber, Troop 71; William Hayden, Troop 70; William Burkey, Troop 6; Jasper Morris, Troop 40; Paul Crawford and David Faloon, Centerville, Pa., Troop 81; Carl Taschenberger, Troop 5, and Arlie Borror, Troop 9.

Hugh Jeffries, Troop 52; William T. Allee, district commissioner; Robert Metger, field representative.

Area Firemen Elect Officers

Urcel McCullough was recently elected president of the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

Other officers for the coming year include: Top Barnes, vice president; Fred Spencer, recording secretary; William Cage, financial secretary, Robert Phillips, treasurer.

The next meeting of the company will be on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall. Future plans of the organization call for a festival on June 19 near the fire hall. McCullough last night said area volunteer companies will be invited to participate in a street parade and there will be various concessions and booths.

Celanese Begins New Fiber Work

Celanese Corporation of America announced today that it has begun production of a new ribbon-like acetate staple fiber of 35 denier per filament for blending in yarns going into heavy fabrics such as suitings and home furnishings.

This new product, heretofore not made in the United States, gives effects which are attracting favorable attention in European-designed fabrics. The fiber will be made available in various lengths as well as in tow form. It is being produced at the Celco Plant in Narrows, Va.

Used primarily as a decorative influence, the new fiber imparts a fleck effect and sparkle to fabrics. When cross-dyed, it adds eye-appeal, and when piece-dyed gives textural appeal.

Weather

Weather turned cool yesterday with mercury stopping in the 60's. The sun was out only briefly late yesterday afternoon after an overcast began to break up. High temperature was 66 degrees as reported by Constitution Park weather station; low was 57 and at 8 p.m. thermometers stood at 60 degrees. Humidity at 6 o'clock yesterday evening was 51 per cent. The Weather Bureau said today is to be fair and cooler.

Forest Workers To Study Fire

More than 110 full-time employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks are expected to arrive Sunday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County for the beginning Monday of a three-day state fire training meeting.

District Forester William H. Johnson said that the meeting will concentrate on study of organization for combatting large scale forest fires and other disasters.

The forestry workers in the course of their training will fight a simulated forest fire.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham will be in charge of the training program. Adna R. Bond, assistant forester from the state office, will assist him.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith, Aberdeen, formerly of here, announce the birth of a daughter, May 16, at the Hartford Memorial Hospital, Havre de Grace. The mother is the former Miss Helen Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder, Augusta, W. Va.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Downin, Jr., 220 Riverview Place, a son yesterday.

Area Student Will Receive Medical Degree

Overton Himmelwright, of Hedgesville, W. Va., formerly of Eckhart, will receive a degree in medicine from the University of Maryland Medical School at commencement exercises June 6 at College Park.

He is a son of Mrs. Leroy Himmelwright, Hedgesville, and the late Leroy Himmelwright, Eckhart.

Himmelwright received his early education in Allegany County. While attending Beall High School, Frostburg, of which he is a graduate, he was active in extra curricular activities and was awarded the Lowndes Declamation Medal in his junior year.

He also participated in the school band activities and was a member of Frostburg Arion Band and the Shrine Band of Cumberland.

In June, 1944, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy and served two years at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, and was honorably discharged in July, 1946.

Dr. Himmelwright began his premedical training at the University of Maryland in September, 1946. After completing his studies at the university, he was admitted to the School of Medicine in September, 1949 and has been in Baltimore for the past four years.

During his studies, he was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, national honorary medical society.

After serving his internship at St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore, Dr. Himmelwright plans to enter general practice. He has not picked a location for his work as yet.

He was married to the former Miss Naomi Lashley of Mt. Savage in 1947.

Office Transfer Puzzles Pullen

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. told the Board of Education today he was surprised to read in the newspapers recently that his department is to be moved from Baltimore to Annapolis.

That, said Dr. Pullen, was the first he had heard about it. He added that the Board was not aware of a study made by state building engineer Albert B. Backhaus which recommended transfer of certain agencies.

The study, approved by the Board of Public Works May 11, recommended transfer to Annapolis of the Board of Education, Department of Public Welfare, the Game and Inland Fish Commission and the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Board actions today included allocation of $3,000 to $5,000 for a study of higher educational needs if approval of the budget director and state comptroller can be obtained.

It also approved the recommendation by presidents of state teachers colleges for straight $200 salary increases for instructors at those institutions.

It announced commencement dates for the five state colleges as: Frostburg, June 5; Bowie, June 6; Coppin, June 6; Salisbury, June 8; and Towson, June 9.

Newsman In Hospital

Clarence V. "Jiggs" Burns, sports editor of The Cumberland News, is a patient at Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted earlier this week for observation.

Kenneweg Company Roof Ignites

Three city fire engines were summoned to the Kenneweg Company office and warehouse at 184 Baltimore Street yesterday at 3:26 when a small blaze started on the roof.

Central Company's pumper engine and aerial ladder truck responded on the first alarm, a telephone call to fire headquarters. A moment later, Box 46 inside the building was pulled and West Side and East Side companies answered.

Firemen said the blaze damaged wooden "snowbirds" on the roof. They theorized that a spark from a passing steam engine may have started the fire. Damage was minor.

Railway To Drop Local Trains This Weekend

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP) — The Western Maryland Railway today announced arrangements for eliminating all passenger service between Hagerstown and Cumberland, abandoning all Sunday passenger trains and curtailing its Baltimore - Hagerstown passenger service.

It will be done over the Memorial Day weekend.

The Hagerstown - Cumberland trains will make their last runs Saturday, ending a service that has been in existence since 1906.

The Sunday only train each way between Hagerstown and Baltimore will make its last trip Sunday.

Also to be eliminated is a commuter train that comes into Baltimore each morning from Union Bridge and returns in the evening.

The eliminating and schedule shuffling are the result of a ruling earlier this month by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The Western Maryland had asked permission to discontinue all passenger service so it would be free to concentrate on its speciality —the fast movement of freight, mostly coal, across the western part of the state to and from Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Howls of protest arose in communities along the way and the commission declined to approve total abandonment of passenger service.

What the Western Maryland will have left is twice a day service—except Sunday—in each direction between Baltimore and Hagerstown, and once a day service—except Sunday--each way between Cumberland and Elkins, W. Va.

The 70-mile gap between Hagerstown and Cumberland means you can no longer board a train in Baltimore and get, eventually, to Elkins.

Under the new setup:

An early morning train will leave Hagerstown at 5 a.m. and arrive in Baltimore at 7:55.

Another will leave Hagerstown at 2:15 p.m. and arrive in Baltimore at 5 p.m.

The morning train in the other direction will leave Baltimore at 9:40 and arrive Hagerstown at 1:01 p.m.

The afternoon version will leave Baltimore at 5:30 and arrive in Hagerstown at 8:35.

(These schedules are given in Daylight Time. The railroad's printed schedules are in Standard Time, an hour earlier.)
